Lebanon Vote Plans Upset

Ike To Propose UN Council Summit Meeting In August

Reply To Soviet Leader Drafted By Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower will propose that he and Soviet Premier Khrushchev and other government heads discuss the Middle East crisis at a U.N. Security Council meeting sometime around Aug. 10 to 15.

The White House announced late Tuesday that Eisenhower is drafting a short reply to Khrushchev's latest summit conference proposal and that it will be delivered by week's end, and perhaps as early as Wednesday.

An authoritative U.S. official familiar with Eisenhower's thinking made these disclosures about the reply:

—Eisenhower regards United Nations headquarters in New York City as a reasonable and logical site for the proposed summit talks but would be prepared to accept another meeting place if the 11-nation Security Council preferred.

Moscow Site Rejected

—Eisenhower will rule out Moscow as a possible site, however.

—The President believes that private, informal conferences between the big power heads of government would be an inevitable corollary of any formal summit session under U.N. auspices.

—Eisenhower intends to reject specifically, in his forthcoming note to Khrushchev, what he regards as a Soviet concept of big power control of the world.

—Eisenhower plans to attend any such conference personally. "Don't make any mistake about that," the source said.

The new message will respond to Khrushchev's demand for a clear answer to his own call Monday for a five-power summit meeting.

Demonstrations Recalled

In saying Eisenhower would be willing to go to Europe—but not to Moscow—the official who is helping draft Eisenhower's reply explained:

"The memory of well organized mass demonstrations and damage to the U.S. Embassy (in Moscow) is too fresh in our minds."

Eisenhower's reported willingness to take part in some private talks will go a step toward meeting Khrushchev's insistence that leaders of the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain, France and India meet informally to discuss Middle Eastern problems.

But under the Eisenhower proposal, the Security Council meeting would be the backbone of the high-level parley. Such a meeting would provide a forum for the Soviet's accusations that U.S.-British troop landings in the Mideast endanger international peace as well as for any Western counterattack.

Faubus Wins Third Term Nomination

Arkansas Governor Gets 70 Per Cent Of Votes Counted

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Gov. Orval Faubus Tuesday night won an overwhelming endorsement of his strong stand against school integration. He swept to a landslide triumph in his bid for a third-term Democratic nomination.

By 9 p.m. (CST), 2½ hours after the polls closed, Faubus held a 100,000-vote lead over two opponents. Faubus needed only 50 per cent of the total to win renomination without a primary run-off. He held a margin of 70 per cent.

In heavily Democratic Arkansas nomination is equivalent to election.

With 1,655 of 2,321 precincts tabulation, Faubus had 166,193 votes of the total 230,538. Chris Finkbeiner, 37, Little Rock packing company executive, had 32,030 and Lee Ward, 51, state judge from Paragould, 32,315.

On television, at 9:10 p.m., Faubus issued a statement of victory.

Emotional Campaign

The voting climaxed a tense, emotional campaign which centered around Gov. Faubus' controversial actions in fighting court-ordered integration of Central High School here last fall.

Reports from polling places indicated that Arkansas voters apparently turned out in greater numbers than expected despite afternoon showers in most sections of the state. Secretary of State C. G. Hall in a pre-election prediction had estimated a fairly light vote of 300,000.

A hired pollster who took a survey for Gov. Faubus released his findings to the press Tuesday morning stating Faubus would get about 70 per cent of the votes cast.

Faubus Foes Expect Run-Off

Both Finkbeiner and Ward expressed confidence that a run-off would be required. If Faubus failed to get more than 50 per cent of the vote cast he would meet the next highest candidate in a second primary Aug. 12.

Both opponents of Faubus' third term bid have criticized his attempt to block integration with use of National Guard troops here last September. They endorse segregation but have called for similar "law and order" action in trying to maintain it.

7 Shot To Death In Bold Attempt At Coup In Haiti

TELLS OF COUP TRY — Jules Blanchet, Haitian minister without portfolio, listens to a question at a news conference in New York following yesterday's attempted coup against the regime of Haiti's President Francois Duvalier. Reports from the Negro republic said that seven men who tried the coup were shot to death. At least seven other men also were killed. At Least Seven Others Killed In Blaze Of Gunfire

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) —A bold attempt to overthrow the government of this Caribbean Negro republic was snuffed out in a blaze of gunfire Tuesday.

Seven men who tried the coup were shot dead. At least seven other men also were killed.

Authorities identified one dead plotter as Arthur Payne, a deputy sheriff from Miami, Fla. They said another was believed to be an American and two others were Spanish-speaking foreigners.

The three others killed were exiled Haitian ex-army officers from Miami, who supported the comeback hopes of former President Paul Magloire, the army said.

Magloire from exile in New York denied any connection with the plot.

The shooting erupted in the area of the National Palace. Officers said President Francois Duvalier and other high officials were in the thick of the fighting from the start.

Duvalier Praises Army

Duvalier, in an army uniform with second lieutenant's bars, a steel helmet bearing a major's insignia and with a pistol on his belt, made a noon broadcast praising the army and his supporters.

"The army and people realized this historic day with loyalism and fidelity," he said. "They have understood that only peace and order will help the country."

Interior Minister Frederic Duvigneaud, with a pistol stuck in his belt, called a news conference to announce the government had the situation completely under control.

A 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew was enforced. The Port-Au-Prince airport was closed Monday morning.

Launch Intercepted

Duvigneaud gave this account of the attempted coup:

Army commanders were alerted at 11 p.m. Monday night that a launch had made a clandestine landing near St. Marc, 45 miles northwest of Port-Au-Prince. A government commando unit was rushed to the scene. The launch, modern weapons and ammunition were seized. The plotters fled, seized transportation and sped to Port-au-Prince.

In the city they seized an army barracks about 300 yards from the National Palace, capturing 50 soldiers.

The rebels sent an ultimatum to the government and then opened fire on the palace. Officials and guards at the palace replied with gunfire and the army launched a counterattack.

When the shooting was over, the bodies of the seven coup men were sprawled in the yellow stucco barracks.

Rebel Group Blasts Hopes For Solution

Attempt On Life Of Premier Fails By Split Second

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The National Front, extremist opposition to Lebanon's pro-Western government, dashed hopes Tuesday of any early solution to the nation's presidential crisis.

An attempt to assassinate Sami Solh, the Moslem Premier, and heavy spatters of gunfire in Beirut emphasized that withdrawal of American troops was not yet in sight, that Lebanon's crisis—now 81 days old—would continue yet a while.

Solh escaped death by a split second when a car parked at the side of the road exploded as he was driving into the capital. The blast killed eight persons and seriously injured a young girl in an automobile preceding him. A detonating wire ran up the hill from the car. Two men were seen to run away from the spot after the blast, firing their guns.

Rebels Balk At Compromise

The National Front, a rebel coalition led by Saeb Salam from the barricaded Moslem sector of Basta, put its foot down on a compromise in the election of a new president just as it seemed Gen. Fuad Shehab, the army commander, might be chosen Thursday by a nearly unanimous vote of the 66-member Parliament.

After a 5½-hour meeting, the group declared it would support no candidate for president unless he agreed to demand immediate withdrawal of American troops from Lebanon. It also demanded immediate resignation of pro-Western President Camille Chamoun, whose term is not up until Sept. 23.

In Tripoli, Rashid Karami, the north Lebanese rebel leader, made identical demands.

These conditions for the opposition's support appeared to put Shehab in an impossible position. If he agrees to the conditions he almost certainly would be vetoed by the pro-government majority in Parliament.

Insists On Unanimous Vote

If he rejects the demands he might be elected, but he would face continued rebellion and disorder. The National Front has only a few members in Parliament but it controls substantial private armies, mobs and terrorists who could keep the country in turmoil.

Informants close to Shehab said he had agreed to become a candidate only on the basis that his election by Parliament would be by unanimous vote, and that no prior conditions be attached by either side.

The U.S. Embassy said that even if Shehab receded from his stand and agreed to rebel demands, American troops would not be withdrawn soon.

An embassy spokesman said the troops would be pulled out only when internal security is re-established and the United Nations adequately guarantees Lebanon's independence.

House Passes Self-Employed Tax Relief Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Tuesday passed a bill that would permit self-employed persons to put aside part of their income for their old age and pay the taxes on it when they draw it out after retirement.

The measure was sent to the Senate without a record vote despite administration objections to the cost of the bill and criticism that it would help only the big income taxpayer. The bill was one of 62 the House voted on in a four-hour session under a procedure that required a two-thirds majority.

The Rules Committee cleared for House action on Thursday a Social Security bill affecting far more people. It would raise the Social Security tax on workers and their employers and provide a 7 per cent increase in retirement benefits.

Under the bill passed Tuesday, self-employed persons, such as doctors and lawyers, could defer taxes until retirement on 10 per cent of their income up to $2,500 a year, provided they put the money into their own retirement funds.

A lifetime limit of $50,000 on the amounts that could be set aside would be imposed. The bill also fixes the retirement age at no earlier than 65 and no later than 70.

U.S. Steel Plans No Price Boosts At Present Time

NEW YORK (UPI)—Roger M. Blough, chairman of U. S. Steel Corp., said Tuesday that the nation's biggest steel company has no increase in steel prices in mind "at the present time," and added that he cannot predict when an increase will come.

However, he said that direct employment costs that the company has absorbed since the first of the year amount to "well over $4 a ton." Since Jan. 1 the company has granted wage increases amounting to more than 26 cents an hour to steel workers under a three-year union contract.

Blough was asked at a news conference if the "unclarified" economic and commercial factors that caused the company to postpone a price increase July 1, had "clarified" themselves. He replied that he "didn't think so."

Asked further whether he could predict when factors would clarify themselves he replied he could not.

Baghdad Pact Nations Agree To Tighten Ties

LONDON (UPI) — The Baghdad Pact nations pledged themselves anew Tuesday night to combat "by all possible legitimate means" the spread of indirect aggression in the Middle East.

In a communique winding up the two-day session of their council here, they announced also their approval of action by the United States and Britain in moving ground troops into Lebanon and Jordan.

They agreed to maintain close contact "in order to achieve the aims and purposes of their association for mutual cooperation and to strengthen their ability to resist direct or indirect aggression."

The communique was issued on behalf of the United States, Britain, Turkey, Iran, and Pakistan. U.S. Ambassador John Hay Whitney represented Secretary of State John Foster Dulles at the conference Tuesday. Dulles had returned to Washington after Monday's session.

It was reported authoritatively that in the secret session of the council Tuesday future relations with Iraq were discussed in detail. Iraq, from whose capital the Baghdad Pact draws its name, was expected to defect from the alliance as a result of the July 14 coup which overthrew the rule of King Faisal.

Sources said that no immediate action was decided on but that the tendency of all was in favor of ultimate recognition of the new Iraqi Republic.

The ministers were reported also to have discussed Lebanon and Jordan at length, with frequent references to dangers of "indirect aggression" by radio propaganda, sabotage, secret agents, and smuggling of weapons and explosives.

Kennedy Names NAM As Labor Bill's "Killer"

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) said Tuesday a general labor bill apparently is dead for this session. He named the National Assn. of Manufacturers as the killer.

House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) also said he doubted there would be any action this year.

The bill, cosponsored by Kennedy and Sen. Irvin M. Ives (R-NY), passed the Senate 88-1 June 17 after a bitter debate in which many moves to broaden the measure were beaten.

Advocates had hoped to get the bill through the House under a rules suspension procedure requiring a two-thirds vote without sending it to that body's Labor Committee.

But Kennedy conceded in a Senate speech this would not work. He said a House leader he did not name had told him it is possible now that the measure could not even get a majority.

The bill was referred to the House Labor Committee Tuesday a move seen as burying it for the 1958 session.

Kennedy said the opposition "has been spearheaded by one lobby only, the National Assn. of Manufacturers, aided by other lobbyist groups with which it is associated."

Kennedy said that "to many businessmen, this NAM-led attack is inexplicable."

Bill Creating Space Agency Signed By Ike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower signed into law Tuesday a bill creating a powerful new federal space agency to supervise all this country's efforts to unlock the secrets of the universe.

He also issued a special statement hailing the bill as a "historic step" which will help the United States lead the world in the exploration of space. The bill pledges the agency to "peaceful purposes for the benefit of all mankind."

Eisenhower asked Congress to establish the new agency last fall after Russia stunned the world by launching the world's first two artificial satellites.

The agency, to be called the Aeronautics and Space Administration (ASA), will be built around the 38-year-old National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics.

The new agency, to be headed by a $22,500-a-year administrator, will plan, direct and conduct all of this country's peaceful air and space research under President Eisenhower's personal day-to-day supervision.

Hoffa Faces New Rackets Probe Quiz

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Rackets Committee announced Tuesday it will begin hearings Thursday on alleged conniving among gangsters, labor union officials and businessmen in many large cities.

Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark) named James R. Hoffa, International Teamsters Union President as a major witness.

The committee, after some stormy clashes with Hoffa, already has accused him of deals with the underworld in which it contends hoodlums reaped rich financial rewards and Hoffa enhanced his union power.

Ike Told Senate May Hike Defense Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican congressional leaders told President Eisenhower Tuesday the Senate is likely to vote the Defense Department 40 billion dollars—over a billion more than he requested.

Sen. Leverett Saltonstall (R-Mass) said this word also was given Secretary of Defense McElroy at a White House Meeting.

He quoted McElroy as saying $1,623,000,000 of funds proposed for jet bombers, tankers, airlift equipment and submarines is not needed.

Atlas Test 'Scrubbed'

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — The Air Force called off a scheduled test Tuesday of the second intercontinental Atlas missile equipped with all three of its engines. No explanation of the "scrubbing" was given.

Drone Destroyed By Nike Hercules

EGLIN AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP)—Two Nike Hercules ground-to-air missiles were fired at a three-second interval Tuesday and streaked about 47 miles out of the Gulf in a successful test.

The first missile, carrying an explosive warhead, destroyed an F80 drone fighter leading a three-drone flight.

The second missile, with an instrumented warhead, passed just in front of the second drone—as planned. Technical information about the near-miss was telemetered back to ground facilities on nearby Santa Rosa Island.

N.Y. GOP Leader Dies

Salk Confirms His Staff Seeks Cure For Cancer

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Dr. Jonas Salk, who made medical history with the development of the anti-polio vaccine, confirmed Tuesday his researchers are conducting experiments with cancer but stressed "we have no treatment for cancer."

The University of Pittsburgh scientist has avoided comment on the studies lest cancer patients gain the impression that a cure for the disease has been found.

"It is true that we have been conducting experiments in many persons with a variety of cancer and cancer-like conditions," Dr. Salk said. "But we have no treatment for cancer."

Dr. Salk has been conducting tests of 5-year-old Mary Ann Paul, of Cecil, Washington County, Pa. The girl suffers with Ewing's sarcoma, a tumor of the shaft of long bones.

"Our studies are of a strictly exploratory nature intended to tell us something about the nature of cells that grow in tissue culture," said Dr. Salk.

The scientist is deluged with mail whenever his name is mentioned in connection with cancer research.

"When the time comes that we have something of consequence to report, we will do so," Dr. Salk concluded.

Three More Killed In Cyprus Violence

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—Three more Cypriots died Tuesday in this island's ceaseless communal disorders. Saboteurs stepped up activity and arsonists fired buildings in scattered parts of Cyprus.

In this blackest month in the three years of island strife, 89 people have died. Of these 45 were Turkish Cypriots, 42 were Greek Cypriots and 2 were British soldiers.

The Greek majority and the Turkish Cypriots are battling over the future of this British colony. The Greek Cypriots want union with Greece. The Turks demand partition.

Woman Who Refused Transfusions Dies

HAVERHILL, Mass. (UPI) — A 43-year-old mother who steadfastly refused to accept blood transfusions on religious grounds, died at a hospital Tuesday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Denno, who suffered from a bleeding bowel ulcer, had been hospitalized off and on since last September. She died at 4:18 p. m. e.d.t. at Hale Hospital. Doctors had said previously that transfusions were needed to save her life.

Congress Adjournment Prospects Brighten

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prospects for adjournment of the 85th Congress before Aug. 16 brightened Tuesday: The House passed 62 bills in a four-hour session.

"We can adjourn by Aug. 9 if the members want to," Democratic Leader John McCormack (Mass) told newsmen at the day's end.

Publisher Dies

Probers Begin Contempt Action Against Goldfine

WASHINGTON (AP)—Contempt of Congress proceedings were launched Tuesday against Sherman Adams' good friend Bernard Goldfine.

A House subcommittee recommended unanimously that Goldfine be cited for contempt because of his refusal to answer 23 questions about his financial dealings.

Declaring the subcommittee had an ironclad case against the Boston textile and real estate magnate, Rep. Peter Mack (D-Ill) predicted the House would issue a contempt citation before Congress adjourns next month. A legal question would arise if no action were taken at this session.

The 67-year-old Goldfine was called before the subcommittee after it was disclosed that Adams, President Eisenhower's No. 1 White House aide, had accepted expensive favors from him. Goldfine answered many questions readily but balked at telling the investigators about dealings with Boston real estate companies in which he has a majority interest. Surrounded and advised by a squad of lawyers, Goldfine contended the questions were irrelevant.

He maintained they had nothing to do with the subcommittee's inquiry into whether improper pressure had been applied on federal agencies.

Eight Airmen Perish In Crash Of Jet Bomber

LIMESTONE, Maine (AP) — Eight men plunged to death Tuesday in the crash of their B52 jet bomber three miles south of Loring Air Force Base. An instructor-pilot survived.

Wreckage from the eight-million-dollar bomber, equipped to carry nuclear weapons, was scattered over a 20-acre area, barely missing several houses. The crash shattered windows at the nearby home of Carl Ireland and broke dishes in the kitchen of William Oulette.

Officials at the huge Strategic Air Command base near the U.S.-Canadian border said the eight-jet craft vanished in 400-foot ceiling weather while circling for a landing after one practice approach.

The survivor, Maj. Moody E. Deaton, 35, Denison, Tex., suffered second-degree burns of the face and neck. He was found about 100 yards from the bulk of the wreckage, his parachute open. It was believed he was ejected before the crash. Deaton was in good condition at the base hospital.

A lifetime limit of $50,000 on the amounts that could be set aside would be imposed. The bill also fixes the retirement age at no earlier than 65 and no later than 70.

U.S. Steel Plans No Price Boosts At Present Time

NEW YORK (UPI)—Roger M. Blough, chairman of U. S. Steel Corp., said Tuesday that the nation's biggest steel company has no increase in steel prices in mind "at the present time," and added that he cannot predict when an increase will come.

However, he said that direct employment costs that the company has absorbed since the first of the year amount to "well over $4 a ton." Since Jan. 1 the company has granted wage increases amounting to more than 26 cents an hour to steel workers under a three-year union contract.

Blough was asked at a news conference if the "unclarified" economic and commercial factors that caused the company to postpone a price increase July 1, had "clarified" themselves. He replied that he "didn't think so."

Asked further whether he could predict when factors would clarify themselves he replied he could not.

Baghdad Pact Nations Agree To Tighten Ties

LONDON (UPI) — The Baghdad Pact nations pledged themselves anew Tuesday night to combat "by all possible legitimate means" the spread of indirect aggression in the Middle East.

In a communique winding up the two-day session of their council here, they announced also their approval of action by the United States and Britain in moving ground troops into Lebanon and Jordan.

They agreed to maintain close contact "in order to achieve the aims and purposes of their association for mutual cooperation and to strengthen their ability to resist direct or indirect aggression."

The communique was issued on behalf of the United States, Britain, Turkey, Iran, and Pakistan. U.S. Ambassador John Hay Whitney represented Secretary of State John Foster Dulles at the conference Tuesday. Dulles had returned to Washington after Monday's session.

It was reported authoritatively that in the secret session of the council Tuesday future relations with Iraq were discussed in detail. Iraq, from whose capital the Baghdad Pact draws its name, was expected to defect from the alliance as a result of the July 14 coup which overthrew the rule of King Faisal.

Sources said that no immediate action was decided on but that the tendency of all was in favor of ultimate recognition of the new Iraqi Republic.

The ministers were reported also to have discussed Lebanon and Jordan at length, with frequent references to dangers of "indirect aggression" by radio propaganda, sabotage, secret agents, and smuggling of weapons and explosives.

Drone Destroyed By Nike Hercules

EGLIN AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP)—Two Nike Hercules ground-to-air missiles were fired at a three-second interval Tuesday and streaked about 47 miles out of the Gulf in a successful test.

The first missile, carrying an explosive warhead, destroyed an F80 drone fighter leading a three-drone flight.

The second missile, with an instrumented warhead, passed just in front of the second drone—as planned. Technical information about the near-miss was telemetered back to ground facilities on nearby Santa Rosa Island.

Ike Told Senate May Hike Defense Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican congressional leaders told President Eisenhower Tuesday the Senate is likely to vote the Defense Department 40 billion dollars—over a billion more than he requested.

Sen. Leverett Saltonstall (R-Mass) said this word also was given Secretary of Defense McElroy at a White House Meeting.

He quoted McElroy as saying $1,623,000,000 of funds proposed for jet bombers, tankers, airlift equipment and submarines is not needed.

Atlas Test 'Scrubbed'

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — The Air Force called off a scheduled test Tuesday of the second intercontinental Atlas missile equipped with all three of its engines. No explanation of the "scrubbing" was given.

N.Y. GOP Leader Dies

Kennedy Names NAM As Labor Bill's "Killer"

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) said Tuesday a general labor bill apparently is dead for this session. He named the National Assn. of Manufacturers as the killer.

House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) also said he doubted there would be any action this year.

The bill, cosponsored by Kennedy and Sen. Irvin M. Ives (R-NY), passed the Senate 88-1 June 17 after a bitter debate in which many moves to broaden the measure were beaten.

Advocates had hoped to get the bill through the House under a rules suspension procedure requiring a two-thirds vote without sending it to that body's Labor Committee.

But Kennedy conceded in a Senate speech this would not work. He said a House leader he did not name had told him it is possible now that the measure could not even get a majority.

The bill was referred to the House Labor Committee Tuesday a move seen as burying it for the 1958 session.

Kennedy said the opposition "has been spearheaded by one lobby only, the National Assn. of Manufacturers, aided by other lobbyist groups with which it is associated."

Kennedy said that "to many businessmen, this NAM-led attack is inexplicable."

Bill Creating Space Agency Signed By Ike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower signed into law Tuesday a bill creating a powerful new federal space agency to supervise all this country's efforts to unlock the secrets of the universe.

He also issued a special statement hailing the bill as a "historic step" which will help the United States lead the world in the exploration of space. The bill pledges the agency to "peaceful purposes for the benefit of all mankind."

Eisenhower asked Congress to establish the new agency last fall after Russia stunned the world by launching the world's first two artificial satellites.

The agency, to be called the Aeronautics and Space Administration (ASA), will be built around the 38-year-old National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics.

The new agency, to be headed by a $22,500-a-year administrator, will plan, direct and conduct all of this country's peaceful air and space research under President Eisenhower's personal day-to-day supervision.

Hoffa Faces New Rackets Probe Quiz

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Rackets Committee announced Tuesday it will begin hearings Thursday on alleged conniving among gangsters, labor union officials and businessmen in many large cities.

Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark) named James R. Hoffa, International Teamsters Union President as a major witness.

The committee, after some stormy clashes with Hoffa, already has accused him of deals with the underworld in which it contends hoodlums reaped rich financial rewards and Hoffa enhanced his union power.

Congress Adjournment Prospects Brighten

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prospects for adjournment of the 85th Congress before Aug. 16 brightened Tuesday: The House passed 62 bills in a four-hour session.

"We can adjourn by Aug. 9 if the members want to," Democratic Leader John McCormack (Mass) told newsmen at the day's end.

Publisher Dies

Eight Airmen Perish In Crash Of Jet Bomber

LIMESTONE, Maine (AP) — Eight men plunged to death Tuesday in the crash of their B52 jet bomber three miles south of Loring Air Force Base. An instructor-pilot survived.

Wreckage from the eight-million-dollar bomber, equipped to carry nuclear weapons, was scattered over a 20-acre area, barely missing several houses. The crash shattered windows at the nearby home of Carl Ireland and broke dishes in the kitchen of William Oulette.

Officials at the huge Strategic Air Command base near the U.S.-Canadian border said the eight-jet craft vanished in 400-foot ceiling weather while circling for a landing after one practice approach.

The survivor, Maj. Moody E. Deaton, 35, Denison, Tex., suffered second-degree burns of the face and neck. He was found about 100 yards from the bulk of the wreckage, his parachute open. It was believed he was ejected before the crash. Deaton was in good condition at the base hospital.

Salk Confirms His Staff Seeks Cure For Cancer

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Dr. Jonas Salk, who made medical history with the development of the anti-polio vaccine, confirmed Tuesday his researchers are conducting experiments with cancer but stressed "we have no treatment for cancer."

The University of Pittsburgh scientist has avoided comment on the studies lest cancer patients gain the impression that a cure for the disease has been found.

"It is true that we have been conducting experiments in many persons with a variety of cancer and cancer-like conditions," Dr. Salk said. "But we have no treatment for cancer."

Dr. Salk has been conducting tests of 5-year-old Mary Ann Paul, of Cecil, Washington County, Pa. The girl suffers with Ewing's sarcoma, a tumor of the shaft of long bones.

"Our studies are of a strictly exploratory nature intended to tell us something about the nature of cells that grow in tissue culture," said Dr. Salk.

The scientist is deluged with mail whenever his name is mentioned in connection with cancer research.

"When the time comes that we have something of consequence to report, we will do so," Dr. Salk concluded.

Three More Killed In Cyprus Violence

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—Three more Cypriots died Tuesday in this island's ceaseless communal disorders. Saboteurs stepped up activity and arsonists fired buildings in scattered parts of Cyprus.

In this blackest month in the three years of island strife, 89 people have died. Of these 45 were Turkish Cypriots, 42 were Greek Cypriots and 2 were British soldiers.

The Greek majority and the Turkish Cypriots are battling over the future of this British colony. The Greek Cypriots want union with Greece. The Turks demand partition.

Woman Who Refused Transfusions Dies

HAVERHILL, Mass. (UPI) — A 43-year-old mother who steadfastly refused to accept blood transfusions on religious grounds, died at a hospital Tuesday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Denno, who suffered from a bleeding bowel ulcer, had been hospitalized off and on since last September. She died at 4:18 p. m. e.d.t. at Hale Hospital. Doctors had said previously that transfusions were needed to save her life.

Probers Begin Contempt Action Against Goldfine

WASHINGTON (AP)—Contempt of Congress proceedings were launched Tuesday against Sherman Adams' good friend Bernard Goldfine.

A House subcommittee recommended unanimously that Goldfine be cited for contempt because of his refusal to answer 23 questions about his financial dealings.

Declaring the subcommittee had an ironclad case against the Boston textile and real estate magnate, Rep. Peter Mack (D-Ill) predicted the House would issue a contempt citation before Congress adjourns next month. A legal question would arise if no action were taken at this session.

The 67-year-old Goldfine was called before the subcommittee after it was disclosed that Adams, President Eisenhower's No. 1 White House aide, had accepted expensive favors from him. Goldfine answered many questions readily but balked at telling the investigators about dealings with Boston real estate companies in which he has a majority interest. Surrounded and advised by a squad of lawyers, Goldfine contended the questions were irrelevant.

He maintained they had nothing to do with the subcommittee's inquiry into whether improper pressure had been applied on federal agencies.

CED Says U.S. Could Pay Billions More For Arms

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Committee for Economic Development said Tuesday the United States could afford to pay billions more for defense, if necessary.

It added, however, there is an urgent need for better management of the spending.

The CED is a privately supported research organization of businessmen. It praised President Eisenhower's proposals for reorganization of the Defense Department, which Congress has approved in large measure.

National defense policy, CED said in a review, must be geared to the assumption that the Communist threat "will continue into the distant future, and that its removal is not within our control."

The report was issued at a news conference by T. V. Houser, chairman of CED's research and policy committee and director of Sears, Roebuck & Co.; and William C. Foster, vice president of Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp. and former deputy secretary of defense.

The CED made these further recommendations:

1. Create the post of civilian director of defense research and engineering, to obtain greater diversity in military research, quicker decisions, and broader participation and rivalry among defense contractors.

2. Improve the attractiveness of careers in defense work.

3. Relieve the Defense Department of pressures from special interest groups.

4. Transfer many functions now performed by military personnel to civilian personnel; also, shift more jobs now done by the government to private contractors.

5. Make congressional participation in defense planning more effective.

The report said Eisenhower's recommendations on reorganization of the top administrative echelons at the Pentagon were framed to meet some of the major deficiencies in defense management.

"These recommendations appear to have been completely arrived at," it added. The report noted that defense costs have averaged 11 per cent of the value of the country's entire production for the past three years, and it now appears that even this huge amount may have been inadequate.

Court Rebuffs Arundel Co. In Legal Ad Row

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Circuit Judge James McGill has denied —at least for the time being—a move by county officials asking dismissal of an injunction which bars them from publishing legal advertisements in a free-distribution newspaper.

In overruling the demurrer by the county, Judge McGill said Tuesday he acted on "the spur of the moment" and left the door open for reconsideration of the motion after he hears additional facts.

The temporary injunction was granted two weeks ago by Judge Benjamin Michaelson on complaint of William R. Woodfield, Galesville seafood packer, civic and church leader.

Woodfield challenged the action of Anne Arundel County commissioners in awarding a tax sale notice contract to the Anne Arundel Observer. He contended the paper is a "throw-away" in that it is distributed without charge; that it is not circulated generally in four districts of the county; that it does not meet the General Assembly definition of a newspaper because it is given away.

The Observer and the Anne Arundel Star were awarded contracts to publish the tax notices after the commissioners rejected higher bids by the Maryland Gazette-Glen Burnie News and the Annapolis Evening Capital, both published by Capital-Gazette Press Inc.

The Observer has backed the Ralph L. Lowman Democratic organization, which now controls the county government but which is on its way out. It was defeated for renomination in the May 20 primary by a rival slate headed by State Sen. Louis N. Phipps and backed by the Capital and Gazette.

In asking dismissal of the injuncion, Marvin I. Anderson, counsel for the county commissioners, contended the General Assembly definition of the term "newspaper" is not applicable in the case. Even if it were, he said, the Observer could meet the definition.

Anderson also contended the case should be dismissed because Woodfield's suit failed to show a "joinder of parties" in that it did not name the Observer as a defendant.

FREED DEFECTOR—Dr. Otto John, former West German intelligence chief whose mysterious defection to Communist East Germany in 1954 earned him a four-year treason sentence on his voluntary return to the West, leaves his lawyer's car on arrival at his Cologne home. John consistently maintained that he was drugged and kidnaped by a friend. (AP Photofax)

Four Drown In Baltimore Area

BALTIMORE (AP)—Four persons drowned Tuesday in Baltimore area waters.

Two of the victims, Brenda Davis, 9, and Evelyn Boston, 12, both of Baltimore, drowned in Curtis Creek just north of the Coast Guard yard in nearby Anne Arundel County.

Raymond Virgin, 16, disappeared in Clements Cove near the Baltimore County community of Turner Station when he slipped off an innertube in 20 feet of water. The Negro youth's body was not recovered immediately and dragging operations were begun.

The fourth victim was George W. Kearney, 43, a Negro, whose body was recovered from the harbor by a police boat.

Coast Guard personnel made a vain attempt to rescue the two girls. Several guardsmen jumped overboard from a cutter when the girls were seen floundering in the water. Artificial respiration was applied after the bodies were recovered.

Gavin Accuses Pentagon Of Deception, Duplicity

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin, who retired from Army duty last March after disagreeing with Defense Department policy, said Tuesday there was deception and duplicity in the Pentagon's treatment of the Army's commanders.

Gavin also quoted one unidentified chief of staff as saying that former Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson "was the most uninformed man, and the most determined to remain so, that has ever been secretary."

Gavin made his statements in the first of two articles published by Life magazine from Gavin's forthcoming book, "War and Peace in the Space Age" (Harper & Bros.).

Wilson, reached at his summer home in Boyne City, Mich., said:

"Gavin has no basis for his comments. He was not that close to me. I talked to him only on rare occasions."

"I know Gavin, and he is just another overly inflated Army officer with an exaggerated regard of his ability," Wilson said.

"He's just trying to sell his book."

In the article from the book Gavin said:

1. There is a great deal wrong with the nation's defense, including the missile lag. The United States is in mortal danger, with the Soviet Union steadily increasing its ballistic missile capability. This lag will last for three and more likely five years, depending upon the effort this country is willing to make.

2. The Army undertook, in 1951, development of a 450-mile range ballistic missile which subsequently was reduced to 200 miles to adapt it to the then heavy hydrogen warhead. But few outside the Army displayed interest. In 1956 Wilson issued his order limiting the range of Army missiles to 200 miles. This also prohibited the Army from using missiles beyond that range even though it developed such weapons as the 1,500-mile range Jupiter IRBM.

LOANS ABOVE $300 MADE UNDER INDUSTRIAL FINANCE LAW

Three Cities Added To Labor Surplus List

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Labor Department added three cities Tuesday to its list of major industrial areas with "substantial" unemployment but said signs point to a slight job pickup in the months ahead.

Added to the list of areas with 6 per cent or more of the total labor force unemployed were Los Angeles-Long Beach, Calif.; Birmingham, Ala., and Milwaukee, Wis.

The department said 89 of the nation's 149 major labor markets now fall into the substantial unemployment area and added that this situation probably would continue for the next few months.

Cliff-Climbing Boy Tumbles 30 Feet

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md. (AP) —Eleven-year-old David Ramsey fell 30 feet while cliff climbing Tuesday and was in fair condition at Harford Memorial Hospital.

Police said the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Ramsey of Streett, Md. was climbing cliffs with friends in Rocks State Park near Bel Air. He lost his grip and fell 30 feet down the face of a cliff.

Doctors said he suffered a fractured right wrist, fractured left arm, hip injuries, a possible concussion and multiple lacerations.

Arctic-Bound Blimp Grounded By Weather

LAKEHURST, N.J. (AP) — Weather kept a North Pole-bound Navy blimp grounded for the second day Tuesday.

The sun broke through overcast skies here before noon but the weather remained bad in upper New York State, the route the 343-foot exploration blimp planned to take to the arctic.

The 14-man crew of the airship remained at the naval air station, ready to take off on two hours' notice.

Stampless Slots Seized

BALTIMORE (AP) — Federal agents seized 15 slot machines lacking gambling tax stamps Tuesday in a series of raids in the Southern Maryland counties of Charles and St. Marys.

Intelligence agents of the Internal Revenue Service said the machines were seized and brought to the Treasury Department's garage here because the $250 federal gambling tax stamp required for each gambling device had not been purchased as of July 1.

An IRS spokesman said U. S. District Court would decide upon final disposition of the slot machines.

They were seized, agents said, at a tavern in Indian Head, Charles County, and at a Pisgah tavern and Lexington Park tavern and restaurant in St. Marys County.

Slot machines are legal in both counties if county permits and the federal stamps are purchased.

An act of the 1958 General Assembly, outlawing slot machines on the Potomac River, has been declared unsonstitutional in Circuit Court. Maryland's attorney general has appealed and the Court of Appeals will hear the case on its September docket.

Earlier today, a Baltimore city councilman said he plans to introduce a bill which would make it prima facie evidence when a person buys a federal gambling tax stamp.

Councilman Richard D. Byrd said his bill would be aimed at those operating pinball machines that pay off in money or other prizes. There is a city ordinance against gambling.

Housewife Traps Bat In Refrigerator

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — Mrs. Charles P. Schreck was home alone Wednesday night when a bat flew in through the kitchen window.

She turned out all the lights and opened the refrigerator door. The bat spied the little light in the refrigerator and flew in, Mrs. Schreck closed the door.

About an hour later she opened the door and found the bat frozen to death. She removed it, scrubbed the refrigerator, replaced the food she had removed and went to bed.

Intelligence agents of the Internal Revenue Service said the machines were seized and brought to the Treasury Department's garage here because the $250 federal gambling tax stamp required for each gambling device had not been purchased as of July 1.

An IRS spokesman said U. S. District Court would decide upon final disposition of the slot machines.

They were seized, agents said, at a tavern in Indian Head, Charles County, and at a Pisgah tavern and Lexington Park tavern and restaurant in St. Marys County.

Slot machines are legal in both counties if county permits and the federal stamps are purchased.

An act of the 1958 General Assembly, outlawing slot machines on the Potomac River, has been declared unsonstitutional in Circuit Court. Maryland's attorney general has appealed and the Court of Appeals will hear the case on its September docket.

Earlier today, a Baltimore city councilman said he plans to introduce a bill which would make it prima facie evidence when a person buys a federal gambling tax stamp.

Councilman Richard D. Byrd said his bill would be aimed at those operating pinball machines that pay off in money or other prizes. There is a city ordinance against gambling.

Housewife Traps Bat In Refrigerator

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — Mrs. Charles P. Schreck was home alone Wednesday night when a bat flew in through the kitchen window.

She turned out all the lights and opened the refrigerator door. The bat spied the little light in the refrigerator and flew in. Mrs. Schreck closed the door.

About an hour later she opened the door and found the bat frozen to death. She removed it, scrubbed the refrigerator, replaced the food she had removed and went to bed.

Anna Rowe Becomes Bride Of A-3C David A. Conley

Miss Anna Margaret Rowe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger F. Rowe, 2 Boone Street, became the bride of A/3C David A. Conley, son of Mrs. Delores Conley, Washington, and David Conley, 22 South Liberty Street, Monday. The wedding ceremony was solemnized at a nuptial mass at 11 a. m. in St. Mary's Catholic Church, with Rev. James Hobbs officiating.

The bride had her sister, Mrs. Nancy Edwards, as her matron of honor; while Miss Sharon Conley and Miss Karen Conley, twin sisters of the bridegroom, were the bridesmaids. Toby Conley, USAF, stationed in Massachusetts, served as his brother's best man. Noel Conley and Larry Brown were the ushers.

A program of nuptial music was played by Miss Earlene Humbertson, who also accompanied James Galford, vocalist, singing, "Ave Maria," "Panis Angelicus," "O Lord I Am Not Worthy," and "Mother at Thy Feet I'm Kneeling." Miss Humbertson also played the wedding march from the opera Lohengrin, and Mendelssohn's recessional.

The bride was attired in a ballerina-length gown of white lace over taffeta, fashioned with a scalloped neckline and hemline; long sleeves and a cascade of ruffles down the back. Her fingertip-length veil was held by a net headdress, trimmed in pearls. Completing her costume, she carried a prayerbook with flower marker.

Her matron of honor wore a sleeveless ballerina-length gown of white lace over pink taffeta. It had a chiffon neckline and panel down the back. With it she wore a small pink flower hat and carried a bouquet of pink gladiolus, with blue ribbon streamers.

The bridesmaids wore blue lace over blue taffeta gowns, with matching three-quarter-length lace jacket, fashioned with long sleeves. They had matching headdress and carried bouquets of pink gladiolus with pink ribbon streamers.

Mrs. Rowe chose an orchid flowered dress with white hat and accessories, for her daughter's wedding. With it she had an orchid corsage. Mrs. Conley selected a pink and white lace sheath dress for the wedding. She wore a pink flowered hat and accessories and also had an orchid corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Rowe entertained with a wedding reception honoring their daughter and her bridal party. It was held at the VFW Home following the ceremony. The bridal motif was carried out in the decorations and three-tiered wedding cake, adorned with a miniature bride and bridegroom.

For their wedding trip to Washington, the bride wore a white and pink sheath dress with white accessories and an orchid corsage.

The bride will enter her senior year at Fort Hill High School this fall. She has been employed at Hager's Fruit Market. The bridegroom is a graduate of Allegany High School, class of 1957, and is serving in the Air Force at Highlands, N. J.

Entertains For Mother, Sisters

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Harden, 725 Bonnie Brae, N. E., Warren, Ohio, formerly of Cumberland, held a reunion for Mrs. Harden's mother and sisters at her home.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Everett Penrod, Mr. and Mrs. Railigh Albright of Barberton, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. George Crawford, Baltimore; Mrs. Hazel Blonskey, Cumberland; Mrs. Betty McFadden, Ridgeley, W. Va.; Sandra Harden and Trudy Harden.

To clean artificial flowers, place them heads down in a paper bag with some salt and shake well. The salt will absorb all the dust and the flowers will look refreshed and clean.

If you want your hand crochet and woven rugs to lie perfectly flat and prevent dirt from being ground into the material put them through a stiff starch solution.

Bi-County Picnic To Be Aug. 6

The annual all-day basket picnic of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Allegany-Garrett County Volunteer Firemen's Association will be held August 6. It will be at the Celanese picnic grounds and pool, McMullen Highway, beginning at 10 a. m.

Bedford Road Auxiliary is in charge of arrangements for the program and refreshments. Games for all age groups are being planned, and prizes will be awarded. Mrs. Helen Wilson and Mrs. Nancy Purnell are in charge of the games. Refreshment chairmen are Mrs. Leonard Sweitzer and Mrs. Albert Smouse.

A short business session will be conducted by Mrs. Frances Comp, Deer Park, about 3 p. m. The executive meeting will be held in September.

Approximately 23 auxiliaries comprise the bi-county association.

'Happy Birthday To You'

Legend clouds the origin of the candle trimmed birthday cake. The custom is credited to the ancient Greeks, the Romans, the Norse, the Germans. There is some evidence to support each claim of origin.

The custom for centuries has been widespread in Germany, and there is considerable amount of detail about it in literature. Sponge cakes and tortes were among the favorites. In the middle of the cake, a large candle called "Lebenslicht," or Light of Life, was placed, and it was surrounded with as many candles as the birthday person had had years. Only the one celebrating the birthday could blow out the flames. It was considered unlucky if it was done by any other person. A wish could be made as the candles were to be blown, with the understanding that it would come true in as many months as it took puffs to blow them out. In some areas, the candles were of various colors.

Celebration of an individual's birth was customary among the ancients. Aeschylus presupposes it in his writings when Apollo receives on his birthday his oracle from Phoebe. Birthdays were celebrated with prayers, sacrifices and banquets. It was the custom to offer gifts to the person whose birthday it was.

The round decorated cakes are credited to Greece, reflecting the influence of its architecture with the wide use of cylinders. The decorated square cakes are credited to the Egyptians. Cakes, as such, so folk lore states, were invented by a Sicilian baker named Thearion, who lived in the fifth century B. C.

In America, candle lighted birthday cakes, are an accepted feature of the day's celebration. The wish-making and the blowing out of the flames also are traditional here. Singing of the jingle "Happy Birthday to You" has become a pleasant accompaniment of the ceremonies preceding the slicing of the birthday cake.

FOR EVENING WEAR—This short evening dress is a creation of Countess Barbara Dessales' fashion house of Rome. It is of white organza and gold lame with a "cloud" or "wing" attachment to each side. (AP Photofax)

Planning Meeting To Be Sept. 4

Miss Joanne W. Reitz, former Allegany County home demonstration agent; and Guy Gienger of the University of Maryland Extension Service, will conduct an all-day home carpentry workshop here September 19.

Because of the nature of this meeting, Miss Mary P. Wise, home demonstration agent, announces it is necessary to limit the enrollment for this workshop to 15. Therefore, it will have to be on a first-come-first served basis, and only one member from a club.

Each club is asked to register its representative at the extension office.

A workshop planning meeting is to be held at 1:15, September 4, to make plans for the storage device to be built, so that materials needed can be ordered.

Picnic Date Set

Cumberland Chapter DeMolay has chosen August 14 as the date for its picnic, to which members of the Rainbow Girls are invited.

It is being held at Minke's picnic grounds, beginning at noon. The picnic supper will be served at 5:30. Swimming and sports events will feature the entertainment.

Leon Hammond is chairman of arrangements.

Eat Carefully

As we all know, America is certainly a nation on the go. More automobiles, for instance, are owned here in the U. S. than in any other country. Is it any wonder, then, that travel is at an all-time high during the vacation months?

If yours is to be a holiday-by-automobile, you'll find out soon enough that fresh air stimulates the appetite. Some vacationers take the easy way out—a box of cookies as an on-the-road pick-me-up. There's no doubt about it—it's tempting, especially for kids. Candy, too, is a tempting snack. But neither is a wise choice.

Fresh fruits, carrots or celery—kept refreshingly cool in a plastic zipper bag or with ice cubes in a picnic box—are much more beneficial, not only to the figure and complexion, but to your digestion as well.

Here's a good eat-and-travel method: "splurge once a day on a well-balanced meal (our Beauty Diet can tell you what that should include); then for in-between times, keep a close calorie and beauty count. For those necessary, frequent stops, fruit juices, iced or hot tea and coffee or milk are best. (For your copy of my "Beauty Diet," send 10c and a stamped, return envelope to me, John Robert Powers, c/o this paper.)

If there are any children in the family, plan to make the noon meal a picnic so that, afterwards, they can get out and run for much-needed exercise. Evening cook-out meals are another special treat for them, and a wonderful change for grown-ups as well. Afterwards, you can stretch out and daydream to your heart's content—a most satisfying way of relaxation.

LaVale Auxiliary To Hold September Dinner-Social

Members of the Ladies Auxiliary of the LaVale Volunteer Firemen's Auxiliary discussed the annual fall outing of the auxiliary and the Allegany-Garrett County picnic, at the meeting Friday at the fire hall.

Mrs. Gladys Barkey presided at the business session, at which time the revised by-laws were read for the first time. The second reading will be held at the meeting August 22.

Fourteen members registered to attend the bi-county picnic, which will be held August 6 at the Celanese pool. They are Mrs. Burkey, Mrs. Virginia Law, Mrs. Vera Jewell, Mrs. Eleanor Briner, Mrs. Elizabeth Moody, Mrs. Emma Youngblood, Mrs. Ann Kamauff, Mrs. Fannie Kemp, Mrs. Flo Alexander, Mrs. Gwen Pryor, Mrs. Leola Knierium, Mrs. Margaret O'Rourke, Mrs. Elizabeth Zembower and Mrs. Leona Long. Anyone else wishing to attend is to call Mrs. Burkey, PA 2-2198. The group will meet at the fire hall at 10 a. m., and go to the picnic together.

The annual fall outing will be held sometime in September. It is to be in the form of a dinner, followed by a social hour. Mrs. Knierium was named chairman of arrangements. Reservations are to be made with Mrs. Kemp. Semi-monthly meetings will be resumed in September.

Rinker Clan Elects Mrs. McDonald Head

Mrs. Joseph McDonald was elected president of the descendants of the late Loomis C. Rinker, at the annual reunion held July 20 at the Celanese pool. Other officers are Mrs. Wilfred Crowe, secretary, and Mrs. Fred Bishop, treasurer. It was decided to hold the next reunion July 19, 1959, at Celanese.

A picnic lunch was served and gifts presented to Donald Lee Painter, the youngest member present; and Mr. and Mrs. James McDonald, the youngest married couple. Eight visitors and 56 members attended.

Social Chart

Women of the Owls 2180 will meet Friday evening at 7:30 at the Owls Nest, with Mrs. Ella Shaffer presiding.

Water Department Plans To Operate On Budget

Water Commissioner G. Ray Light said yesterday he is going to place the department under an operating budget the same as other agencies of the city.

Light said he has requested his supervisors to submit proposals for the fiscal year by August 1, deadline for budget requests set by the finance commissioner, Mrs. Lucile Roeder.

Light continued that George M. Hitchcock, superintendent of Evitts Creek Water Company, Simon K. Carroll maintenance chief, and Andrew G. Bender, chief clerk, are preparing the necessary figures.

He said it seemed to him in the past, the policy had been to spend whatever revenue the department had. It is his intention, Light said, to attempt to get a bigger surplus at the end of the year to apply to the Sinking Fund "and retire some of these bonds which are out against us."

The department had been operated on a budget in the mid-1930s for a short time but was dropped. The Water Department is self-supporting.

Light said "We are going to attempt to live within that budget when it is completed."

The commissioner has been spending considerable time familiarizing himself with various aspects of the department including the operation of water plant at Lake Gordon.

A summons charges a person with a crime while a subpeona is served on one to appear as a witness.

Dance Contest Set Tonight

The Recreation Department announced final plans for today's intra-city rock 'n roll dance contest which gets under way at 7:30 p. m. at Gephart Playground.

Playgrounds have selected their representatives in three classifications, teen, pre-teen and tiny tot. The contest will be staged for boy-girl couples and girl couples and record albums will go to the winners for their respective playgrounds.

In conjunction with the dance contest, a poster exhibit will form the decorations. Posters will be judged and first, second and third prizes of a record awarded to playground winners.

Judges for the poster contest will be Miss Martha Shaner and Miss Mary Louise Van Pelt. Judging the dance contest will be Robert Brinker and Mrs. George Geczy.

Mrs. Eva Hogan, assistant recreation director, said girls in the dance contest are required to wear skirts or dresses. Blue jeans will not be allowed, she said.

Dance Contest Winners Listed

Winners of the rock and roll contest held at Pine Avenue Playground have been decided for the teen-age, pre-teen and tiny tot age groups.

They were Etta Beard and James Washington, Dolores Smith and Lorraine Davis, teen-age; Martrary Broome and Bonny Peck, Cynthia Frazer and Marcella Wells, pre-teens, and Debby Beckwith and Shelley Peck, tiny tots.

These winners will compete in the citywide contest today at 7:30 p. m. on the Gephart Playground.

Winners of last week's contest show were Bonny Peck, the prettiest, Elaine Frazer, most unusual, and Scherry Beard, the funniest.

A what-not show will be held this evening at the playground, with a dance to follow.

A fishing rodeo has been scheduled for August 9 and those persons interested are to register with Mrs. Peggy Frazer, playground director.

Cotopaxi, the volcano in the Ecuadorean Andes, is the tallest of the world's active volcanos.

MASHER'S REWARD—Richard Thompson, whose quest for a kiss from a certain woman led him on a four-mile, three-hour hike Monday night to the plant where she works, gets an extra one yesterday morning from the same one—his mother, Gladys. The three-year-old confronted a startled plant guard Monday night and announced he had come for a kiss because "Mommy forgot to kiss me goodnight." (AP Photofax)

Health Officer Urges Repairs

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday received but took no action on a recommendation by Dr. Ton van Strien, county health officer, that a Midland property be vacated, repaired or razed.

Dr. van Strien in a letter to the board stated that the property is owned by Mrs. Sarah Ward, of Baltimore, and that a recent inspection by J. B. Dowling, state sanitarian and other county officials, revealed the structure was unfit for human habitation and dangerous to life and health.

The property includes a second story apartment and storage rooms on the first floor. Dr. van Strien said the report on the inspection listed lack of repairs, defective drainage, plumbing and lighting.

Mrs. Ward will be notified to comply with the recommendations by August 31. The town officials of Midland are also being notified to take action in connection with the recommendation of the board.

Surplus Food Session Planned

County Commissioner C. N. Wilkinson and James G. Stevenson, clerk to the board, will go to Baltimore today to confer with state officials on the surplus food program.

They will meet with William G. Brugger, supervisor of the donable foods program for the State Department of Budget and Procurement. A representative of the regional office of the U. S. Department of Agriculture will also attend the session.

Allegany County has applied for inclusion in the surplus food distribution program.

Israeli Spy Sentenced

GAZA (UPI) —A military court in the Egyptian - occupied Gaza Strip has sentenced an Israeli spy to life imprisonment, an announcement said Monday. The defendant was identified as Yuri Moshe Levi, 21.

Steiner, Johnson Get County Welfare Posts

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday named two men to membership on the Allegany County Welfare Board.

They are George K. Steiner, 313 Schley Street, and Wilbur Johnson, of Nikep. The new board members will serve for six years. They replace William R. Carscaden and Earl Robertson, both of Cumberland, whose six-year terms have expired.

Steiner is president and general manager of the Cumberland Cement and Supply Company. Johnson is president of the Paperworkers Union (AFL-CIO) which represents workers at the Luke mill of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company.

Equity Suits Filed

Five equity suits have been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court. They are titled Melvin Leroy Porter vs. Elsa Porter; Mary A. Hickle vs. Harry L. Hickle; Thelma Elizabeth Niland vs. James Edward Niland; Charles D. Frisby vs. Margie E. Frisby and Peggy Ann Powell vs. Joseph W. Powell Jr.

The town of Eltopia, Wash., originally was called Hell-To-Pay, when it was founded in 1889.

Non-Support Cases On Increase Here

Magistrate Fred H. Anderson of Juvenile Court said yesterday there is an "alarming increase" of the number of non-support cases in the county.

He said the increase is not due to the economic situation, but the increase of disrupted family relationships.

The average American family uses 788 tin cans a year.

ABL Picnic Set Saturday

The annual all-day picnic of the Recreation Club of Allegany Ballistics Lab will be this Saturday at Minke's. The affair is the top social gathering of the summer for employes of ABL and their families.

Walter "Woody" Woodson, president of the Recreation Club, stated that approximately 1,100 adults and their children are expected to attend.

Woodson also stated that there will be supervised recreation offered for both children and adults with Miss Dorothy Vose chairman of the children's committee and Jack Drummond in charge of the adult activities.

Mrs. Willa Wood is food chairman with 400 pounds of turkey on the menu in addition to the usual picnic food of hot dogs, ham, baked beans and sweet corn. The food will be prepared by the Eckhart Square Circle.

Dandelion and bacon salad is a favorite dish in the French province of Champagne.

Activities Set At Gephart Area

Today there will be a hobby show at Gephart Playground at 7:30 p. m. with the Teenage Club to meet at 8 p. m. A movie will follow.

The handicraft's class meets today at 2 p. m. The basketball team will play at West Side Thursday at 7:30 p. m. while a square dance will be held on the playlot at 8:30 with a hillbilly band and a cake walk. On Friday the handicraft's class meets at 2 p. m. with a kalah contest scheduled for 2:30. The basketball team plays at North End Friday at 7:30.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK — Jack Lotto, the Edward Bennett Williams of publicity men, will not be present Wednesday when the Polish freighter "Fryderyk Szopen" docks at Mobile. But the hand of the crack reporter who recently figured in the Bernard Goldfine case will be apparent nonetheless.

As soon as the Communist controlled ship drops a ladder, it will be boarded by a U.S. immigration official in search of a 24-year-old seaman named Richard Eibel. An important test case concerning asylum is concerned. So far, the U.S. has been the "heavy" in the story.

Eibel has had his doubts about Communism for a long time. His father was a commander in the Polish navy before World War II. When his ship was in New York last week he made the hard decision to cut his ties with his home land and strike out for freedom. He presented himself at the Polish National Home and made known his great hope. Minutes later, two U.S. immigration officials descended from the blue, placed him under custody and returned him to his ship, which was tied up at a Brooklyn pier. He was treated as a ship-jumper not as a refugee from Communism.

That's where Lotto came in. He was called by the Polish American Immigration and Relief Committee, which secured his services on a $1 a year basis. When his calls to Attorney General William Rogers and several congressmen came to nothing, he staged a well-attended press conference and laid the injustice before fellow reporters. Their stories caused the immigration brass to decide that a second look was warranted.

But by that time the ship had sailed, carrying the would - be American to heaven only knows what fate. Lotto kept the steam on the officials with the result that Eibel will get a hearing at Mobile — and away from the ship and its Communist Captain Janus.

The question of when is an escapee eligible for our mercy is at stake in this case. If Lotto brings this one off he will have fanned a fresh flame of hope in the hearts of countless peoples in the slave states. If we send Eibel back to Poland we will, in effect, have served as agents of a Communist regime.

The aircraft industry is as hotly competitive as any other, but it has united in one breath - taking project. The project is Dyna-Soar. It is too big a dream for a single company to tackle. It proposes to produce for the Air Force — at some date which is not now known —a manned, rocket - powered vehicle powerful enough to be put in orbit around the earth at 18,000 miles an hour and sophisticated enough to sustain the crew in comfort and return it safely to earth.

The vehicle must be able to fly not only at 18,000 m.p.h., but slow enough to land at a conventional airbase. Its hide must be able to deflect or neutralize the cosmic rays whose harmful effects are now being intricately reported by Explorer IV. The skin of the vessel must be of a metal or material that will not cinderize as the machine comes back into the thick atmosphere of the earth. A new system of controlling the awe-inspiring power which the vehicle will need must be devised and, according to the prospectus, there must be "a provision for its crew to operate the weapon system while being subjected to very high 'G' (gravity) forces, and later to function in weightless, airless medium."

Simple.

Father Fred Foley, S. J., writes of life on the little Chinese island we call Quemoy, 2,500 yards off the coast of Red China. He visited there recently. The Reds lob as many as 10,000 shells on to the island each year, but the 47,000 residents go about their lives of farming, shop-keeping and the like. A French Franciscan, Father Druetto, pastor of the Catholic chapel on the island, waits until the wind is right, rings his church-bell, and its sweet tone and significance waft across the water to the slaves of Mao Tse - Tung.

New Discount Store To Open Here Aug. 11

Tri-State Discount Center, a self-service operation representing a new trend in retailing, will open here Monday August 11, on the first floor of the Cumberland Undergarment Company building, Gay Street.

Eugene H. Sharpstein, vice president in charge of store operations, said the store will be open every night Monday through Saturday until 9 p. m. and open daily at 10 a. m. First quality merchandise will be offered the consumer and a luncheonette will be available for the shoppers' convenience, he added.

The Cumberland unit is the first of G-M-S Stores Inc., which was organized by Hyman P. Malachoff, Bernard W. Goldstein and Sharpstein. The three men resigned from Enterprise Department Stores to form the new discount department store organization.

Malachoff was with the New England-based chain for 23 years as a store manager, buyer and, since 1943, in charge of the New York office.

Goldstein was buyer of intimate apparel for two years and before that held positions at S. Klein and National Department Stores.

Sharpstein was with Enterprise 11 years as manager of various units.

In the new company, Malachoff is president; Goldstein vice president in charge of merchandising; and Sharpstein vice president in charge of store operations.

Sharpstein said negotiations are underway for two more stores within a 60 to 70 mile radius of Cumberland.

Parking space for 200 cars will be available at the new store here and bus service will be available to the door. The store is the largest in the city located on one floor and includes 20,000 square feet, Sharpstein said, and added the firm has an option to double its quarters within six months.

Women's, men's and children's wear, domestics, shoes, toys and housewares will be carried in the self-service operation which has a checkout system much-like a supermarket. Should the option to expand be exercised, it is planned to add major appliances, occasional furniture, hardware and sporting goods, Sharpstein said.

The new store will employ 40 to 50 people.

Sharpstein said a ceremony will mark the first day of business and an invitation will be extended to city officials to attend. The store is the first of its kind in this area and was named Tri-State in token of its relationship to Maryland-Pennsylvania-West Virginia.

4-H Youth Gets Scholarship

A four-year scholarship to the University of Maryland has been awarded Richard Heavner, 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Heavner, Bedford Road.

The scholarship was awarded by the Winslow Foundation, which was set up by William R. Winslow to aid boys who wished to take up agriculture or veterinarian medicine and needed financial assistance.

The Heavner youth graduated from Fort Hill High School in June and had intended to enroll in agriculture at the university when notice was received that he had been selected for one of the Winslow Foundation awards. The Foundation has headquarters in Washington.

Heavner has been active in 4-H Club work for nine years and is president of the Older Youth 4-H Club. He has held numerous offices in his own 4-H Club and has attended several state 4-H Club Week programs at the university. In addition he has taken part in 4-H Club camp programs for several years.

County Receives Share Of State Racing Taxes

The first of two checks usually received by Allegany County from the state comptroller's office as its share of horse race taxes arrived yesterday.

It was for $74,934.38 and from this amount the county gets $30,586.17 and the balance was distributed to the seven incorporated communities in the county on the basis of population.

The City of Cumberland will get $31,527.22. Frostburg's share is $5,753.39, Westernport, $2,870.89; Lonaconing, $1,915.25; Luke, $686.10; Midland, $743.87; and Barton, $581.49.

Last year the county received a total of $108,247.30 in horse race tax monies and of this sum, $44,577.64 went to the county government and the balance to the seven communities.

The horse race taxes are running slightly below the amount received last year, but the second check, which will be received late in December or early January may be larger than expected.

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners today awarded a contract to Allen Sell and Son, Inc., for the repairs and installation of equipment in toilets in the basement at the Court House.

The Sell firm was low bidder at $823 while the George Construction Company's bid was $871. The George firm had included a vinyl floor for the rest room but the commissioners decided against its inclusion in the work. The $871 figure was arrived at by subtracting the flooring cost from the bid of $991.

Canadian Couple Gets License To Wed

A Canadian couple came to Cumberland to get their marriage license, picking up the license at Allegany County Court House yesterday.

They were Jan Holzapfel, 24-year-old native of Czechoslovakia, and Joyce Margaret Alice Turney, 18. Both are residents of Beamsville, Ontario, Canada.

Wool Growers Boost Sales

Wool growers of Maryland, through participation in the national wool incentive program, are helping finance an advertising and sales promotion program to increase demand for lamb and wool.

That is the purpose of deductions made from individual farmers' wool incentive payments now being received, according to Julius P. Parran, chairman of the State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

The deductions, amounting to one cent per pound on shorn wool and five cents per hundredweight on unshorn lambs, were authorized by the wool growers of the country in a 1955 referendum. The American Sheep Producers Council was formed by wool growers to conduct the program.

Sheep owners from every state are represented on the council by delegates who elect a board of directors to govern the organization. Representation is based on the amount of money paid into the promotion fund from each state.

Mr. Parran said there are three main features of the program:

(1) advertising to create consumer interest in wool and lamb; (2) promotion and merchandising work to urge cooperation by all segments of related industries, and (3) a program of education for retailers and consumers through the use of booklets, educational films and other promotional aids.

Recorder Arranges Additional Hours In Ridgeley

Archie Lough announced last night he will keep his recorder's office open all day today and again next Thursday, August 7, for collection of delinquent water and garbage accounts in Ridgeley.

The recorder normally has office hours 15 days of each quarter of the fiscal year for the collection of these accounts. His office was open from the first to the 15th this month, he added, but said he will be there two more days to help bring accounts up to date.

The deadline for payment of the water and garbage accounts for this quarter is August 10, he said, adding the shut-off date will be enforced on unpaid accounts.

Civil Service Exam Taken By Three

Two policemen and a fireman took Civil Service examinations yesterday following completion of their one-year probationary service as employes of the city.

The exams were conducted in the office of City Clerk Wallace G. Ullery who is secretary to the Civil Service Commission.

The commission held its regular meeting Monday in its City Hall office and considered mostly routine matters.

The commission said it is trying to have two seasonal mosquito control men and the equipment operator at city dump assigned to the Street Department so it can take the Health Department designation from its records. The three men had been under Health Department jurisdiction until that agency was taken over by the state and county.

Francis A. Kenney, chairman, and Fred E. Ryan, who was reappointed for a six-year term Monday, attended the meeting.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK — Jack Lotto, the Edward Bennett Williams of publicity men, will not be present Wednesday when the Polish freighter "Fryderyk Szopen" docks at Mobile. But the hand of the crack reporter who recently figured in the Bernard Goldfine case will be apparent nonetheless.

As soon as the Communist controlled ship drops a ladder, it will be boarded by a U.S. immigration official in search of a 24-year-old seaman named Richard Eibel. An important test case concerning asylum is concerned. So far, the U.S. has been the "heavy" in the story.

Eibel has had his doubts about Communism for a long time. His father was a commander in the Polish navy before World War II. When his ship was in New York last week he made the hard decision to cut his ties with his home land and strike out for freedom. He presented himself at the Polish National Home and made known his great hope. Minutes later, two U.S. immigration officials descended from the blue, placed him under custody and returned him to his ship, which was tied up at a Brooklyn pier. He was treated as a ship-jumper not as a refugee from Communism.

That's where Lotto came in. He was called by the Polish American Immigration and Relief Committee, which secured his services on a $1 a year basis. When his calls to Attorney General William Rogers and several congressmen came to nothing, he staged a well-attended press conference and laid the injustice before fellow reporters. Their stories caused the immigration brass to decide that a second look was warranted.

But by that time the ship had sailed, carrying the would - be American to heaven only knows what fate. Lotto kept the steam on the officials with the result that Eibel will get a hearing at Mobile — and away from the ship and its Communist Captain Janus.

The question of when is an escapee eligible for our mercy is at stake in this case. If Lotto brings this one off he will have fanned a fresh flame of hope in the hearts of countless peoples in the slave states. If we send Eibel back to Poland we will, in effect, have served as agents of a Communist regime.

The aircraft industry is as hotly competitive as any other, but it has united in one breath - taking project. The project is Dyna-Soar. It is too big a dream for a single company to tackle. It proposes to produce for the Air Force — at some date which is not now known —a manned, rocket - powered vehicle powerful enough to be put in orbit around the earth at 18,000 miles an hour and sophisticated enough to sustain the crew in comfort and return it safely to earth.

The vehicle must be able to fly not only at 18,000 m.p.h., but slow enough to land at a conventional airbase. Its hide must be able to deflect or neutralize the cosmic rays whose harmful effects are now being intricately reported by Explorer IV. The skin of the vessel must be of a metal or material that will not cinderize as the machine comes back into the thick atmosphere of the earth. A new system of controlling the awe-inspiring power which the vehicle will need must be devised and, according to the prospectus, there must be "a provision for its crew to operate the weapon system while being subjected to very high 'G' (gravity) forces, and later to function in weightless, airless medium."

Simple.

Father Fred Foley, S. J., writes of life on the little Chinese island we call Quemoy, 2,500 yards off the coast of Red China. He visited there recently. The Reds lob as many as 10,000 shells on to the island each year, but the 47,000 residents go about their lives of farming, shop-keeping and the like. A French Franciscan, Father Druetto, pastor of the Catholic chapel on the island, waits until the wind is right, rings his churchbell, and its sweet tone and significance waft across the water to the slaves of Mao Tse - Tung.

State Crackdown In Bay Oil Pollution Advocated

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Increased state enforcement was a key recommendation for curbing oil pollution on the Chesapeake Tuesday at a meeting of government and private shipping representatives.

There was general agreement among those who met in the State Senate chamber that an intensive program of education and enforcement was necessary.

Who should have responsibility for the enforcement, however, was a question that largely went unanswered.

Russell H. McCain, executive assistant to vacationing Gov. McKeldin, called the conference after protests that oil and bilge water from ships was killing some fish, threatening other marine life and making things unpleasant for swimmers.

There was general agreement that the U. S. Coast Guard and U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, which have borne the major weight of enforcement, can't handle a heavier workload.

Rep. Edward T. Miller (R-Md) said the State of Maryland should "throw its weight around a little more" in the pollution field.

At the end of the session, McCain said he would prepare a report for submission to the governor when McKeldin returns from Europe in two weeks.

Representatives of the Maryland Port Authority, Corps of Engineers and several legislators approved a suggestion to provide a reward for informers against vessels polluting the bay. Sen. Louis N. Phipps (D-Anne Arundel) said a Legislative Council committee he heads has received the suggestion that informers receive an amount equal to the legal fine.

Miller said he doubted that more federal legislation would help. He advocated, instead, more activity under a state law that apparently is little used.

This provides the same penalty as federal law: a fine of $500 to $2,500 and 30 days to one year in jail.

Young Campers Unhurt In Fire

BOZMAN, Md. (AP) — Fire destroyed a dormitory at Camp Mimosa Monday night but none of the 140 young Baltimore and Washington campers was injured.

Origin of the fire at the Talbot County camp was not determined immediately. A counselor discovered the blaze about 8 p. m. and made a quick check of the burning building to make sure all of the children were outside.

Camp Mimosa, located at Breezy Point on Harris Creek, about four miles west of St. Michaels, is for boys and girls 6 to 14 years of age.

Bernard Kramer of Baltimore, camp director, said none of the children was in the building at the time. Mattresses were brought in from another camp and 20 boys were bedded down for the night in the camp social hall.

Firemen from St. Michaels and Easton kept the fire from spreading to other parts of the camp. The destroyed dormitory had been build only last year.

The 3-year-old camp has a population of about 200, including 140 children.

Swiss alphorns, made to signal between mountain peaks, are as much as 18 feet long.

Cards Stacked Against Burglar

BALTIMORE (AP)—A burglar had two strikes against him when he broke into the Clifton Savings Bank and tried to drill through to the vault.

First, he got tired of operating a heavy drill when attempting to cut his way from the basement into the main floor. So he tried to jimmy a door, and that touched off an alarm.

Second, there were three or four police officers less than a block away from the bank, and they raced to the scene.

They captured a 32-year-old intruder dashing from the basement, leaving behind him several electric drills and bits, a new hack saw, a new ax, and a number of extension cords.

Police happened to be in the neighborhood to pick up a man accused of beating his wife.

State Farmers Welcome Sun

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Farmers for the past few days have been getting the sunny kind of weather they've wanted to round their crops into shape.

But through last week they went through their third successive week of harvest-hampering rains.

The Maryland - Delaware Crop Reporting Service at the University of Maryland said some crops were coming along nicely. Corn showed excellent growth. Picking of cantatloupes and ice box watermelons stepped up on the Eastern Shore.

Picking of Transparent and Lodi apples was about finished, while harvest of Jerseyland and Redhaven peaches is expected to start in the Hancock area this week.

Wheat harvesting, usually finished by mid-July, lagged particularly in north central Maryland.

Fair Queen Will Get Scholarship

TIMONIUM, Md. (AP) — The girl chosen to reign over the Maryland State Fair as queen will receive a four-year scholarship to the University of Maryland as her top prize.

The Associated Women of the Maryland Farm Bureau, which sponsors the queen contests in each of the state's 23 counties and the finals at the Timonium fairgrounds, announced the scholarship prize Tuesday. In past years, cash awards have been given.

The queen will be chose Saturday, Aug. 30, opening night of the 1958 state fair. County contests already are under way.

Cambridge To Get Dial Telephones

BALTIMORE (AP)—More than one million dollars will be used for central office switching equipment at Cambridge in the telephone company's latest expansion program for Maryland.

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. of Maryland, announcing the program Tuesday, said it is part of the dial changeover project in the Eastern Shore city.

A total of $2,627,000 will be spent on several projects.

These include $983,000 for new switching equipment at Gaithersburg; $25,000 for poles and cables in new housing areas at Bethesda; $24,000 for dial switching requipment at North Beach; $113,000 for a new building and equipment at Millington, and $19,000 for switchboards and other equipment at Berlin.

Boy Drowns In Pond

EAST PINES, Md. (AP)—William Ressinger, 6, drowned Tuesday while playing in a storm drainage pond five blocks from his East Pines home.

Police said the boy was playing in the pond with a friend, Gary Wilkinson. Gary ran home to get Mrs. Ressinger and returned with her to the pond.

McKeldin Declares Religion Is Strength

JERUSALEM, Israel (AP) — Maryland's Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin said Tuesday that religion is "the element of permanance" within any nation—"the core of its strength."

He cited the first 10 years of the history of Israel as proof of this.

"(Israel's) survival, by the power of faith alone, unsupported by any mundane organization, political or ecclesiastical, is enough to shatter the philosophy of materialism, were there no other evidence whatever," McKeldin said.

The governor made his remarks in a speech prepared for delivery at a groundbreaking ceremony for an American student center of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, a New York school.

The Flemish language is spoken more than French in Bruges, Belgium, although both are official tongues.

State Crackdown In Bay Oil Pollution Advocated

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Increased state enforcement was a key recommendation for curbing oil pollution on the Chesapeake Tuesday at a meeting of government and private shipping representatives.

There was general agreement among those who met in the State Senate chamber that an intensive program of education and enforcement was necessary.

Who should have responsibility for the enforcement, however, was a question that largely went unanswered.

Russell H. McCain, executive assistant to vacationing Gov. McKeldin, called the conference after protests that oil and bilge water from ships was killing some fish, threatening other marine life and making things unpleasant for swimmers.

There was general agreement that the U. S. Coast Guard and U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, which have borne the major weight of enforcement, can't handle a heavier workload.

Rep. Edward T. Miller (R-Md) said the State of Maryland should "throw its weight around a little more" in the pollution field.

At the end of the session, McCain said he would prepare a report for submission to the governor when McKeldin returns from Europe in two weeks.

Representatives of the Maryland Port Authority, Corps of Engineers and several legislators approved a suggestion to provide a reward for informers against vessels polluting the bay. Sen. Louis N. Phipps (D-Anne Arundel) said a Legislative Council committee he heads has received the suggestion that informers receive an amount equal to the legal fine.

Miller said he doubted that more federal legislation would help. He advocated, instead, more activity under a state law that apparently is little used.

This provides the same penalty as federal law: a fine of $500 to $2,500 and 30 days to one year in jail.

Young Campers Unhurt In Fire

BOZMAN, Md. (AP) — Fire destroyed a dormitory at Camp Mimosa Monday night but none of the 140 young Baltimore and Washington campers was injured.

Origin of the fire at the Talbot County camp was not determined immediately. A counselor discovered the blaze about 8 p. m. and made a quick check of the burning building to make sure all of the children were outside.

Camp Mimosa, located at Breezy Point on Harris Creek, about four miles west of St. Michaels, is for boys and girls 6 to 14 years of age.

Bernard Kramer of Baltimore, camp director, said none of the children was in the building at the time. Mattresses were brought in from another camp and 20 boys were bedded down for the night in the camp social hall.

Firemen from St. Michaels and Easton kept the fire from spreading to other parts of the camp. The destroyed dormitory had been build only last year.

Newsman Visits Jumblatt

By JACK V. FOX
United Press International

MOUKHTARA, Lebanon (UPI)—In a dilapidated sort of throne room of a great stone castle sat a rather bored but elegant young man in a worsted suit of Brooks Brothers cut, smelling of toilet water.

Surrounding him were a villainous and scruffy-looking band who broke into gap-toothed smiles at the first friendly overture.

This was Kamil Jumblatt, chief of the Lebanese mountain rebels. His headquarters is a castle of 200 rooms, of long, steep stairs, parapets that suddenly turn into corridors, ledges that drop to the rocks far below.

I reached Jumblatt's castle after a two-hour taxi ride from Beirut. We passed through at least a dozen bandit road posts with nothing more than my American passport and the garrulous amiability of my driver.

In the courtyard below the castle were several hundred rebels armed with rifles, belted hand grenades, sub-machineguns, and cartridge belts crossed over their shoulders.

Jumblatt is a leader of the Druze sect, an offshoot of the Islamic sect which believes the Savior is yet to come and that he will be born of man.

I was led up three long flights of stone steps into a large room with straight-backed armchairs.

Jumblatt walked into the room. Behind him came a strange array of men, some in uniform, some in Western suits, most in native dress.

Some of the men carried written reports on military problems. A doctor came forward to show me a pint of blood plasma he had brought from Beirut for a wounded rebel. An old man from a nearby village explained he was running short of food.

Jumblatt's family is wealthy and is supporting the whole area.

Jumblatt is an ascetic type who speaks accented but good English. He once taught at the Sorbonne in Paris. I asked him what message he had for the American people.

He said first the U.S. Marines should go. Perhaps, he said, they were helping preserve Lebanon's independence and integrity, as President Eisenhower said. But the country must work out its own internal affairs.

The rebels, he said, did not want Lebanon in the Nasser camp nor in Russia's. They also did not want their country occupied by American troops.

Would his men fight the Americans?

They did not want to, he said, but would do so if the U.S. troops came into the mountains.

Paris Autumn Fashions Have Few Chemises

By JESSICA DAVES

PARIS (UPI)—The Paris fashion collections for autumn opened Monday morning under a blaze of blue skies. Traditionally, the first collection shown was Patou, and all the press, visiting and French, appeared in summer clothes, summer colors. Many of the French were burned bronze, hatless, stockingless, as if they had just rushed up from St. Tropez or Venice for a few days' interruption of the serious business of summer sunburn.

Patou has a young new designer, Roland Karl, who is definitely not of the "loose line" school. There was not a day chemise in the collection, and only two for evening. No low belts, no blousing lines, but a series of straight, narrow dresses, jacketed or one piece, occasionally wide-belted.

Coats not bulky, one or two really fitted, but almost all straight in line. Shown were many three-quarter coats, fur-lined, over dresses of the same fabric, some suits with finger-tip length jackets, and cardigans, with fur ascots tucked in the neck.

The late-day and short evening dresses were mostly tight-bodiced with very revealing decolletage, and wine skirts shaped over stiffening. Some of the short evening, late-day things had a slight bustle-back, flat-front line, which Patou called his "K line."

The long evening dresses were strapless "K line" in pale blue, or pink, or white with black, often glittering with rhinestone embroidery.

There was a good deal of black, beaver brown (effective worn with white) and a new teal blue.

Monday afternoon came the collection of Lanvin Castillo. This is one of the distinguished and elegant Paris houses: originated by Jeanne Lanvin who was a great designer herself, and carried on until her death this spring by Lanvin's daughter, Countess de Polignac, who did not design but whose taste, educated by her mother, gave flavor to the collections of the house.

Her designer is Antonio Castillo, a Spaniard with a special talent for coats and for glamorizing evening dresses. (Lanvin Castillo coats of Ascher mohair fabric started the world-wide sweep of that material last autumn). This year's Lanvin Castillo collection is one of his best.

There were no chemises, no low waist lines and the skirts while short were not scandalously short. The showing began with a series of coats—brown, red, putty, claret, worn over dresses of the same color or of white lacy mohair material.

Sobolev, Soviet Envoy To U.N., Is Wily Debater

By United Press International

Arkady A. Sobolev, Soviet Russia's ambassador to the United Nations, is an old, experienced Communist diplomat who's been on the road for Moscow for close to a quarter of a century.

He's a wily debater as his U.N. performances often have attested, and he knows the value of a gesture, a frown, a smile at the right time during tense moments. In the past, by reporters and fellow-delegates alike, Sobolev has been accused of "hamming it up." On visual evidence alone, the charge is accurate enough. But Sobolev hams with a purpose—not always as evident.

This permanent representative of the Soviet Union to the United Nations, his formal title, was born in Leningrad in 1903 and was graduated from the Leningrad Institute of Electrical Engineering in 1930. As an engineer, he devoted the next nine years in research on the development of power plant equipment. By 1936 he had attained enough recognition to be named to the Russian delegation to the world power conference in Washington.

In 1939 Sobolev was appointed secretary-general of the Soviet Foreign Ministry, and from then on his career has kept him in the diplomatic limelight in a succession of important posts, and as a Russian representative at major international conferences.

From 1942 to 1945, he served in London as counsellor with the rank of minister; in 1944 he attended the Dumbarton Oaks conference. A year later he was in at the birth of the U.N. in San Francisco. Following the defeat of the Nazis, Sobolev moved to Germany as chief political adviser to the commander of the Soviet occupation forces there. In this capacity he participated in the Potsdam conference.

Prior to his present appointment at U.N., Sobolev in 1946 was an assistant U.N. secretary general for Security Council affairs. He resigned from that post in 1949 and later became Soviet ambassador to Poland. On several occasions he served with the Soviet delegation to the U.N. General Assembly.

Peace Peddlers Hit Road

WASHINGTON (AP) — This seems to be the season for peace peddlers to hit the road.

Our own itinerant diplomat, Secretary of State J. F. Dulles, is in London, talking over the Baghdad Pact.

The Soviet Union's Nikita Khrushchev is studying timetables and roadmaps, eager, he says, to show his wares almost anywhere.

England's Harold Macmillan seems ready to join him, while France's Charles de Gaulle is asking, why not hold the sales meeting some place like Geneva?

President Eisenhower, apparently unconvinced that this is the way peace will be had in our time, seems to be in the position of a reluctant card player. He doesn't care for a game where so many cards could turn out to be wild; but if the game is to be played, okay, deal. But let's watch whose deck we're using.

So, with all the peace peddlers ready to mill about, it's appropriate that Ewing Cockrell of Warrensburg, Mo., should be on the road, too.

For Cockrell, it's an old story. As far back as 1950 he was nominated for the Nobel Peace Prize. Now 84, his hair so thin and scraggly it looks like wind-blown silk thread, Cockrell is pushing peace in every way he can: By talking to senators, urging them to go on record more firmly, by writing Eisenhower.

"You say you write features?" he asked. "Good. I've got enough stuff here to keep you writing until 1960."

To Cockrell, peace could be a simple thing.

First, he would have an international army strong enough to keep order.

Second, he would disarm until no nation was powerful enough to challenge the international cop.

Curiously, nearly every leader has gone on record saying almost the same thing.

Here are a few quotes from Cockrell's peace pack:

Eisenhower in 1950—"It is clear that international disarmament is essential to a stable, enduring peace. In a disarmed world — should it be attained—there must be an effective United Nations, with a police power universally recognized and strong enough to earn universal respect."

Macmillan in 1955 — "Genuine disarmament must provide effective international or, if we like, supranational authority invested with real power. In the long run, this is the only way for mankind."

Khrushchev in 1957—After saying the Soviets would disband their armies if others would: "We could keep a few men as militia to keep order because we would need a few to protect the good people from the thieves and gangsters. We do have such people in our country."

If the leaders feel that way, then how come so little has happened?

Cockrell blames subordinates. He thinks no sooner does the big shot come up with an idea for peace than the bureaucrats start telling him why it won't work, and soon the objections have smothered the original thought entirely.

Yet in a day of hydrogen bombs, mammoth air forces and doubting underlings, Cockrell remains hopeful.

"People still are talking about peace," he said. "It's the brightest era in the history of the world—in spite of everything."

Film Shows Impact Of Art On U. S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Information Agency said Monday it will present a new color film featuring 20 U. S. art museums at the American pavilion in the Brussels World Fair next month.

Designed to show the impact of art in the United States, the film is being dubbed with 34 foreign languages for showing in 80 countries. It also is due to be exhibited late next month at the 12th annual Edinburg Film Festival.

Museums in the three reel film included Baltimore Museum of Art; Freer Gallery, Washington, D. C.; National Gallery of Art, Washington; Phillips Gallery, Washington, and County Museum, Hagerstown, Md.

This is one of the distinguished and elegant Paris houses: originated by Jeanne Lanvin who was a great designer herself, and carried on until her death this spring by Lanvin's daughter, Countess de Polignac, who did not design but whose taste, educated by her mother, gave flavor to the collections of the house.

Her designer is Antonio Castillo, a Spaniard with a special talent for coats and for glamorizing evening dresses. (Lanvin Castillo coats of Ascher mohair fabric started the world-wide sweep of that material last autumn). This year's Lanvin Castillo collection is one of his best.

There were no chemises, no low waist lines and the skirts while short were not scandalously short. The showing began with a series of coats—brown, red, putty, claret, worn over dresses of the same color or of white lacy mohair material.

Sobolev, Soviet Envoy To U.N., Is Wily Debater

By United Press International

Arkady A. Sobolev, Soviet Russia's ambassador to the United Nations, is an old, experienced Communist diplomat who's been on the road for Moscow for close to a quarter of a century.

He's a wily debater as his U.N. performances often have attested, and he knows the value of a gesture, a frown, a smile at the right time during tense moments. In the past, by reporters and fellow-delegates alike, Sobolev has been accused of "hamming it up." On visual evidence alone, the charge is accurate enough. But Sobolev hams with a purpose —not always as evident.

This permanent representative of the Soviet Union to the United Nations, his formal title, was born in Leningrad in 1903 and was graduated from the Leningrad Institute of Electrical Engineering in 1930. As an engineer, he devoted the next nine years in research on the development of power plant equipment. By 1936 he had attained enough recognition to be named to the Russian delegation to the world power conference in Washington.

In 1939 Sobolev was appointed secretary-general of the Soviet Foreign Ministry, and from then on his career has kept him in the diplomatic limelight in a succession of important posts, and as a Russian representative at major international conferences.

From 1942 to 1945, he served in London as counsellor with the rank of minister; in 1944 he attended the Dumbarton Oaks conference. A year later he was in at the birth of the U.N. in San Francisco. Following the defeat of the Nazis, Sobolev moved to Germany as chief political adviser to the commander of the Soviet occupation forces there. In this capacity he participated in the Potsdam conference.

Prior to his present appointment at U.N., Sobolev in 1946 was an assistant U.N. secretary general for Security Council affairs. He resigned from that post in 1949 and later became Soviet ambassador to Poland. On several occasions he served with the Soviet delegation to the U.N. General Assembly.

About one-fourth of all Americans who die from disease before they are 45 years old die of cancer.

Peace Peddlers Hit Road

WASHINGTON (AP) — This seems to be the season for peace peddlers to hit the road.

Our own itinerant diplomat, Secretary of State J. F. Dulles, is in London, talking over the Baghdad Pact.

The Soviet Union's Nikita Khrushchev is studying timetables and roadmaps, eager, he says, to show his wares almost anywhere.

England's Harold Macmillan seems ready to join him, while France's Charles de Gaulle is asking, why not hold the sales meeting some place like Geneva?

President Eisenhower, apparently unconvinced that this is the way peace will be had in our time, seems to be in the position of a reluctant card player. He doesn't care for a game where so many cards could turn out to be wild; but if the game is to be played, okay, deal. But let's watch whose deck we're using.

So, with all the peace peddlers ready to mill about, it's appropriate that Ewing Cockrell of Warrensburg, Mo., should be on the road, too.

For Cockrell, it's an old story. As far back as 1950 he was nominated for the Nobel Peace Prize. Now 84, his hair so thin and scraggly it looks like wind-blown silk thread, Cockrell is pushing peace in every way he can: By talking to senators, urging them to go on record more firmly, by writing Eisenhower.

"You say you write features?" he asked. "Good. I've got enough stuff here to keep you writing until 1960."

To Cockrell, peace could be a simple thing.

First, he would have an international army strong enough to keep order.

Second, he would disarm until no nation was powerful enough to challenge the international cop.

Curiously, nearly every leader has gone on record saying almost the same thing.

Here are a few quotes from Cockrell's peace pack:

Eisenhower in 1950—"It is clear that international disarmament is essential to a stable, enduring peace. In a disarmed world — should it be attained—there must be an effective United Nations, with a police power universally recognized and strong enough to earn universal respect."

Macmillan in 1955 — "Genuine disarmament must provide effective international or, if we like, supranational authority invested with real power. In the long run, this is the only way for mankind."

Khrushchev in 1957—After saying the Soviets would disband their armies if others would: "We could keep a few men as militia to keep order because we would need a few to protect the good people from the thieves and gangsters. We do have such people in our country."

If the leaders feel that way, then how come so little has happened?

Cockrell blames subordinates. He thinks no sooner does the big shot come up with an idea for peace than the bureaucrats start telling him why it won't work, and soon the objections have smothered the original thought entirely.

Yet in a day of hydrogen bombs, mammoth air forces and doubting underlings, Cockrell remains hopeful.

"People still are talking about peace," he said. "It's the brightest era in the history of the world —in spite of everything."

Film Shows Impact Of Art On U. S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Information Agency said Monday it will present a new color film featuring 20 U. S. art museums at the American pavilion in the Brussels World Fair next month.

Designed to show the impact of art in the United States, the film is being dubbed with 34 foreign languages for showing in 80 countries. It also is due to be exhibited late next month at the 12th annual Edinburg Film Festival.

Museums in the three reel film included Baltimore Museum of Art; Freer Gallery, Washington, D. C.; National Gallery of Art, Washington; Phillips Gallery, Washington, and County Museum, Hagerstown, Md.

Market Beats Reluctant Retreat; Aircrafts Gain

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market beat a reluctant retreat Tuesday, giving ground stubbornly following its sharp advance recently into new high ground for the year.

Volume remained above three million shares for the 11th straight session. The 3,310,000 shares traded compared with 3,940,000 Monday.

While most big industrial stocks were clipped for moderate losses generally, the aircrafts bucked the trend, making a string of good gains.

Assorted drugs, photographic issues and tobaccos also went forward. Utilities were fairly steady.

Wall Streeters said the market had finally lost some of its steam after its almost unbroken string of rises since the big drop July 14 when the pro-Nasser coup occured in Iraq. Tuesday's loss, though moderate, was the sharpest since that date and clipped an estimated $1,286,600,000 from the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, based on the decline in the Associated Press average.

Little selling pressure was apparent, however. While some profit taking was in order there was also considerable switching and rotation of interest to groups and specific stocks which have not participated in the latest upsurge.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dropped $1.00 to $182.10 with the industrials down $1.80, the rails down 70 cents and the utilities off 10 cents.

Gnats Plague Budapest

BUDAPEST (AP) — The Hungarian capital is plagued with gnats. Swarms brought out by this year's rainy season have been particularly annoying to young lovers who frequent the city's parks.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Grain futures prices closed on a firm to strong plane, although soybeans rode an easier trend, on the Chicago Board of Trade Tuesday.

Wheat closed up ⅞ to 1½ cents; corn (old) up ⅝ to ¾ cent; (new) up ⅜ to ⅞ cent; oats up ½ to 1⅛ cents; rye up 1 to 1⅜ cent; soybeans off ⅛ to up ½ cent.

Small hedge selling and modest offerings accounted for a firmness in wheat. Moderate activity prevailed throughout the day. Buying was done by local brokers and commission houses.

A quiet trade was apparent in the corn market, with prices ranging generally slightly above the previous close. Reports of good crop progress circulated among the traders. Country offerings Tuesday were light.

A stronger price pace was set in oats, and the demand was fairly general. December and March options garnered the business of local traders, and some elevator selling of December was reported.

Soybean attempts to maintain an early firmness but failed as the demand wavered. Some stop loss selling developed. Trade was moderately active. Sales of 18,214,000 bushels since June 1 were reported by the local office of the Commodity Credit Corporation. The range:

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Pass	2 spades	Pass
3 hearts	Pass	3 spades	Pass
4 diamonds	Pass	4 hearts	Pass
5 hearts	Pass	6 hearts	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Club jack.

Stories of hands that involve surmounting of hardships usually engage our attention. Today's offering is unique in that declarer played out most of the hand before he was even aware of the very adverse trump break.

The bidding perhaps calls for some stray comments. North's immediate jump shift is sound inasmuch as he has 20 points with a virtually solid suit of his own. South's postponement of mentioning the diamond suit is good strategy. There will be plenty of time to show it and great preference should be given to the almost solid six card suit.

With no special fit for either of his partner's suits, North could do no more than return somewhat reluctantly to hearts over four diamonds but when South scraped up another bid. North eagerly contracted for slam.

West led the jack of clubs and South put up the ace with the expectation of discarding the dummy's remaining three clubs on his high diamond. He did not mind if the fourth round of diamonds were ruffed, for he intended to trump one club in dummy and throw the other one the ace of spades.

In pursuit of this plan he cashed the ace of diamonds, and the ace of spades, taking his club discard, and then ruffed a low spade. Next came the parade of the diamond honors on which everyone, happily, had to follow as dummy's clubs disappeared. South's remaining club was ruffed with the five of hearts.

East was down to nothing but trumps at this point so that as declarer led a spade from dummy he was forced to ruff in. In order to complicate matters he trumped with the queen, laid down the king and, when West showed out, excited with the heart 6, East, in with the 7, had to lead from his J-4 into declarer's A-8.

Bagworms Prey On Evergreens

County Agent Joseph M. Steger reports that he has received a number of complaints from county residents about bagworms on their evergreens.

The bagworm is a soft, brown caterpillar, encased in a silken cocoon-like bag to which are attached bits of leaves from the host plant. In Maryland, bagworms appear about the first week in June and feed voraciously on the foliage of evergreens, particularly arborvitae and juniper, and to a lesser extent on deciduous shrubs and trees.

The moths emerge in late summer or fall and the females lay eggs which overwinter in the bags.

Mr. Steger advises residents who wish to get rid of the bagworms to spray with malathion, one cup of 25 per cent wettable powder in three gallons of water.

Will Is Admitted To Probate Here

The will of Miss Eleanor Byrnes, 69, of Eckhart, who died July 20 was admitted to probate yesterday in Orphans Court.

Market Beats Reluctant Retreat; Aircrafts Gain

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market beat a reluctant retreat Tuesday, giving ground stubbornly following its sharp advance recently into new high ground for the year.

Volume remained above three million shares for the 11th straight session. The 3,310,000 shares traded compared with 3,940,000 Monday.

While most big industrial stocks were clipped for moderate losses generally, the aircrafts bucked the trend, making a string of good gains.

Assorted drugs, photographic issues and tobaccos also went forward. Utilities were fairly steady.

Wall Streeters said the market had finally lost some of its steam after its almost unbroken string of rises since the big drop July 14 when the pro-Nasser coup occured in Iraq. Tuesday's loss, though moderate, was the sharpest since that date and clipped an estimated $1,286,600,000 from the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, based on the decline in the Associated Press average.

Little selling pressure was apparent, however. While some profit taking was in order there was also considerable switching and rotation of interest to groups and specific stocks which have not participated in the latest upsurge.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dropped $1.00 to $182.10 with the industrials down $1.80, the rails down 70 cents and the utilities off 10 cents.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Grain futures prices closed on a firm to strong plane, although soybeans rode an easier trend, on the Chicago Board of Trade Tuesday.

Wheat closed up ⅞ to 1½ cents; corn (old) up ⅝ to ¾ cent, (new) up ⅝ to ⅞ cent; oats up ½ to 1⅛ cents; rye up 1 to 1⅜ cent; soybeans off ⅛ to up ½ cent.

Small hedge selling and modest offerings accounted for a firmness in wheat. Moderate activity prevailed throughout the day. Buying was done by local brokers and commission houses.

A quiet trade was apparent in the corn market, with prices ranging generally slightly above the previous close. Reports of good crop progress circulated among the traders. Country offerings Tuesday were light.

A stronger price pace was set in oats, and the demand was fairly general. December and March options garnered the business of local traders, and some elevator selling of December was reported.

Soybean attempts to maintain an early firmness but failed as the demand wavered. Some stop loss selling developed. Trade was moderately active. Sales of 18,214,000 bushels since June 1 were reported by the local office of the Commodity Credit Corporation. The range:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Pass	2 spades	Pass
3 hearts	Pass	3 spades	Pass
4 diamonds	Pass	4 hearts	Pass
5 hearts	Pass	6 hearts	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Club jack.

Stories of hands that involve surmounting of hardships usually engage our attention. Today's offering is unique in that declarer played out most of the hand before he was even aware of the very adverse trump break.

The bidding perhaps calls for some stray comments. North's immediate jump shift is sound inasmuch as he has 20 points with a virtually solid suit of his own. South's postponement of mentioning the diamond suit is good strategy. There will be plenty of time to show it and great preference should be given to the almost solid six card suit.

With no special fit for either of his partner's suits, North could do no more than return somewhat reluctantly to hearts over four diamonds but when South scraped up another bid. North eagerly contracted for slam.

West led the jack of clubs and South put up the ace with the expectation of discarding the dummy's remaining three clubs on his high diamond. He did not mind if the fourth round of diamonds were ruffed, for he intended to trump one club in dummy and throw the other one the ace of spades.

In pursuit of this plan he cashed the ace of diamonds, and the ace of spades, taking his club discard, and then ruffed a low spade. Next came the parade of the diamond honors on which everyone, happily, had to follow as dummy's clubs disappeared. South's remaining club was ruffed with the five of hearts.

East was down to nothing but trumps at this point so that as declarer led a spade from dummy he was forced to ruff in. In order to complicate matters he trumped with the queen, laid down the king and, when West showed out, excited with the heart 6, East, in with the 7, had to lead from his J-4 into declarer's A-8.

Bagworms Prey On Evergreens

County Agent Joseph M. Steger reports that he has received a number of complaints from county residents about bagworms on their evergreens.

The bagworm is a soft, brown caterpillar, encased in a silken cocoon-like bag to which are attached bits of leaves from the host plant. In Maryland, bagworms appear about the first week in June and feed voraciously on the foliage of evergreens, particularly arborvitae and juniper, and to a lesser extent on deciduous shrubs and trees.

The moths emerge in late summer or fall and the females lay eggs which overwinter in the bags.

Mr. Steger advises residents who wish to get rid of the bagworms to spray with malathion, one cup of 25 per cent wettable powder in three gallons of water.

Will Is Admitted To Probate Here

The will of Miss Eleanor Byrnes, 69, of Eckhart, who died July 20 was admitted to probate yesterday in Orphans Court.

The estate was left to John J., Leo S., Gregory P. and William Byrnes, brothers of the deceased. John J. and Leo S. Byrnes were named executors of the estate.

Property Is Purchased For LaVale Road Job

Two deeds for property needed in the modernization of U. S. Route 40 in LaVale were filed yesterday at the Court House.

The Super Concrete Company and George A. Emerson have sold property along the right of way to the State Roads Commission.

Rev. Poland Assigned To Corinth, W.Va.

Lonaconing Pastor Leaves This Week

LONACONING—Rev. Paul Poland gave his farewell sermon on Sunday at the Pentecostal Holiness Church, 19 Jackson Street, Lonaconing. Mrs. Poland played the piano at the farewell service which was attended by a large congregation.

The final Bible study to be conducted by Rev. Poland will be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock.

He has been appointed to the pastorate at Corinth Pentecostal Holiness Church, Corinth, W. Va., and will preach his first sermon at his new pastorate this Sunday, August 3.

He has served as secretary-treasurer of the Lonaconing Ministerium with the Protestant church ministers of the community. Tuesday evening Rev. and Mrs. Poland attended the farewell reception for Rev. C. H. Goshorn at the First Presbyterian Church Christian Education building and they presented a vocal duet and Mrs. Poland played accordion and piano selections.

The Poland family are natives of Atlantic City, N. J., and had served in pastorates in New Jersey, Hagerstown and Corinth, W. Va., before coming to Lonaconing. They will be returning to their same church they served prior to their appointment to the local church.

They have two daughters, Janet and Ruth Ann. Miss Janet Poland, 16, will be a senior at Southern school for her graduating year. Ruth Ann, who was one year old on July 6, was born during their stay in Lonaconing. This week Miss Janet Poland is attending "Youth Camp" at Lighthouse Inn where "Fun Night" was held on Monday evening and the climaxing service will be Friday night. This Youth Camp followed the Pentecostal Holiness camp conference and camp meetings.

Rev. Ben Arthur of Washington, D. C., who led the choir at the camp meetings, will be at the Lonaconing Pentecostal Holiness Church until a new pastor is appointed.

Rev. and Mrs. Poland made many broadcasts on the "Gospel Echo" program Saturday mornings. They have many friends in this area.

Randolph Sees Party Harmony

CLARKSBURG, W. Va. (UPI)—A candidate for the U. S. Senate explained Tuesday night why Democrats running for public office "have not allowed themselves to become angry" while conducting "aggressive campaigns."

Speaking at a party rally here, former congressman Jennings Randolph of Elkins said that although Democrats in West Virginia differ as to primary candidates, "they realize a responsibility to the party and have opened no wounds which will be difficult to heal after Aug. 5."

"This offers no comfort to the Republicans," Randolph said.

Turning to the national picture, Randolph said "Americans generally are convinced that a new national leadership is necessary to increase confidence, vision and hope in meeting our economic and international problems."

Kanawha Bank Assessment Is Upheld

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A 1958 valuation of $5,944,500 on the capital stock of the Kanawha Valley Bank was upheld Tuesday by the Kanawha County Court.

The bank had said the assessment should not be in excess of $2,700,000. The bank complained that its capital stock was being put on the books at true and actual value while property in general was being valued for tax purposes at around 40 per cent of its actual value.

Chief Deputy assessor William J. Gaten of Kanawha County said that if market value were used for assessment purposes, the bank's valuation would be higher.

Last year, the bank protested a valuation of $7,700,000 before the county board of equalization and review. The board upheld John M. Slack's assessment but Circuit Judge Frank L. Taylor later reduced it to $6,000,000. A later ruling by the State Supreme Court, in effect, reduced the valuation to $2,400,000.

The band recently won first prize at the W. Va., firemen's convention held in Romney.

Elkins Sailor Is Held On Murder Charge

FERNANDINA BEACH, Fla., (UPI)—Nassau County authorities held a West Virginia sailor here Tuesday on a first degree murder charge in the fatal shooting of a Duval County woman.

Ralph D. Sandy of Elkins, W. Va., stationed at Jacksonville Naval Air Station, was accused of shooting Mrs. Staten Ogilvie, 34, Sunday at a tavern on U. S. 1 near here.

Sheriff H. J. Youngblood said Sandy, also accused of forcing the night club owner to accompany him on a flight into Georgia, probably would also be charged with kidnaping.

Randolph Sees Party Harmony

CLARKSBURG, W. Va. (UPI)—A candidate for the U. S. Senate explained Tuesday night why Democrats running for public office "have not allowed themselves to become angry" while conducting "aggressive campaigns."

Speaking at a party rally here, former congressman Jennings Randolph of Elkins said that although Democrats in West Virginia differ as to primary candidates, "they realize a responsibility to the party and have opened no wounds which will be difficult to heal after Aug. 5."

"This offers no comfort to the Republicans," Randolph said.

Turning to the national picture, Randolph said "Americans generally are convinced that a new national leadership is necessary to increase confidence, vision and hope in meeting our economic and international problems."

Kanawha Bank Assessment Is Upheld

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A 1958 valuation of $5,944,500 on the capital stock of the Kanawha Valley Bank was upheld Tuesday by the Kanawha County Court.

The bank had said the assessment should not be in excess of $2,700,000. The bank complained that its capital stock was being put on the books at true and actual value while property in general was being valued for tax purposes at around 40 per cent of its actual value.

Chief Deputy assessor William J. Gaten of Kanawha County said that if market value were used for assessment purposes, the bank's valuation would be higher.

Last year, the bank protested a valuation of $7,700,000 before the county board of equalization and review. The board upheld John M. Slack's assessment but Circuit Judge Frank L. Taylor later reduced it to $6,000,000. A later ruling by the State Supreme Court, in effect, reduced the valuation to $2,400,000.

The band recently won first prize at the W. Va., firemen's convention held in Romney.

Elkins Sailor Is Held On Murder Charge

FERNANDINA BEACH, Fla., (UPI)—Nassau County authorities held a West Virginia sailor here Tuesday on a first degree murder charge in the fatal shooting of a Duval County woman.

Ralph D. Sandy of Elkins, W. Va., stationed at Jacksonville Naval Air Station, was accused of shooting Mrs. Staten Ogilvie, 34, Sunday at a tavern on U. S. 1 near here.

Sheriff H. J. Youngblood said Sandy, also accused of forcing the night club owner to accompany him on a flight into Georgia, probably would also be charged with kidnaping.

W.Va. Pay Checks Delayed, But Who Knows Why?

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—About half the 14,000 state employes apparently will not receive their July pay checks on time Friday but the three state agencies directly involved in the processing of pay checks denied any delays Tuesday in their own departments.

A spokesman for the state treasurer's office said that 7,000 payroll checks and 5,000 current expense checks due in his office Tuesday morning had not arrived.

The spokesman said that since requisitions for the checks were not in the state auditor's office either, the delay was traced to the office of Budget Director George B. Vieweg.

However, Vieweg denied any check "pileup in our office" and said the checks must still be in the auditor's office.

State Auditor Edgar B. Sims reported, however, that no check snarl had been reported to him.

Noting that checks are not due until the last day of the month, Sims said his office force would have the payroll verified and signed on time "if we have to stay here all night to get it done."

Boy Injured In Accident Still 'Critical'

A seven-year-old boy was still in critical condition last night at Bedford Memorial Hospital with injuries suffered in a Pennsylvania Turnpike collision which injured six other persons.

James R. Barnes Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Barnes, both 27, of Medina, Ohio, was admitted for treatment of a skull fracture, severe internal injuries and shock.

The youngster was injured in the crash which occurred 10 miles west of Bedford at about 2:30 (EDT) Monday afternoon.

State Police said a car driven by Barnes was traveling east when it went out of control during a heavy rainstorm and skidded across the medial strip. The car collided with another automobile driven by Albert R. Jacobs, 45, Yardley, Pa.

The Ohio family, including Barnes' parents, was on the way to a vacation at Virginia Beach, Va.

Also admitted for observation and X-rays were the boy's mother, Mrs. Thelma Barnes; a sister, Diana Marie, 9, and the grandparents, Mrs. Linual Barnes, 47, and James E. Barnes, 60, of Cleveland. The elder Mr. Barnes is reported in satisfactory condition and suffered lacerations of the forehead. The others are reported "good."

Jacobs, 45, and his daughter, Edrie, 10, were admitted to the hospital while Mrs. Jacobs escaped injuries. Jacobs is in good condition with minor lacerations, contusions and abrasions. The daughter, also listed as "good," suffered a fractured left leg.

West Virginians Again Urged To Get Salk Shots

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Another request was issued Tuesday by State Health Director N. H. Dyer that all children be innoculated with the Salk polio vaccine.

Dyer said six cases of poliomyelitis had been reported to his department last week compared to only one the week before. This brought the number for the year to 27. There were only 10 reported cases for the comparable period in 1957.

Three of last week's new polio cases were in Wyoming County, Kanawha, Raleigh and Summers had one each.

The health department also reported a mid-summer rise in the number of influenza-like diseases. A total of 68 cases were reported last week compared to nine the week before. This brought to 8,845 the total for the year.

First Baptist Church Plans Kindergarten

First Baptist Church will conduct a kindergarten school beginning September 8, according to Rev. Archie C. Prevatte.

The school will be held Monday through Friday from 9 a. m. until noon at the church on Bedford Street under the direction of Mrs. James Haney. Transportation will be provided for the school.

Mrs. Haney is a graduate of Fairmont State College, Fairmont, W. Va., with a bachelor of arts degree in elementary education. She taught four years in Harrison County, W. Va., and directed the kindergarten at First Baptist Church last year.

The school is open to all children four and five years old. Information concerning registration may be secured by contacting Mrs. Haney at PA 2-2081.

day and the program will end with breakfast Saturday, August 9.

Monday's activities will include a vespers service led by Rev. William Groff, Delaware City, Del. Tuesday's highlight will be a public speaking contest. District winners competing for state honors will be Marlene Clark, Baltimore Pike, and Ralph Buckel, who is a student at Northern Garrett County High School.

A feature on Wednesday will be a discussion of the International Farm Youth Exchange program. On Thursday, the 4-H members will be offered a choice among tours into Washington. One is to Cinerama, the second is Smithsonian Institute and the Lincoln Memorial, the third is the National Art Gallery and the Jefferson Memorial and the fourth is the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Friday's program will include a pageant, a concert by the U.S. Navy Band and the All-Star consecration service.

Trade-In

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP) — A car thief didn't like the 1946 model car he stole in Murphysboro and traded it for a 1958 model parked at a nearby restaurant.

The loser was Mrs. Shirley Runion, a restaurant employe, who returned the older model to its owner, J. W. Willet.

Bids Received On Seven W.Va. Road Projects

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Road Commission received bids Tuesday on seven highway construction projects in West Virginia, including three interstate jobs in the Northern and Eastern Panhandles.

Apparent low bids totaled $2,506,671, including $1,802,354 for the three interstate jobs. The interstate work included the first project on Interstate 70 in the Northern Panhandle.

The interstate work and apparent low bidders included:

Berkeley County — Hainesville overhead on Interstate 82, dual three-span continuous concrete deck girder bridges on concrete substructure; Corby Construction Co., Inc., Morgantown, $195,559.

Berkeley — Falling Waters overhead on Interstate 81, dual three span continuous concrete deck girder bridges on concrete substructure; Coby Construction Co., $100,850.

County Worker Begins Big Job

Aubrey Webb, a quietly-efficient Allegany County employe, yesterday started the enormous task in the Court House basement of typing the necessary information on addressograph plates for some 35,000 county taxpayers.

The addressograph was purchased for the county tax office several months ago. The county commissioners, at their meeting July 18, empowered Commissioner William A. Wilson to place the machine in the best available place in the Court House. They also hired Mr. Webb, who has been working in the assessing department at the Court House since the first of the year, to operate the new machine.

Starting logically this week, the addressograph operator began typing the information on the plates for Election District 1. There are two plates on each taxpayer with information to benefit both the tax office and the assessing department.

These permanent plates will avoid the necessity of typing the addresses on tax bills every spring. These bills are sent out around Memorial Day.

PETERSBURG, Ind. (AP)—Turner Corn says he'll make an even swap with the unknown woman who entered his farm home while he was away.

West Virginians Again Urged To Get Salk Shots

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Another request was issued Tuesday by State Health Director N. H. Dyer that all children be innoculated with the Salk polio vaccine.

Dyer said six cases of poliomyelitis had been reported to his department last week compared to only one the week before. This brought the number for the year to 27. There were only 10 reported cases for the comparable period in 1957.

Three of last week's new polio cases were in Wyoming County, Kanawha, Raleigh and Summers had one each.

The health department also reported a mid-summer rise in the number of influenza-like diseases. A total of 68 cases were reported last week compared to nine the week before. This brought to 8,845 the total for the year.

First Baptist Church Plans Kindergarten

First Baptist Church will conduct a kindergarten school beginning September 8, according to Rev. Archie C. Prevatte.

The school will be held Monday through Friday from 9 a. m. until noon at the church on Bedford Street under the direction of Mrs. James Haney. Transportation will be provided for the school.

Mrs. Haney is a graduate of Fairmont State College, Fairmont, W. Va., with a bachelor of arts degree in elementary education. She taught four years in Harrison County, W. Va., and directed the kindergarten at First Baptist Church last year.

The school is open to all children four and five years old. Information concerning registration may be secured by contacting Mrs. Haney at PA 2-2081.

day and the program will end with breakfast Saturday, August 9.

Monday's activities will include a vespers service led by Rev. William Groff, Delaware City, Del. Tuesday's highlight will be a public speaking contest. District winners competing for state honors will be Marlene Clark, Baltimore Pike, and Ralph Buckel, who is a student at Northern Garrett County High School.

A feature on Wednesday will be a discussion of the International Farm Youth Exchange program. On Thursday, the 4-H members will be offered a choice among tours into Washington. One is to Cinerama, the second is Smithsonian Institute and the Lincoln Memorial, the third is the National Art Gallery and the Jefferson Memorial and the fourth is the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Friday's program will include a pageant, a concert by the U.S. Navy Band and the All-Star consecration service.

Trade-In

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP) — A car thief didn't like the 1946 model car he stole in Murphysboro and traded it for a 1958 model parked at a nearby restaurant.

The loser was Mrs. Shirley Runion, a restaurant employe, who returned the older model to its owner, J. W. Willet.

Bids Received On Seven W.Va. Road Projects

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Road Commission received bids Tuesday on seven highway construction projects in West Virginia, including three interstate jobs in the Northern and Eastern Panhandles.

Apparent low bids totaled $2,506,671, including $1,802,354 for the three interstate jobs. The interstate work included the first project on Interstate 70 in the Northern Panhandle.

The interstate work and apparent low bidders included:

Berkeley County — Hainesville overhead on Interstate 82, dual three-span continuous concrete deck girder bridges on concrete substructure; Corby Construction Co., Inc., Morgantown, $195,559.

Berkeley — Falling Waters overhead on Interstate 81, dual three span continuous concrete deck girder bridges on concrete substructure; Coby Construction Co., $100,850.

Ohio — Grading, draining, cement concrete pavement and bridges, one three-span structure over Wheeling Creek and one dual three-span structure over Mt. De Chantal Road, on .361 miles of Interstate 70; Keely Construction Co., Clarksburg, and Mountain State Construction Co., South Charleston, combined bid of $1,595,945.

Grant — Traffic bound base course and surface treatment to 7.15 miles of Sec. 5 from Forman to W. Va. 42; Terra Alta Limestone Co., Kingwood, $174,232.

Harrison — Traffic bound base course, asphaltic concrete bottom and wearing courses to 1.55 miles of W. Va. 58 between Stonewood and Anmoore; Anderson's Inc., Charleston, $83,703.

Raleigh and Wyoming — Grading, draining, traffic bound base course, asphaltic concrete bottom and wearing courses, to 7.1 miles of W. Va. 54 between Jenny Gap and Maben; Vecellio & Grogan, Beckley, $473,106.

Wetzel — New Martinsville bridge on W. Va. 7 with two substructure abutments, three piers and reinforced concrete on steel bearing piles; Seabright Construction Co., Wheeling, $73,276.

Prisoner Asks Immediate Trial

Louis Cox, Bath, N. C., has petitioned Circuit Court for an immediate trial on criminal information on a petty larceny charge.

Cox was arrested Saturday with a companion, Donald Johnson, Kansas City, Mo., and charged with taking a $16.95 electric iron from a local store. Johnson pleaded guilty to the charge Monday and was sentenced to 60 days in Allegany County Jail by Magistrate J. Milton Dick.

Cox, however, prayed a jury trial at the hearing in Trial Magistrates Court and was taken to jail to await the October term of court.

Rev. Jacob H. Snyder, pastor of Kingsley Methodist Church, will officiate and burial will be in Zion Memorial Park. Pallbearers will be Gene Knippenburg, Leroy Valentine, William Miles, Kenneth Collier, Herbert Myers and Lester Tewell.

County Worker Begins Big Job

Aubrey Webb, a quietly-efficient Allegany County employe, yesterday started the enormous task in the Court House basement of typing the necessary information on addressograph plates for some 35,000 county taxpayers.

The addressograph was purchased for the county tax office several months ago. The county commissioners, at their meeting July 18, empowered Commissioner William A. Wilson to place the machine in the best available place in the Court House. They also hired Mr. Webb, who has been working in the assessing department at the Court House since the first of the year, to operate the new machine.

Starting logically this week, the addressograph operator began typing the information on the plates for Election District 1. There are two plates on each taxpayer with information to benefit both the tax office and the assessing department.

These permanent plates will avoid the necessity of typing the addresses on tax bills every spring. These bills are sent out around Memorial Day.

Where Is Eva Peron's Body?

By BRIAN BELL

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Gunfire crackled in the streets of Buenos Aires late in September 1955 when a group of men opened a musty room in the headquarters of the Argentine General Labor Federation.

They were part of the revolution which had just overthrown President Juan Peron after 10 years of dictatorship.

In the room, between two unlit candles, lay the perfectly preserved body of Eva Peron, still beautiful three years after death.

The revolutionaries carried the casket from the building. Where they took it is not known. Some say they buried it on Martin Garcia Island, a naval base in the River Plate. Others say her remains were cremated and the ashes flung in the river.

Now, as the supporters of Peron grow bolder following the election of Peronista-backed President Arturo Frondizi, cries are heard in the streets:

"Where is Eva Peron's body?"

"Return Evita to us."

"Give back the body of the beloved senora."

These words are chalked on walls. Peronista weekly papers appear with Eva's picture. Masses are said for her.

Eva made her last public appearance May 1, 1952, when she attended the opening of the Argentine Congress. For a year she had withered away from cancer. She died July 26.

Famed embalmer Dr. Jose Ara came from Spain to remove the ravages of the disease. Then Eva Peron lay in state in the Labor Ministry for two weeks as hundreds of thousands lined up to see the body.

After this two-week period, Dr. Ara worked again to complete his restoration of the remains to lifelike condition. When he finished, the body was taken to the headquarters of the General Labor Federation and locked in the secret room.

Eva's body was to remain here until a fitting tomb could be built. Hundreds of millions of pesos were collected to build a tremendous monument and tomb.

The memorial, as conceived by Peron, was to have been a very tall temple with 30-foot statues of workers, women and children around it. The tower was to be topped by a gigantic statue of Peron.

Italian sculptor Leone Tommasi was commissioned to carve the statues. A site was chosen near the presidential house. Ground was broken.

Then came the revolution.

Peron's house was ripped down. Concrete was poured into the monument excavation. Today it is a quiet pond in a park where small boys come to sail tiny boats.

Sculptor Tommasi is still trying to collect for his statues.

Eva Duarte was a radio actress of questionable ability and dubious reputation when she met Peron in 1944. Peron, an army colonel and secretary of labor, was handling relief measures for the city of San Juan which had been practically destroyed by an earthquake.

The two fell in love. Cynics say Eva recognized the potential future of an alliance with the dynamic Peron.

As her relationship with Peron improved so did her radio parts. More and more Eva Duarte got the best roles. Peron also was rising. By early 1945, he held the powerful positions of vice president, minister of war and minister of labor.

On Oct. 10, a military coalition, fearful of the power Peron held with his three important jobs, staged a coup. The administration was overthrown and Peron was carted off to prison.

While the leaders of the coup argued over who was to be boss, Eva was busy. She organized a mammoth demonstration by workers for their popular labor minister. On Oct. 17, 100,000 persons jammed Buenos Aires' Plaza de Mayo and its arteries. The display practically paralyzed the country. The revolt was crushed and Peron returned more powerful than ever.

Soon after, Peron and Eva Duarte were married. In February 1946 Peron, still riding the crest of the October labor demonstration, was elected president.

Eva as the president's wife consolidated her position with labor. She created the Eva Peron Foundation, a charity organization, which she administered with no accounts rendered. Eva could and did pass out largess big or small to whomever she wished.

As Peron virtually sacked the wealth of this rich country, Eva gave back a small part with great publicity to the poor. Collections were levied on businessmen to support Eva's charities. She built a show place orphanage on the outskirts of the city. Gradually she became a saint to thousands of Argentina's poorest people.

After she died, her hundreds of thousands of mourners deified her. Shrines were put up around the country. Women brought flowers. Workers stopped to pray there. A person was in danger if he did not cross himself when he passed one of the shrines.

Frondizi was elected last spring after 2½ years of firm provisional government which banned all lauding of Eva or Peron.

Inflation Still Major Problem

While foreign affairs occupy the center of a glaring spotlight, domestic problems go on and on. The No. 1 problem is inflation, for which no end is in sight.

The fiscal year, which closed at the end of June, brought an unexpected federal deficit of just under $3 billion. A small surplus had been predicted at the beginning of the year. Now the deficit for the current fiscal year is estimated at $11 billion. Thereafter, annual deficits ranging from $3 to $6 billion are forecast through 1962.

Most citizens understood, or ought to, that federal deficits are financed in the banking system, creating a flood of new money and lending power. Higher prices and wages follow. The cost of living goes up and the dollar buying power goes down.

These consequences can only be averted by reducing federal spending to make income meet outgo or by raising taxes. The American people are already tax weary. Any party putting taxes higher will meet defeat at the polls. Reducing spending is extremely difficult in view of party rivalry to win the favor of voting groups.

Most members of Congress support spending in one area so that they will get support for their own proposals to spend in another area. That practice makes for progressively higher budgets and interminable deficits.

Yet inflation finally will catch up with us. In the crisis there will be government action to control prices and wages. But the only real answer is to put the budget in balance and keep it there except in extreme emergency, such as a shooting war.

When the American people understand this is the only solution, the federal government may take appropriate action.

Cigaret Lobby Tries To Censor Harper's Article By Congressman

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The cigaret lobby recently bootlegged an advance proof of a Harper's magazine article on cigarets and tried to bamboozle the congressman-author into changing it.

The article was written by Minnesota's kindly Congressman John Blatnik, who has been investigating misleading cigaret ads and means of protecting the public from cigarets.

His words had scarcely been set in print when Philip Morris's public relations director, John C. Bowling, turned up with a proof of his article. He announced to Blatnik's office that the magazine had asked the cigaret company's public relations firm to proofread the article for accuracy and that they had found some factual mistakes.

Bowling then flew to Washington to discuss the alleged errors, and showed up in Blatnik's office with a Philip Morris expert, Dr. Lee S. Harrow.

They tried to persuade Blatnik's assistant to have the Congressman strike out passages in the article that reflected on Philip Morris products, particularly his description of Parliament cigarette's "recessed filter" as a "gimmick" and the charge that the "white ash" in Marlboro cigarettes is achieved by a special bleach.

While Bowling was pulling his bluff, however, Blatnik's office checked with John Fischer, editor of Harper's. Fischer is a man who withstood pressure from the public utilities regarding an article on Hells Canyon and lost power-company advertising thereby. He is not easily pressured.

Angrily he denied that he had asked the tobacco industry to check the article for accuracy, and he suggested that Philip Morris must have smuggled an advance proof out of the magazine's Albany, N. Y., print shop.

In the end, Bowling's bosses apologized to Harper's, and Blatnik's article went to press uncensored.

Italian Visitor

Amintore Fanfani, the five-foot, two-inch new Premier of Italy, now visiting Dulles and Eisenhower, is a man who believes in applying Christianity to politics without any affiliation with the church.

It's understandable that a country which has suffered under both a monarchy and Mussolini should now have the biggest Communist Party outside Russia. Fanfani is trying both to head off Communism and to keep the country on an even keel by crusading for compulsory education through the age of 18 for boys. At present there's free education in many parts of the country, and Fanfani believes that in order to lick Communism Italy must expand its public school system.

He has also campaigned for more public housing, equal wages for women and men, more electric power, and plans a huge Tennessee Valley Authority-type power system for southern Italy.

Even Fanfani's foes grudgingly admit that he's a breath of fresh air in Italian politics.

He also has some fresh ideas for Eisenhower on solving Near Eastern peace, such as a huge public-works program to be financed by repaid Marshall Plan money. It could help bail the Eisenhower Administration out of an embarrassing near east impasse.

Business Lobby

For approximately two years the Senate Rackets Committee has been making headlines with its exposes of labor abuses and misuse of welfare funds. Not getting the headlines today, however, is the manner in which big business and big insurance are trying to block two proposed laws to remedy these abuses. Here is what's happening in the lobbies of Congress:

LAW NO. 1. Is the Kennedy-Ives Bill to protect both labor and employers from racketeers and abuses. This bill has passed the Senate, but the National Association of Manufacturers and the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, believe it or not, are pulling wires with congressmen to try to block it in the House. Reason: employers would have to disclose all sums above $5,000 spent on labor relations. Employer lobbies want labor to disclose amounts spent, but not employers.

LAW NO. 2. Is the Douglas Bill, worked out by Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois, requiring complete publicity regarding welfare and pension funds. The big insurance companies are trying to block this bill because it would require them to make public all pertinent facts regarding welfare funds, including amounts paid to labor leaders. AFL-CIO leaders are vigorously backing this bill. They want complete publicity, but not the insurance companies.

Astute Speaker Sam Rayburn is keeping a watchful eye on both these bills. He wants them to get through the House as well as the Senate this session. Congressman Bill Ayres of Akron, Ohio, Republican, tried to strike out the provision requiring employers to report on welfare funds in the Douglas Bill, but failed.

If the bills come before the full House it will be difficult for any congressman to vote against them, but what some pro-NAM congressmen are trying to do is prevent them from coming up for a vote.

'Summit' Conferences Seldom Avert Wars

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—What are the chances of a big war? "Summit" conferences in the past have been primarily held to satisfy a wishful public opinion, but usually national positions have so hardened on vital issues that by the time such conferences are held it's too late to avert war.

Based on history's record, this correspondent believes that the chances of World War III breaking out suddenly are about fifty-fifty.

Almost every "summit" conference held in this century has been an ominous precursor of war. While the "Summit" Conference was being held at Geneva in 1955, Soviet Russia was secretly laying the foundation for the present war threat in the Middle East by making a secret arms deal with Nasser. Just 12 months after that "Summit" Conference he grabbed Suez, and the British and French landed troops to try to restore the canal to its owners.

It is amazing how widely the impression before a war that there will be no war. This writer remembers how convinced he was from reading the press of 1913 and 1914 that there would not be any world war. He recalls, too, how many competent observers returning from Europe in the summer of 1939 were saying there wouldn't be any World War II.

Reviewing the most significant of the "Summit" conferences of history, it will be recalled that kings and emperors visited each other back and forth prior to 1914, and there was plenty talk of disarmament and of prescribing "neutrality" for the buffer states like Belgium. When, however, the Archduke of Austria was assassinated in Serbia in June, 1914 ,it was the spark that set off World War I. Two small countries had dragged the big countries into it, but behind it all was the fundamental cleavage of the larger powers.

Again in the 1930's there were plenty of top-level conferences with both Hitler and Mussolini. The cry of "nationalism" was heard often as, for example, when Hitler demanded that Germans in Czechoslovakia be reunited with their fatherland. Concession after concession was made to Hitler.

This writer was among the many who were misled by the "Summit" Conference of September, 1938, when Chamberlain and Hitler met at Munich and the British prime minister predicted "peace in our time." Within a year afterward Hitler had started World War II.

One month before that war broke out, another "Summit" Conference—in August, 1939—was held in Berlin, when Molotov and Hitler signed a ten-year nonaggression treaty. This meant that Hitler had a free hand to attack the West because he was sure of Stalin's neutrality on the eastern front.

Even during World War II the "Summit" conferences were ill-fated and, in a sense, laid the foundation for another war later on. President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Premier Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill got together at Yalta early in 1945 and arranged for Russia's entry into the war against Japan. The fate of Poland as an independent nation was sealed at that meeting because of concessions made.

Worst of all in some respects was the "Summit" Conference that sowed the seeds of the Korean War. At Cairo in November, 1943, President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek agreed that Korea should be "free and independent." At the "Summit" Conference at Potsdam in 1945, President Truman, Prime Minister Attlee of Great Britain and Premier Stalin agreed to divide Korea and give the Soviets military control of the northern section. After setting up a "puppet" government, Soviet troops withdrew at the end of 1948. American troops pulled out of South Korea a few months later. Then, early in 1950, the United States announced casually that it wouldn't defend Korea and intimated that this was a U. N. responsibility. The Soviet Union never believed the U. N. would intervene or that the United States would fight, and went ahead, therefore, to sanction the invasion of South Korea by North Korea. Moscow boasted later it had supplied arms for the project.

Today there are hopes in Moscow that public opinion in France and Britain will succumb to "neutralist" doctrine. It does look as if the British Labor Party, which is reported from so many quarters in Britain as certain to win the next election, wants to go "neutralist."

It is the friction in the Middle East today—with the Soviet Union openly furnishing arms and money to the Egypt-Syrian Republic—which is laying the foundation for World War III. The United Nations itself is as powerless to prevent war now as was the League of Nations in the 1930's. For the decision rests, after all, with the major powers—and the leaders of the Soviet Union are convinced that, since France and Britain are weak and pacifistic, the United States will not dare to fight.

The world may be witnessing another one of those gross miscalculations which "Summit" conferences in the past have tended to encourage. For such meetings usually are built on fear by one side or the other and on the impetus of pacifism, which is supposed to be politically popular. The war to expect is not a nuclear war, but what has been called a "conventional war." The build-up for it bears a startling resemblance to what happened before World War I, before World War II and before the Korean War. The last conflict, incidentally, was a non-nuclear war even though both sides had atomic weapons.

Is there an answer? Courageous John Foster Dulles has given one again and again, as he says, in effect: "Don't let the enemy miscalculate. Make your position clear, that you will fight if it becomes necessary."

The landing of American Marines in Lebanon is a historic warning. Premature withdrawal of the American and British forces as a result of a "Summit" Conference in New York might be fatal—it could be misconstrued by Moscow as a sign of weakness. It might unwittingly encourage acts by members of the Soviet bloc that would bring on the big war.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Summit Conference

It used to be, when there were no intercontinental telephones and travel was slow, that heads of states conferred with each other by means of ambassadors or other emissaries. Of course, there were such summit conferences as the Field of the Cloth of Gold or the Congress of Vienna where the men of responsibility finally met and made decisions about everything from marriage and heredity to the division of spoils. There was much double-crossing in those days even as now.

For instance, the Paris conference among Great Britain, France, Spain and Portugal in 1763 was one of those summit conferences which, among other things, settled the French and Indian War of our own continent. The particular series of wars which this conference settled started in 1651 or thereabouts, got itself involved in the succession to the Spanish Throne, had a little side war which went by the name of the War of Jenkins's Ear, and ended up in a treaty by which France ceded Canada to England and all of Louisiana east of the Mississippi except New Orleans. France retained the islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon which became famous in our own Prohibition era because of the enormous bootlegging operations therefrom. England restored to France a number of islands including Martinique, and to Spain, Cuba in return for Florida. Spain got from France, French territory west of the Mississippi including New Orleans.

This was some deal but it did not last very long. It all started because Charles II of Spain was childless and the Hapsburgs who then controlled Spain would lose that country which bothered all European nations because at that stage of European history, legitimacy was very important, particularly in relationship to succession to a throne. No Khrushchev could succeed a Hapsburg—not in those days.

As Charles II had no heir, Louis XIV of France, Leopold I of the German Hapsburgs, and the Electoral Prince of Bavaria aspired to the throne. None of them were Spaniards as really Charles II was not a Spaniard, although he was the King of Spain. That's what nationality counted for in those days! Incidentally the Prince of Bavaria was then only seven years old.

When Charles II died, the fat was in the fire, to use a phrase. Everybody went to war with everybody else and that fixed it fine for Winston Churchill's ancestor, the Duke of Marlborough, who won a great battle at Blenheim and became an immortal.

It just goes to show how mixed up history can get and how summit conferences decide things that the war had nothing to do with. For instance, in the midst of all this war, the great of the world got together and worked out a Treaty of Utrecht (1713), in the course of which the Protestant succession in England was recognized. From Elizabeth I on, the monarchs of England had been Protestant but they were regarded as illegitimate. However, that was all changed now. The Bourbons got Spain and Prussia became a kingdom.

But all this did not end the wars which continued on for years and years. In fact, it might be said that they never really ended on the continent of Europe or in Asia. The American Revolution and the French Revolution were responses to the challenges of these wars, these conferences and these treaties. One sometimes wonders, as he reads history, which is worse, the actual wars or the confusing peaces?

This little bit of history, too condensed into a few paragraphs, is given here only to remind one that conferences do not solve great human problems any better than the ordinary channels of diplomacy. If conferences could do that, all the wars and revolutions, probably running up to a hundred, which have plagued the world since say 1910, would not have occurred after the League of Nations and the United Nations came into existence. The meetings, speeches and debates at the League of Nations culminated in World War II; the current plethora of speeches at the United Nations has not kept the world from war—not yet.

The question arises: what would a summit conference to include Eisenhower, Macmillan, De Gaulle, Khrushchev, Nehru, Nasser and probably the King of Yemen amount to? Why not invite Israel, Turkey, Greece and Cyprus? Also Iran and Pakistan? Why not invite all the 80 nations of the United Nations and talk forever?

Political bribery did not become a felicitous felony in these heretofore 48 States until 1876. It took them that long to decipher George Washington's marginal nudgings.

Up until that time it had been considered chicanery with intent to educate.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

Always I hunted the big story . . .

The war was waning. I was in Bermuda for Collier's magazine. There was a new Naval Base with an old admiral. His name was Sowell. He had a face like a homemade bomb. In it, a panatela fuse burned. He chewed the fuse and opened a desk drawer and said: "Cigar?" I shook my head no.

I was there to get the story about the new base. There were rumors, in the United States, that we had been swindled; that the Bermudians had given us land under water. The admiral looked out of his office window at the jade reaches of Great Sound and he told me that the rumors were lies.

Bermuda is a 19-mile fishhook. The Navy sent Admiral Greenslade and a committee down to study the island and find a place to build a base. No matter where they tried to build it, it would cut the Bermudians off from one end of the island or the other.

So Greeenslade and his engineers hit on a novel idea. The harbor was full of coral and would have to be dredged. Why not take the dredged coral and build it up into a naval base? It was done. The coral was spread as level as a billiard table and it occupied one corner of the sound and assured the U.S. Navy of privacy, without impinging on the privacy of the citizens.

We were not swindled . The deal was and is a good one. I sat taking notes from the admiral and he kept squinting out into the sound, toward the sea.

"You keep looking out there as though you saw something bad," I said. The admiral said that this was not so. He suddenly became aimost jolly which, for him, is a long trip.

"A destroyer squadron is coming in this morning from E.T.O." he said. "One of the skippers is young Frank Roosevelt." He rolled the cigar over his lower teeth and then clamped the uppers onto it. "If he hits a reef, I'm going to put him on the beach."

"Reef?"

"Bermuda is ringed with reefs."

"You're worried because his father is President?"

"That's precisely why I'm not worried. His father isn't running this base. I am." He set the cigar in an ash tray. "How would you like to go back to New York on a brand new DD? A twenty-two hundred tonner."

"I'm not finished my research."

"All right. All right. When you get finished."

"Sure. Anything would be bette. than that PBY you brought me down on."

"That's a good little airplane."

"Yop. Tell me, what's that rusty submarine doing out in the roadstead?"

He picked the cigar up and bit it in half. "What submarine?" he said.

"The one out there. To the right of the jeep carrier."

"Oh, that one. It's just sitting there until I get some orders for it."

"It doesn't look American."

"It doesn't?"

"No. It doesn't."

He rolled the cigar back and forth like a brown rug in the back of an old trunk. Then he thrust his head foreward at me and his eyes made a little whirring sound as they drilled into my head. "If you so much as mention that boat when you get back home, I'll see that you never get another story."

I gulped. "It's German?" I said in a whisper. He glared at me and went down to a whisper himself. "The U-505. You know what it means?"

I nodded. It meant that the United States, for the first time, had captured a U-Boat intact. It meant that the Navy could test its strengths, its weaknesses, learn its secrets, and probably had its secret code books. This would be one of the biggest stories of the war and there I was sitting alone with it. It was all mine.

"Not one word," the admiral said. "Not even to your wife."

I went back to New York and said not a word.

Always I hunted the big story . . .

The Middle Aged Spread And How It Grows

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Most of us gain weight with age. The added poundage is fat and the porportion is greater in women than in men. In a group of persons varying in age from 20 to 60 years, the fat content of women was 23.7 per cent whereas in men it was 16.8 per cent. These individuals were not regarded as stout.

X-ray studies showed that as men got older, fat was deposited in the flanks. The hips and breast areas were next and the least fat was noted over the shins and the midportion of the arms.

The fat content of the body of normal women increased from 26 per cent at age 25 to 38 per cent at age 55. The deposits were most marked over the tissues of the chest, hips, waist, and back. The extremities remained the same. All of the women studied were considered to be of ideal weight for their age and height.

These changes account for the middle-aged spread, pot-belly, and other uncomplimentary bulges that occur with each succeeding decade. The adornment may be a natural phenomenon. In this respect, it is the slender hips and waist lines that separate boys from men.

The standard insurance weights of men and women do not take body build and tissue composition into consideration. An athlete's fat may be converted to muscle after much strenuous exercise. Since muscle is heavier, the individual may weigh more than the charts allow for maximum health. Professional football players in peak condition may be 20 or more per cent overweight according to the tables for their height and age. They have little fat and cannot be considered obese.

Studies on selective service registrants demonstrated the importance of body build in determining ideal weight. According to Dr. Olaf Bickelsen, registrants of the same age and stature with chest circumferences of 32, 37, and 42 inches weighed 130, 158, and 198 pounds, respectively.

The charts list the ideal weight for the entire group as 150 pounds. The man who fills a large frame is not necessarily too heavy.

SOFTENED BONES

Mrs. E. H. B. writes: I fractured some vertebrae in my spine—how, when, or where, I don't know, as I didn't fall or wrench my back. The doctor has me in a brace and says I have osteoporosis. Will you please write something about this disease?

REPLY

Fractures occur easily in osteoporosis because the bones have become soft and are not strong enough to bear the weight of the upper part of the body. Changes in the glandular system incident to aging are thought to be responsible. Improvement often follows the use of sex hormones. Send a stamped, self-address envelope for our leaflet on this disease.

BEEF LIVER

Mrs. W. writes: Is there any harm in eating raw beef liver?

REPLY

Not if the liver is free from contamination. As the saying goes, every man to his taste.

TOMORROW: Severe penicillin reactions.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

"It's too early to tell yet about Gilbert," she notes. "As a matter of fact, we can tell, all right, but we're not ready to face it. Once upon a time we might have been taken in by smile and gurgles and round blue eyes, but no more. We know he is just biding his time. Today he can't do much more than eat his shoelaces and suck off an occasional button. Tomorrow the world . . ."

Inflation Still Major Problem

While foreign affairs occupy the center of a glaring spotlight, domestic problems go on and on. The No. 1 problem is inflation, for which no end is in sight.

The fiscal year, which closed at the end of June, brought an unexpected federal deficit of just under $3 billion. A small surplus had been predicted at the beginning of the year. Now the deficit for the current fiscal year is estimated at $11 billion. Thereafter, annual deficits ranging from $3 to $6 billion are forecast through 1962.

Most citizens understood, or ought to, that federal deficits are financed in the banking system, creating a flood of new money and lending power. Higher prices and wages follow. The cost of living goes up and the dollar buying power goes down.

These consequences can only be averted by reducing federal spending to make income meet outgo or by raising taxes. The American people are already tax weary. Any party putting taxes higher will meet defeat at the polls. Reducing spending is extremely difficult in view of party rivalry to win the favor of voting groups.

Most members of Congress support spending in one area so that they will get support for their own proposals to spend in another area. That practice makes for progressively higher budgets and interminable deficits.

Yet inflation finally will catch up with us. In the crisis there will be government action to control prices and wages. But the only real answer is to put the budget in balance and keep it there except in extreme emergency, such as a shooting war.

When the American people understand this is the only solution, the federal government may take appropriate action.

Cigaret Lobby Tries To Censor Harper's Article By Congressman

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The cigaret lobby recently bootlegged an advance proof of a Harper's magazine article on cigarets and tried to bamboozle the congressman-author into changing it.

The article was written by Minnesota's kindly Congressman John Blatnik, who has been investigating misleading cigaret ads and means of protecting the public from cigarets.

His words had scarcely been set in print when Philip Morris's public relations director, John C. Bowling, turned up with a proof of his article. He announced to Blatnik's office that the magazine had asked the cigaret company's public relations firm to proofread the article for accuracy and that they had found some factual mistakes.

Bowling then flew to Washington to discuss the alleged errors, and showed up in Blatnik's office with a Philip Morris expert, Dr. Lee S. Harrow.

They tried to persuade Blatnik's assistant to have the Congressman strike out passages in the article that reflected on Philip Morris products, particularly his description of Parliament cigarette's "recessed filter" as a "gimmick" and the charge that the "white ash" in Marlboro cigarettes is achieved by a special bleach.

While Bowling was pulling his bluff, however, Blatnik's office checked with John Fischer, editor of Harper's. Fischer is a man who withstood pressure from the public utilities regarding an article on Hells Canyon and lost power-company advertising thereby. He is not easily pressured.

Angrily he denied that he had asked the tobacco industry to check the article for accuracy, and he suggested that Philip Morris must have smuggled an advance proof out of the magazine's Albany, N. Y., print shop.

In the end, Bowling's bosses apologized to Harper's, and Blatnik's article went to press uncensored.

Italian Visitor

Amintore Fanfani, the five-foot, two-inch new Premier of Italy, now visiting Dulles and Eisenhower, is a man who believes in applying Christianity to politics without any affiliation with the church.

It's understandable that a country which has suffered under both a monarchy and Mussolini should now have the biggest Communist Party outside Russia. Fanfani is trying both to head off Communism and to keep the country on an even keel by crusading for compulsory education through the age of 18 for boys. At present there's free education in many parts of the country, and Fanfani believes that in order to lick Communism Italy must expand its public school system.

He has also campaigned for more public housing, equal wages for women and men, more electric power, and plans a huge Tennessee Valley Authority-type power system for southern Italy.

Even Fanfani's foes grudgingly admit that he's a breath of fresh air in Italian politics.

He also has some fresh ideas for Eisenhower on solving Near Eastern peace, such as a huge public-works program to be financed by repaid Marshall Plan money. It could help bail the Eisenhower Administration out of an embarrassing near east impasse.

Premature withdrawal of the American and British forces as a result of a "Summit" Conference in New York might be fatal—it could be misconstrued by Moscow as a sign of weakness. It might unwittingly encourage acts by members of the Soviet bloc that would bring on the big war.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Summit Conference

It used to be, when there were no intercontinental telephones and travel was slow, that heads of states conferred with each other by means of ambassadors or other emissaries. Of course, there were such summit conferences as the Field of the Cloth of Gold or the Congress of Vienna where the men of responsibility finally met and made decisions about everything from marriage and heredity to the division of spoils. There was much double-crossing in those days even as now.

For instance, the Paris conference among Great Britain, France, Spain and Portugal in 1763 was one of those summit conferences which, among other things, settled the French and Indian War of our own continent. The particular series of wars which this conference settled started in 1651 or thereabouts, got itself involved in the succession to the Spanish Throne, had a little side war which went by the name of the War of Jenkins's Ear, and ended up in a treaty by which France ceded Canada to England and all of Louisiana east of the Mississippi except New Orleans. France retained the islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon which became famous in our own Prohibition era because of the enormous bootlegging operations therefrom. England restored to France a number of islands including Martinique, and to Spain, Cuba in return for Florida. Spain got from France, French territory west of the Mississippi including New Orleans.

This was some deal but it did not last very long. It all started because Charles II of Spain was childless and the Hapsburgs who then controlled Spain would lose that country which bothered all European nations because at that stage of European history, legitimacy was very important, particularly in relationship to succession to a throne. No Khrushchev could succeed a Hapsburg—not in those days.

As Charles II had no heir, Louis XIV of France, Leopold I of the German Hapsburgs, and the Electoral Prince of Bavaria aspired to the throne. None of them were Spaniards as really Charles II was not a Spaniard, although he was the King of Spain. That's what nationality counted for in those days! Incidentally the Prince of Bavaria was then only seven years old.

When Charles II died, the fat was in the fire, to use a phrase. Everybody went to war with everybody else and that fixed it fine for Winston Churchill's ancestor, the Duke of Marlborough, who won a great battle at Blenheim and became an immortal.

It just goes to show how mixed up history can get and how summit conferences decide things that the war had nothing to do with. For instance, in the midst of all this war, the great of the world got together and worked out a Treaty of Utrecht (1713), in the course of which the Protestant succession in England was recognized. From Elizabeth I on, the monarchs of England had been Protestant but they were regarded as illegitimate. However, that was all changed now. The Bourbons got Spain and Prussia became a kingdom.

But all this did not end the wars which continued on for years and years. In fact, it might be said that they never really ended on the continent of Europe or in Asia. The American Revolution and the French Revolution were responses to the challenges of these wars, these conferences and these treaties. One sometimes wonders, as he reads history, which is worse, the actual wars or the confusing peaces?

This little bit of history, too condensed into a few paragraphs, is given here only to remind one that conferences do not solve great human problems any better than the ordinary channels of diplomacy. If conferences could do that, all the wars and revolutions, probably running up to a hundred, which have plagued the world since say 1910, would not have occurred after the League of Nations and the United Nations came into existence. The meetings, speeches and debates at the League of Nations culminated in World War II; the current plethora of speeches at the United Nations has not kept the world from war—not yet.

The question arises: what would a summit conference to include Eisenhower, Macmillan, De Gaulle, Khrushchev, Nehru, Nasser and probably the King of Yemen amount to? Why not invite Israel, Turkey, Greece and Cyprus? Also Iran and Pakistan? Why not invite all the 80 nations of the United Nations and talk forever?

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Political bribery did not become a felicitous felony in these heretofore 48 States until 1876. It took them that long to decipher George Washington's marginal nudgings.

Up until that time it had been considered chicanery with intent to educate.

The election laws of 1874 were as temporary as wax fillings. The trouble with political reform is it is neither perpetual nor self-funding.

Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof. And sufficient unto the day is the cure.

Your public relations agent is the fellow who does most gimmicks in private. His grandpop was the oldtime lobbyist who would go either way like a cat on a picket fence.

A grifting politico is a chain smoker who pays no taxes on the tobacco.

All that an investigation does is agitate the agenda.

That starts with the Luxor of 1884 that chased Tammany out of office. And into another.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

Always I hunted the big story . . .

The war was waning. I was in Bermuda for Collier's magazine. There was a new Naval Base with an old admiral. His name was Sowell. He had a face like a homemade bomb. In it, a panatela fuse burned. He chewed the fuse and opened a desk drawer and said: "Cigar?" I shook my head no.

I was there to get the story about the new base. There were rumors, in the United States, that we had been swindled; that the Bermudians had given us land under water. The admiral looked out of his office window at the jade reaches of Great Sound and he told me that the rumors were lies.

Bermuda is a 19-mile fishhook. The Navy sent Admiral Greenslade and a committee down to study the island and find a place to build a base. No matter where they tried to build it, it would cut the Bermudians off from one end of the island or the other.

So Greeenslade and his engineers hit on a novel idea. The harbor was full of coral and would have to be dredged. Why not take the dredged coral and build it up into a naval base? It was done. The coral was spread as level as a billiard table and it occupied one corner of the sound and assured the U.S. Navy of privacy, without impinging on the privacy of the citizens.

We were not swindled. The deal was and is a good one. I sat taking notes from the admiral and he kept squinting out into the sound, toward the sea.

"You keep looking out there as though you saw something bad," I said. The admiral said that this was not so. He suddenly became almost jolly which, for him, is a long trip.

"A destroyer squadron is coming in this morning from E.T.O." he said. "One of the skippers is young Frank Roosevelt." He rolled the cigar over his lower teeth and then clamped the uppers onto it. "If he hits a reef, I'm going to put him on the beach."

"Reef?"

"Bermuda is ringed with reefs."

"You're worried because his father is President?"

"That's precisely why I'm not worried. His father isn't running this base. I am." He set the cigar in an ash tray. "How would you like to go back to New York on a brand new DD? A twenty-two hundred tonner."

"I'm not finished my research."

"All right. All right. When you get finished."

"Sure. Anything would be bette. than that PBY you brought me down on."

"That's a good little airplane."

"Yop. Tell me, what's that rusty submarine doing out in the roadstead?"

He picked the cigar up and bit it in half. "What submarine?" he said.

"The one out there. To the right of the jeep carrier."

"Oh, that one. It's just sitting there until I get some orders for it."

"It doesn't look American."

"It doesn't?"

"No. It doesn't."

He rolled the cigar back and forth like a brown rug in the back of an old trunk. Then he thrust his head foreward at me and his eyes made a little whirring sound as they drilled into my head. "If you so much as mention that boat when you get back home, I'll see that you never get another story."

I gulped. "It's German?" I said in a whisper. He glared at me and went down to a whisper himself. "The U-505. You know what it means?"

I nodded. It meant that the United States, for the first time, had captured a U-Boat intact. It meant that the Navy could test its strengths, its weaknesses, learn its secrets, and probably had its secret code books. This would be one of the biggest stories of the war and there I was sitting alone with it. It was all mine.

"Not one word," the admiral said. "Not even to your wife."

I went back to New York and said not a word.

Always I hunted the big story . . .

The Middle Aged Spread And How It Grows

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Most of us gain weight with age. The added poundage is fat and the porportion is greater in women than in men. In a group of persons varying in age from 20 to 60 years, the fat content of women was 23.7 per cent whereas in men it was 16.8 per cent. These individuals were not regarded as stout.

X-ray studies showed that as men got older, fat was deposited in the flanks. The hips and breast areas were next and the least fat was noted over the shins and the midportion of the arms.

The fat content of the body of normal women increased from 26 per cent at age 25 to 38 per cent at age 55. The deposits were most marked over the tissues of the chest, hips, waist, and back. The extremities remained the same. All of the women studied were considered to be of ideal weight for their age and height.

These changes account for the middle-aged spread, pot-belly, and other uncomplimentary bulges that occur with each succeeding decade. The adornment may be a natural phenomenon. In this respect, it is the slender hips and waist lines that separate boys from men.

The standard insurance weights of men and women do not take body build and tissue composition into consideration. An athlete's fat may be converted to muscle after much strenuous exercise. Since muscle is heavier, the individual may weigh more than the charts allow for maximum health. Professional football players in peak condition may be 20 or more per cent overweight according to the tables for their height and age. They have little fat and cannot be considered obese.

Studies on selective service registrants demonstrated the importance of body build in determining ideal weight. According to Dr. Olaf Bickelsen, registrants of the same age and stature with chest circumferences of 32, 37, and 42 inches weighed 130, 158, and 198 pounds, respectively.

The charts list the ideal weight for the entire group as 150 pounds. The man who fills a large frame is not necessarily too heavy.

SOFTENED BONES

Mrs. E. H. B. writes: I fractured some vertebrae in my spine—how, when, or where, I don't know, as I didn't fall or wrench my back. The doctor has me in a brace and says I have osteoporosis. Will you please write something about this disease?

REPLY

Fractures occur easily in osteoporosis because the bones have become soft and are not strong enough to bear the weight of the upper part of the body. Changes in the glandular system incident to aging are thought to be responsible. Improvement often follows the use of sex hormones. Send a stamped, self-address envelope for our leaflet on this disease.

BEEF LIVER

Mrs. W. writes: Is there any harm in eating raw beef liver?

REPLY

Not if the liver is free from contamination. As the saying goes, every man to his taste.

TOMORROW: Severe penicillin reactions.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Pirates Hand Cubs' Johnny Briggs First Defeat, 6-4

Dick Stuart Cleans Bases With Triple

Friend Scores 13th Win; Ernie Banks Hits 28th Homer

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—The Pittsburgh Pirates handed Chicago rookie pitcher Johnny Briggs his first major league defeat Tuesday night, 6-4, by coming from behind on a three - run triple by Dick Stuart in the fifth inning.

Trailing 4-1, the Pirates got a run in the fifth on Dick Groat's single, a passed ball and a single by Bill Hall. Then the bases were filled by John Powers' infield hit and an error by Tony Taylor. Then Stuart blasted a 360 - foot drive to the flagpole in center field. The drive finished Briggs who went into the game with a 4-0 record.

The Pirates scored again in the seventh when reliefer Bill Henry was on the mound. Bob Skinner walked with two out and scored on singles by Bill Mazeroski and Groat.

Bob Friend hung up his 13th victory although he was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the fifth inning. Two of the Cub runs came on Ernie Banks' 28th homer which tied him with Frank Thomas for the major league lead.

R. G. Smith succeeded Friend on the mound but made way for Roy Face in the seventh with one out and a runner on third. Face retired the side on a strikeout and an infield out and yielded only one hit the rest of the way.

The Pirates reeled off a pair of double-plays, giving them 17 in the last eight games.

Braves Lose, 4-2, Relinquish Lead

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—Don Drysdale of the Los Angeles Dodgers had to have help in the ninth, but maintained his success over Milwaukee this season by beating the Braves 4-2 Tuesday night and dropping them into second place, a full game behind the San Francisco Giants.

An elbow injury suffered in the pre-game warmup by the Braves' young pitching sensation, Joey Jay, played a key role in Drysdale's third triumph over Milwaukee this year.

Jay pulled a tendon in his right elbow before the game, but allowed no hits until Gino Cimoli led off the sixth inning with a single that Eddie Mathews couldn't handle.

Jay said he continued to pitch with the idea that the injury would work itself out, but Drysdale sacrificed Cimoli to second and Jay then walked Junior Gilliam. Pee Wee Reese next lined a double to left-center, scoring both Cimoli and Gilliam to break up the pitching duel.

Drysdale got into trouble in the ninth inning when Wes Covington led off with his 18th homer of the year into the right field bleachers. Frank Torre came up with a single and Drysdale was then lifted in favor of Johnny Klippstein after Del Crandall smacked a double into the left field corner, scoring pinch runner Casey Wise.

Klippstein snuffed the rally by striking out pinch-batter Joe Adcock and forcing Billy Bruton to fly out.

Al Sheetz Twirls Caseys To 3-1 Victory Over VFW

King's Hit Decides Battle; Vets' Lead Is Cut To Half Game

ROCKING CHAIR LEAGUE

The lead of the V. F. W. dwindled to a half game in the Rocking Chair League yesterday when they fell before the slants of Al Sheetz and the Knights of Columbus scored a 3-1 victory at Stitcher Field.

Sheetz held the league leaders to five hits, struck out four and notched his ninth victory of the year. It was his second win over the Vets in three outings.

"Bink" King's single to right field, scoring Bob McGreevy and George Geatz in the sixth inning after two out broke a 1-1 deadlock and sewed up the decision for the Caseys.

Sheetz also starred at bat for the Knights with a triple and two singles while Shortstop George Geatz pounded a double and single and featured afield with a diving catch of a line drive from Phil Reschel's bat. Two of the Vets hits were doubles by Jim Eckard and "Pete" Elliott. The loser's only run was unearned.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass split a twin bill with the Ritter A. C. at Post Field, winning the opener 11-1 and losing the nightcap, 8-2. "Dusty" Rhodes pitched both games for Ritter's while Bill Thompson was the winner and "Bud" Law the loser for Pittsburgh Plate.

Clay Ingram led the hitters in the first game with three safeties. Brant and Curtis had two hits each and Perk Robinette blasted a triple. White and Jones hit doubles for the R. A. C.

In the second game, Ernie Painter and Johnny Horwath of Ritter's each had three hits in three trips. The two hits made by the losers were credited to Wilson and Law.

Celanese and the Loyal Order of Moose battled 10 innings to a 4-4 deadlock at Celanese Field.

Fradiska and Weltman of the Moose and Cunningham, Davis, Harden and Wolford of the Silks, collected two hits each. The scores:

Phillies Hold St. Louis Even

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Wally Post's pinch-hit double in the 11th inning drove home the winning run as the Philadelphia Phillies defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, 3-2, Tuesday night. The Cardinals scored a 4-3 triumph on Jim Brosnan's fine relief pitching in the completion of a June 29th suspended game which preceded the regulation contest.

Victim of Post's blow in the regulation game was reliefer Phil Paine, who suffered his first loss after nine straight victories over a period of two years. With one out in the 11th, Chico Fernandez singled to left and pulled up at second when Carl Sawatski got a base on balls.

Sam Jones started for the Cardinals and pitched hitless ball until Richie Ashburn singled in the fourth. Both runs off Jones were unearned, with the first crossing in the seventh. Dave Philley fanned but reached first on a passed ball. Willie Jones followed with a walk and Fernandez doubled to left-center, scoring Philley. Jones was cut down at the plate on a fine relay.

The Phils' other run off Jones came in the ninth when Ed Bouchee was safe on Joe Cunningham's error and Philley and Jones each singled. Philadelphia loaded the bases with none out but Jones retired the next three men on a pair of infield grounders and a pop-up.

Both Cardinal runs came off starter Don Cardwell in the 4th. Stan Musial's single, Ken Boyer's triple and Ennis' single did the damage.

Brosnan preserved the suspended game decision for the Cardinals when he got Ted Kazanski on a pop fly and Sawatski to hit into a double play to leave two runners stranded in the eighth. The game was resumed with Phils runners on first and third and none out in the eighth.

Wilmer Mizell was credited with the victory and the loss was charged to Jack Sanford.

Lollar Homer Wins For Sox

Wallop In Ninth Tops Senators, 2-1

CHICAGO (UPI) — Sherm Lollar homered with Nellie Fox on second base with two outs in the ninth inning Tuesday night to give the Chicago White Sox a 2-1 victory over the Washington Senators.

Lollar slugged the 2-0 pitch by Russ Kemmerer into the left field lower deck for his 15th homerun of the season and the fifth Sox hit off Kemmerer, who had allowed only three hits in the first eighth innings.

Fox started the Sox toward the win with one out in the ninth when he beat out a hopping grounder to shortstop Ossie Alvarez. Jim Landis grounded out to put Fox on second before Lollar came to bat.

The victory was credited to relief pitcher Bob Shaw, his fourth of the season against two defeats, although he pitched only the ninth inning for the Sox. Shaw took over when starter Dick Donovan, who had allowed five hits, none after the third inning, was lifted for a pinch hitter in the eighth.

Kemmerer, suffering his ninth loss against five runs, gave up a single to Billy Goodman in the second and then retired 14 men in order before Jim Landis ran his hitting streak to nine straight games with a seventh inning single.

915 Schoolboy Elevens Play In One State

DALLAS (AP)—It sounds impossible for anything to get bigger in Texas. But there will be more high schools playing football this fall than any time in the 39-year history of the Texas Interscholastic League.

Exactly 915 schools will toe the mark in September, with 553 fighting for state championships. There were 909 last year.

Texas long has been the leading state in schoolboy football. Pennsylvania is second with 844.

In Texas there are four divisions that decide state champions — Class AAAA, Class AAA, Class AA and Class A. Class B determines regional titles only. Then, there is the division for six-man and eight-man football. Eight-man football made its debut last year and will be sponsored by the league for the first time this season. Regional champions will be determined.

The school with the greatest winning streak isn't state champion. Abilene won 49 games in a row — a national scholastic record — then was tied by Dallas Highland Park 20-20, losing on penetrations. Highland Park went on to the state title.

To decide the winner in ties, the team pentrating the other's 20-yard line the most gets the game.

Schoolboy football last year drew 7½ million paid admissions for 4,626 games with another 449,440 for the playoffs. There were 2,750 coaches.

Although the flea only measures about one tenth of an inch, he is capable of leaping 12 inches or about 200 times his own body length.

Giants Top Cincy, 4-3

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Ray Jablonski gave the San Francisco Giants a 4-3 victory over the Cincinnati Redlegs Tuesday night when he blasted two - run homer with two out in the ninth inning.

Jablonski unloaded his 12th circuit clout off Willard Schmidt after Willie Mays had lined a two-strike single to center. It marked the 18th game the Giants have won in the ninth inning this season.

The blast turned Giant reliefer Marv Grissom from a loser into a winner. In the eighth inning Frank Robinson's 17th homer had put the Redlegs in front, 3-2.

Bosox Win, 11-8

DETROIT (AP)—Ted Williams slammed a three-run homer in the 11th inning after delivering a grand-slam homer earlier in the game, and batted in seven runs to lead the Boston Red Sox to an 11-8 victory over the Detroit Tigers Tuesday night.

The big slugger, who will celebrate his 40th birthday next month, broke a 0-4-11 batting slump with a third inning bases-loaded smash off Jim Bunning, the right-hander who blanked the Red Sox on a no-hitter last Sunday. Williams also had a single in the seventh inning when the Red Sox grabbed an 8-5 lead with a three-run rally.

The grand-slam homer was the 17th of Williams' career, and tied him for career grand slams with Babe Ruth. Lou Gehrig holds the record with 23.

United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—A reporter asked the man, "Why do golf balls have such pimply surfaces?"

The man—representing an outstanding sporting goods manufacturer—drew back as if insulted and replied hotly: "They're not pimples; they're dimples!"

He had been bragging that his outfit, A. G. Spalding and Bros., just turned out its 250,000,000th golf ball. That's why the tactless reporter rated him an authority capable of answering the pimply question.

"A pretty girl is like a golf ball," said the propagandist. "She too has dimples."

"Nertz! I'll take the pretty girl any time," wise-cracked the journalist.

Depends on Position

"That depends on where you're standing," asserted the expert. "If you've just teed off, that golf ball is one of the most beautiful sights in the world—if its going as far as you want it and where you want it. And it couldn't do that without its dimples."

How come?

Our enthusiast explained that experiments in aerodynamics proved that if the pellet has dimples it will also have distance, when properly struck.

He continued, "Tests at our plant in Chicopee, Mass., showed that when a dimpled ball is hit by a mechanical driver it will fly straight as an arrow for 230 yards. But a smooth-surfaced ball will conk out at 35 yards."

What did he mean by "conk out"?

He meant that the pellet would drop to the ground. It seems that when the head of the club hits a smooth ball it takes off with practically no spin. As it travels through the air, it causes air-eddies to swirl behind it—eddies that have suction-like qualities. The suction becomes so strong it checks the ball's forward motion and causes it to drop to the ground.

Breaks Action

In sharp contrast, a dimpled ball gets much greater distance because its surface takes spin from the clubhead; and that it tends to break up the negative suction of the air eddies and lets the flight continue.

If the dimpled pattern were not regular all over the ball, it might deviate the flight — as was the case back in the 1890's when golfers — using a solid gutta percha ball with a smooth surface—discovered it would travel further if nicked.

At first they merely nicked it with their clubs, gaining distance but deviation. Then they began making more regular nicks by hand, and later by molds. Those nicks became dimples in the early 1900's—and the dimples because patterned as the balls improved in composition.

About how many Americans are belting the dimpled beauties today?

"More than 5,000,000," said the representative. He concluded, "without the dimples, I doubt that more than 250,000 would have the patience to play this very humbling game."

The Leopard Frog is widely used in studies of comparative anatomy. In addition, it also provides frog-leg dinners.

Optimist Teams Sweep Hot Stove League Battles

The Cumberland Optimist Club upset the Lions Club, 3-1, at Fort Hill Field, and the Bedford Road Optimist Club downed the Jaycees, 9-6, at Penn Avenue Field, in Hot Stove Baseball League games played yesterday.

Jim Stewart hurled a two-hitter, fanned 11 and racked up his fifth consecutive win of the campaign as the Cumberland Optimists spilled the Lions and enabled the Kiwanis Club (10-3) to increase its lead to 1½ games.

Ronnie Evans and Jim Sisk were credited with the Lions' hits. Bill Sheetz played a bangup game at short for the Optimists and led the hitters with a double and single. Jack Hutchinson slammed a three-bagger. Sisk at second base was the Lions fielding star.

Jimmy Seeders made his record 5-3 for the season by hurling Bedford Road to a decision over the Jaycees. He fanned nine and issued only one pass. Larry McKay and Phil Barbe, Jaycees' hurlers, fanned 10 and walked six. McKay was tagged with the loss.

The win tied Bedford Road with the Jaycees for third place, each team owning 7-5 records.

A's Late Rally Sinks Yanks, 7-3

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The Kansas City Athletics hopped on reliefer Art Ditmar for five runs in the eighth inning Tuesday night with Bob Cerv's walk forcing in the winning run in a 7-3 win over the New York Yankees.

Hector Lopez doubled following Cerv's walk, clearing the bases to give the Athletics a 6-2 advantage. Lopez then scored on a sacrifice fly by Frank House.

Catcher Harry Chiti of Kansas City and right-fielder Hank Bauer of the Yankees were ejected from the game in a wild New York eighth inning stint, and the A's' Manager Harry Craft followed a short time later in another rhubarb.

Ditmar absorbed the loss for starter Whitey Ford, who had his string of three straight shutouts halted when the Athletics scored on a walk and a pair of scratch singles in the second inning. The win went to Murry Dickson who relieved starter Ralph Terry in the eighth.

The first rhubarb developed when Enos Slaughter, pinch - hitting for Ford, was waved to first base on four balls by plate umpire Bill Summers. Chiti departed in a heated argument.

The A's aided by Hal Smith's homer led the Yanks 2-0 until the eighth when the Bronx Bombers tied it on four singles. New York managed a final run in the ninth on a double by Jerry Lumpe and a single by Tony Kubek.

Former Jockey Says Russians Knew Horses

By RAY SHAW

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Even the Russians have an eye for good horses. That is, they did when Joe Powell (Tiny) Keezak left Russia in 1903.

Keezak was born and lived in Russia until he came to the Bluegrass area in 1903 as an exercise boy.

"Racing in Russia then was on a higher plane than it was in Kentucky," says the 70-year-old Keezak. "Competition was great.

"The wealthy farmers imported English and Irish horses, and sent to America for top trainers to handle them."

One of the trainers was the late Jacke Keene of Lexington, Ky., who later was Keezak's benefactor. One of the trainers gave Keezak his nickname—Tiny—and the little exercise boy, then 15, came to Kentucky with Keene.

For 10 years Keezak was jockey and foreman for Keene's stable—at Lexington. Then he started his own stable. At one time he trained 24 horses.

Keezak is proud of his past, and happily points out that in 52 years of jockeying and training he has never been fined or suspended.

"And I worked under some tough stewards," he smiles.

A visitor asked Keezak when he would retire.

"That's like asking a man when he aims to lay down and die," he said softly. "You don't saddle up for that ride."

Pirates Hand Cubs' Johnny Briggs First Defeat, 6-4

Dick Stuart Cleans Bases With Triple

Friend Scores 13th Win; Ernie Banks Hits 28th Homer

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—The Pittsburgh Pirates handed Chicago rookie pitcher Johnny Briggs his first major league defeat Tuesday night, 6-4, by coming from behind on a three - run triple by Dick Stuart in the fifth inning.

Trailing 4-1, the Pirates got a run in the fifth on Dick Groat's single, a passed ball and a single by Bill Hall. Then the bases were filled by John Powers' infield hit and an error by Tony Taylor. Then Stuart blasted a 360 - foot drive to the flagpole in center field. The drive finished Briggs who went into the game with a 4-0 record.

The Pirates scored again in the seventh when reliefer Bill Henry was on the mound. Bob Skinner walked with two out and scored on singles by Bill Mazeroski and Groat.

Bob Friend hung up his 13th victory although he was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the fifth inning. Two of the Cub runs came on Ernie Banks' 28th homer which tied him with Frank Thomas for the major league lead.

R. G. Smith succeeded Friend on the mound but made way for Roy Face in the seventh with one out and a runner on third. Face retired the side on a strikeout and an infield out and yielded only one hit the rest of the way.

The Pirates reeled off a pair of double-plays, giving them 17 in the last eight games.

Braves Lose, 4-2, Relinquish Lead

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—Don Drysdale of the Los Angeles Dodgers had to have help in the ninth, but maintained his success over Milwaukee this season by beating the Braves 4-2 Tuesday night and dropping them into second place, a full game behind the San Francisco Giants.

An elbow injury suffered in the pre-game warmup by the Braves' young pitching sensation, Joey Jay, played a key role in Drysdale's third triumph over Milwaukee this year.

Jay pulled a tendon in his right elbow before the game, but allowed no hits until Gino Cimoli led off the sixth inning with a single that Eddie Mathews couldn't handle.

Jay said he continued to pitch with the idea that the injury would work itself out, but Drysdale sacrificed Cimoli to second and Jay then walked Junior Gilliam. Pee Wee Reese next lined a double to left-center, scoring both Cimoli and Gilliam to break up the pitching duel.

Drysdale got into trouble in the ninth inning when Wes Covington led off with his 18th homer of the year into the right field bleachers. Frank Torre came up with a single and Drysdale was then lifted in favor of Johnny Klippstein after Del Crandall smacked a double into the left field corner, scoring pinch runner Casey Wise.

Klippstein snuffed the rally by striking out pinch-batter Joe Adcock and forcing Billy Bruton to fly out.

The Dodgers scored what amounted to the two winning runs in the seventh off reliefer Lew Burdette.

The lead of the V. F. W. dwindled to a half game in the Rocking Chair League yesterday when they fell before the slants of Al Sheetz and the Knights of Columbus scored a 3-1 victory at Stitcher Field.

Sheetz held the league leaders to five hits, struck out four and notched his ninth victory of the year. It was his second win over the Vets in three outings.

"Bink" King's single to right field, scoring Bob McGreevy and George Geatz in the sixth inning after two out broke a 1-1 deadlock and sewed up the decision for the Caseys.

Sheetz also starred at bat for the Knights with a triple and two singles while Shortstop George Geatz pounded a double and single and featured afield with a diving catch of a line drive from Phil Reschel's bat. Two of the Vets hits were doubles by Jim Eckard and "Pete" Elliott. The loser's only run was unearned.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass split a twin bill with the Ritter A. C. at Post Field, winning the opener 11-1 and losing the nightcap, 8-2. "Dusty" Rhodes pitched both games for Ritter's while Bill Thompson was the winner and "Bud" Law the loser for Pittsburgh Plate.

Clay Ingram led the hitters in the first game with three safeties. Brant and Curtis had two hits each and Perk Robinette blasted a triple. White and Jones hit doubles for the R. A. C.

In the second game, Ernie Painter and Johnny Horwath of Ritter's each had three hits in three trips. The two hits made by the losers were credited to Wilson and Law.

Celanese and the Loyal Order of Moose battled 10 innings to a 4-4 deadlock at Celanese Field. Fradiska and Weltman of the Moose and Cunningham, Davis, Harden and Wolford of the Silks, collected two hits each. The scores:

Phillies Hold St. Louis Even

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Wally Post's pinch-hit double in the 11th inning drove home the winning run as the Philadelphia Phillies defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, 3-2, Tuesday night. The Cardinals scored a 4-3 triumph on Jim Brosnan's fine relief pitching in the completion of a June 29th suspended game which preceded the regulation contest.

Victim of Post's blow in the regulation game was reliefer Phil Paine, who suffered his first loss after nine straight victories over a period of two years. With one out in the 11th, Chico Fernandez singled to left and pulled up at second when Carl Sawatski got a base on balls.

Sam Jones started for the Cardinals and pitched hitless ball until Richie Ashburn singled in the fourth. Both runs off Jones were unearned, with the first crossing in the seventh. Dave Philley fanned but reached first on a passed ball. Willie Jones followed with a walk and Fernandez doubled to left-center, scoring Philley. Jones was cut down at the plate on a fine relay.

The Phils' other run off Jones came in the ninth when Ed Bouchee was safe on Joe Cunningham's error and Philley and Jones each singled. Philadelphia loaded the bases with none out but Jones retired the next three men on a pair of infield grounders and a pop-up.

Both Cardinal runs came off starter Don Cardwell in the 4th. Stan Musial's single, Ken Boyer's triple and Ennis' single did the damage.

Brosnan preserved the suspended game decision for the Cardinals when he got Ted Kazanski on a pop fly and Sawatski to hit into a double play to leave two runners stranded in the eighth. The game was resumed with Phils runners on first and third and none out in the eighth.

Wilmer Mizell was credited with the victory and the loss was charged to Jack Sanford.

Giants Top Cincy, 4-3

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Ray Jablonski gave the San Francisco Giants a 4-3 victory over the Cincinnati Redlegs Tuesday night when he blasted two - run homer with two out in the ninth inning.

Jablonski unloaded his 12th circuit clout off Willard Schmidt after Willie Mays had lined a two-strike single to center. It marked the 18th game the Giants have won in the ninth inning this season.

The blast turned Giant reliefer Marv Grissom from a loser into a winner. In the eighth inning Frank Robinson's 17th homer had put the Redlegs in front, 3-2.

Bosox Win, 11-8

DETROIT (AP)—Ted Williams slammed a three-run homer in the 11th inning after delivering a grand-slam homer earlier in the game, and batted in seven runs to lead the Boston Red Sox to an 11-8 victory over the Detroit Tigers Tuesday night.

The big slugger, who will celebrate his 40th birthday next month, broke a 0-4-11 batting slump with a third inning bases-loaded smash off Jim Bunning, the right-hander who blanked the Red Sox on a no-hitter last Sunday. Williams also had a single in the seventh inning when the Red Sox grabbed an 8-5 lead with a three-run rally.

The grand-slam homer was the 17th of Williams' career, and tied him for career grand slams with Babe Ruth. Lou Gehrig holds the record with 23.

Lollar Homer Wins For Sox

Wallop In Ninth Tops Senators, 2-1

CHICAGO (UPI) — Sherm Lollar homered with Nellie Fox on second base with two outs in the ninth inning Tuesday night to give the Chicago White Sox a 2-1 victory over the Washington Senators.

Lollar slugged the 2-0 pitch by Russ Kemmerer into the left field lower deck for his 15th homerun of the season and the fifth Sox hit off Kemmerer, who had allowed only three hits in the first eighth innings.

Fox started the Sox toward the win with one out in the ninth when he beat out a hopping grounder to shortstop Ossie Alvarez. Jim Landis grounded out to put Fox on second before Lollar came to bat.

The victory was credited to reliefer pitcher Bob Shaw, his fourth of the season against two defeats, although he pitched only the ninth inning for the Sox. Shaw took over when starter Dick Donovan, who had allowed five hits, none after the third inning, was lifted for a pinch hitter in the eighth.

Kemmerer, suffering his ninth loss against five runs, gave up a single to Billy Goodman in the second and then retired 14 men in order before Jim Landis ran his hitting streak to nine straight games with a seventh inning single.

915 Schoolboy Elevens Play In One State

DALLAS (AP)—It sounds impossible for anything to get bigger in Texas. But there will be more high schools playing football this fall than any time in the 39-year history of the Texas Interscholastic League.

Exactly 915 schools will toe the mark in September, with 553 fighting for state championships. There were 909 last year.

Texas long has been the leading state in schoolboy football. Pennsylvania is second with 844.

In Texas there are four divisions that decide state champions — Class AAAA, Class AAA, Class AA and Class A. Class B determines regional titles only. Then, there is the division for six-man and eight-man football. Eight-man football made its debut last year and will be sponsored by the league for the first time this season. Regional champions will be determined.

The school with the greatest winning streak isn't state champion. Abilene won 49 games in a row — a national scholastic record — then was tied by Dallas Highland Park 20-20, losing on penetrations. Highland Park went on to the state title.

To decide the winner in ties, the team pentrating the other's 20-yard line the most gets the game.

Schoolboy football last year drew 7½ million paid admissions for 4,626 games with another 449,440 for the playoffs. There were 2,750 coaches.

Although the flea only measures about one tenth of an inch, he is capable of leaping 12 inches or about 200 times his own body length.

United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—A reporter asked the man, "Why do golf balls have such pimply surfaces?"

The man—representing an outstanding sporting goods manufacturer—drew back as if insulted and replied hotly: "They're not pimples; they're dimples!"

He had been bragging that his outfit, A. G. Spalding and Bros., just turned out its 250,000,000th golf ball. That's why the tactless reporter rated him an authority capable of answering the pimply question.

"A pretty girl is like a golf ball," said the propagandist. "She too has dimples."

"Nertz! I'll take the pretty girl any time," wise-cracked the journalist.

Depends on Position

"That depends on where you're standing," asserted the expert. "If you've just teed off, that golf ball is one of the most beautiful sights in the world—if its going as far as you want it and where you want it. And it couldn't do that without its dimples."

How come?

Our enthusiast explained that experiments in aerodynamics proved that if the pellet has dimples it will also have distance, when properly struck.

He continued, "Tests at our plant in Chicopee, Mass., showed that when a dimpled ball is hit by a mechanical driver it will fly straight as an arrow for 230 yards. But a smooth-surfaced ball will conk out at 35 yards."

What did he mean by "conk out"?

He meant that the pellet would drop to the ground. It seems that when the head of the club hits a smooth ball it takes off with practically no spin. As it travels through the air, it causes air-eddies to swirl behind it—eddies that have suction-like qualities. The suction becomes so strong it checks the ball's forward motion and causes it to drop to the ground.

Breaks Action

In sharp contrast, a dimpled ball gets much greater distance because its surface takes spin from the clubhead; and that it tends to break up the negative suction of the air eddies and lets the flight continue.

If the dimpled pattern were not regular all over the ball, it might deviate the flight — as was the case back in the 1890's when golfers — using a solid gutta percha ball with a smooth surface—discovered it would travel further if nicked.

At first they merely nicked it with their clubs, gaining distance but deviation. Then they began making more regular nicks by hand, and later by molds. Those nicks became dimples in the early 1900's—and the dimples because patterned as the balls improved in composition.

About how many Americans are belting the dimpled beauties today?

"More than 5,000,000," said the representative. He concluded, "without the dimples, I doubt that more than 250,000 would have the patience to play this very humbling game."

The Leopard Frog is widely used in studies of comparative anatomy. In addition, it also provides frog-leg dinners.

Optimist Teams Sweep Hot Stove League Battles

The Cumberland Optimist Club upset the Lions Club, 3-1, at Fort Hill Field, and the Bedford Road Optimist Club downed the Jaycees, 9-6, at Penn Avenue Field, in Hot Stove Baseball League games played yesterday.

Jim Stewart hurled a two-hitter, fanned 11 and racked up his fifth consecutive win of the campaign as the Cumberland Optimists spilled the Lions and enabled the Kiwanis Club (10-3) to increase its lead to 1½ games.

Ronnie Evans and Jim Sisk were credited with the Lions' hits. Bill Sheetz played a bangup game at short for the Optimists and led the hitters with a double and single. Jack Hutchinson slammed a three-bagger. Sisk at second base was the Lions fielding star.

Jimmy Seeders made his record 5-3 for the season by hurling Bedford Road to a decision over the Jaycees. He fanned nine and issued only one pass. Larry McKay and Phil Barbe, Jaycees' hurlers, fanned 10 and walked six. McKay was tagged with the loss.

The win tied Bedford Road with the Jaycees for third place, each team owning 7-5 records.

Homer Hardinger and Seeders led the stickers with three hits each while Ed Litten, Harold Hardinger and Phil Ketterman each garnered a pair of safeties. Gary Garlitz obtained two bingles and Pat Wilson banged a triple for the Jaycees. Scores:

Corriganville stretched its lead to 2½ games in the County Softball League yesterday by defeating the Maple Inn Old Germans, 7-6, in eight innings, while the Hyndman Planers were upsetting Stringtown in a 3-2 battle on the latter's field.

Lennie Campbell's sacrifice fly scored Johnny Price with the run that gave the Old Exports an overtime decision over the Old Germans in a battle marked by 26 hits.

Art Raygor picked up his 18th win of the season while Jerry O'Baker absorbed his eighth loss against 10 wins.

Joe Raygor smacked two doubles and a single, John Price a triple and single and Campbell a two-bagger and single for the winners. Leroy Morris and Emerick paced Maple Inn with four hits each while Jack Brant and John Witt each hit safely thrice.

"Mo" Barrett posted his second win in a row for the Planers, turning back Stringtown with five safeties. Cliff Clites led Hyndman at the plate with a double and single.

Kennell's Mill crowded Maple Inn out of third place by beating Homewood Tavern by the score of 4-2.

Paul Stair scattered eight hits and registered his 7th win of the season while "Hap" and John Kennell and Richard Lowery obtained two hits each. Perdew slammed a homer and Twigg collected two hits for the losers.

Homewood announced it was playing the game under protest.

Gary Bell Beats Baltimore, 9-4

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Rookie Gary Bell gave the Cleveland Indians their 10th complete game pitched in the last 13 starts Tuesday night when he defeated the Baltimore Orioles, 9 to 4.

Bell won his fifth game as he inflicted the fourth defeat on rookie Milt Pappas, and he was aided by first inning home runs by Billy Harrell and Russ Nixon.

The Indians scored three times off Pappas in the opening inning when Harrell belted his seventh homer to open the game, and Nixon hit his sixth later with a man on base.

The Indians sewed up the game in the fifth with another three-run rally in which Rocky Colavito, their leading RBI man with 63, singled with the bases filled.

Boxer Now Burgess — Remember "Dinty?"
Altoona Gets Coach — Catanese "Chipper"

By C. V. BURNS

WOULD YOU BELIEVE that nine years have elapsed since "Vic" Ricker promoted his last professional boxing show here?

One of the principals in that show (April 25, 1949) was Marion Klingensmith, middleweight, who was a policeman at Brownesville and is now burgess of the Pennsylvania community.

Burgess Klingensmith now is involved in a controversy with the Borough Council over the chief of police.

Klingensmith claimed the burgess is the real chief and there is "no reason to pay an extra $25 a month for a chief." The council refused his request to abolish the office of police chief.

Marion boxed Holly Mims here nine yars ago. Mims still is active as a fighter. Klingensmith first appeared here in a show staged by Ricker in 1948 headed by Sammy Angott and Rudy Zadell. That night he TKO's Willis Moore of Pittsburgh in the third round at the armory before 1,145 paying patrons.

POLICE Commissioner Robert M. Grove of Lonaconing (Old Mose, himself) and Walter Johnson have been named as the pitchers on the all-time American League all-star team selected for the August issue of Sport Magazine by 120 members of the Baseball Writers of America.

Others named were Lou Gehrig, Eddie Collins, Jimmy Collins and Joe Cronin, infielders, Ty Cobb, Joe DiMaggio and Babe Ruth, outfielders, and Bill Dickey, catcher.

ALTOONA CATHOLIC High School, which returns to LaSalle High School's football schedule this fall (November 14 at Altoona) has just hired a new coach in the person of Paul Bradley.

The new mentor for basketball and football is a Pittsburgher and graduate of St. Vincent College, Latrobe, Pa. He succeeds Jerry Fuchs who has moved on to another school.

SEVERAL years ago Pershing Rohrer, former Cumberlander, sports editing in Ravenna, Ohio, told us to keep an eye on a lad named Dow Finsterwald, then a star at Ohio U. in Athens.

Pershing at that time tabbed Finsterwald as a star of the future.

Dow is right up among the leading money winners now and hit the top recently when he won the PGA tourney.

TWO former Cumberland Colts, Lawrence "Dinty" Moore and Joe Vitelli, have been named to a committee that will select two Pittsburgh youngsters for the Hearst Sandlot Classic in New York, August 26.

Other members of the selection group are "Pie" Traynor, Wilbur Cooper and Frank Gustine, all former Pirates.

Twenty-four teenagers will be judged in a contest at Forbes Field, August 6.

Little "Dinty" Moore was an outfielder for the Colts in the early days of Mid-City Park. He now is an executive in the Claim Department of the Yellow Cab Company, Pittsburgh.

Vitelli pitched for the Colts in the 1930s and was later with the Pirates. For some time he has been a clinic director for the Allegheny County Parks in Pittsburgh.

BILL LICKERT, coach of the McKeesport Little Tigers, sponsored by the Optimist Club, is interested in scheduling a Maryland team for the Western Pennsylvania Milk Bowl Game to be staged on Armistice Day.

Any team from this area interested in participating is advised to contact Mr. Lickert, 413 35th Avenue, McKeesport, Pa.

THE SAN FRANCISCO Giants allow each player a dozen autographed baseballs a year. After the first dozen, each player is charged at the rate of $21 for every twelve.

ENOS SLAUGHTER, the Yankees' 42-year-old slugger, now hitting around the .350 mark, may become the first player to outlast his payments to the baseball pension plan.

As a 20-year man, Enos no longer has to pay into the fund and will collect almost $400 a month when he reaches 50 in 1966.

He has outlasted every living soul who was playing big league ball when he broke in at the start of the 1938 season.

JIMMY CATANESE, one of Cumberland's leading amateur boxers of bygone days, was in town the other day and called to say hello.

He's a chipper in a steel mill at Warren, Ohio, and now tips the beam around the 150 mark. Jimmy boxed as a featherweight and lightweight during the boxing boom here following the Second World War and always gave the fans a run for their money.

WILLIAM McHUGH says we goofed when we mentioned here that he predicted the Pittsburgh Pirates will finish in fourth place.

The veteran fight and baseball expert insists he told us the Pirates would finish in the first division and he did not mention fourth place.

So sorry, Mr. McHugh.

Bell Answers Wilkinson's Draft Blast

Declares Bud Tried To Buy Into Cards

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UPI)—Commissioner Bert Bell of the National Football League said Tuesday that Oklahoma coach Bud Wilkinson, who blasted the pro draft as "unfair" to players before Congress, tried to buy into the Chicago Cardinals.

"What I can't understand is how this man—who pretends he is such an outstanding person — can say that we are ruthless and still want to buy in," Bell said.

Wilkinson, Michigan State's Duffy Daugherty and Bowden Wyatt of Tennessee told the Senate anti-monopoly subcommittee Monday the NFL draft was unfair to players and they opposed special legislation for professional sports.

Bell said Wilkinson sounded out Cards' owner Walter Wolfner about "buying in" several months ago when Wolfner called him for his opinion of Hank Ivy, who later was hired as coach.

"As I understand it," Bell said, "Wilkinson said 'well, what about me?' When Wolfner asked him what his terms were, Wilkinson said he wanted to wait until his children graduated from high school, and then he wanted to buy 25 per cent of the Cards and move them to Houston (Tex.), where he would coach."

Bud Issues Denial

In Norman, Okla., Wilkinson Tuesday flatly denied a report that he had tried to buy into the Cardinals.

Wilkinson arrived at the university Tuesday after testifying before the Senate anti - monopoly subcommittee in Washington Monday, where he joined two other coaches in criticizing the pro draft system.

"I have never at any time talked to Mr. Wolfner about coaching the Cardinals," Wilkinson said.

The subject of our discussion was not about me. He asked me about Pop Ivy's qualifications as a coach," Wilkinson said.

Bell Defends Draft

Bell defended the draft system as the "savior" of the pro league and waved aside claims the NFL was "ruthless."

The draft of college players, according to Bell, has kept NFL teams "equalized." Under the rules, no college player can be touched by a pro club until four years after his high school class has graduated.

Hagerstown Little Leaguers Defeated

WESTMINSTER, Md. (AP) — Shortstop Dale Freyman hit a two-run homer in the first inning Tuesday and Westminster went on to a 3-0 victory over Hagerstown in a battle of Little League all-star teams.

Westminster, by virtue of the triumph, will represent the western portion of Maryland in the state championship game scheduled for 6:30 p. m. Friday in Easton.

Second baseman Dennis Haines of Westminster, who had singled, was on base for Freyman's home run. The winners added another run in the third on two singles and a sacrifice fly.

Webb Favored Over Szuzina

NEW YORK (AP — The Wednesday night fight schedule swings around to Madison Square Garden for the first time in almost two years Wednesday night. It features a middleweight bout between Spider Webb of Chicago and Franz Szuzina of Germany.

Webb was doing a little vacation fishing when he got a hurry up call to sub for Gene Fullmer. Fullmer reported he received an eye cut in training.

In line with Webb's high reputation and Szuzina's unranked status, Webb is a 13-5 favorite in the 10-round match, scheduled for 9 p.m. (EST). The bout will be carried on national (ABC) television.

If Legion Series Goes Limit Third Game Is Set Here

If the junior American Legion teams of Francis Scott Key Post of Frederick and Fort Cumberland Post of this city split their twin bill here Saturday the "rubber" game also will be staged at Stitcher Field on Sunday at 2 p. m., George E. Zegles, Mountain District baseball chairman, was informed last night by Maryland Department headquarters in Baltimore.

Saturday's doubleheader at Stitcher Field is scheduled to get under way at 2 p. m.

The winner of the series will qualify for the state championship tourney at College Park, August 7-10.

Cresaptown Cops Final Game, 9-2

Cresaptown's Eagles concluded their regular schedule in the Pen-Mar Little League yesterday with a 9-2 victory over Ellerslie.

The Eagles finished with a 15-5 record and could tie for first place if Barrelville, the leader with a 15-4 mark, should lose its final game to the La Vale Maroons on Thursday. Barrelville holds 4-2, 5-2 and 1-0 decisions over the Maroons.

By winning yesterday's game Cresaptown made a sweep of its four-game series with Ellerslie. Scores of the other games were 8-0, 6-3 and 9-4.

Lefty Steve Vandenberg pitched a one-hitter and struck out ten to register his 6th win against two losses.

Gary Brookheimer with a triple and double and Jack Hillsland with two singles paced the Cresaptown attack. Allan Cecil smacked a two-bagger. George Connors' two base hit was Ellerslie's only safety.

The league playoffs involving the four top teams will get underway on August 5. Score:

Westernport Jolts Barton Out Of Tie For 1st Place, 4-1

Westernport knocked Barton out of a first place tie with Midland in the Twilight Baseball League by whipping the Braves at Barton yesterday by the score of 4-1.

The victory put Westernport in the runner-up spot with a 16-4 record. The loss dropped Barton to third place with a 14-4 mark. Midland leads with 14 wins and three losses.

A three-run rally decided the game in the third inning when Westernport grouped an intentional pass to Junie Perry with singles by Dick Niland and Bobby Raines, Clyde Broadwater's two-run double and an error.

Kip Montgomery went the distance for the winners and notched his third win against one setback. The loss was the first for Billy "Gas House" Johnson who had posted six wins in a row.

Broadwater headed the Westernport stickers with three hits in four trips while Bobby Raines and Dick Niland had two blows each. Ellis Fazenbaker and Johnny Johnson shared four of Barton's five hits. Ed Warnick blasted a triple and Johnson a double. Score:

LaVale Stops Frostburg, 7-4

Larry Snyder Snaps 6-Game Win Streak

Manager Gene Scaletta's LaVale tossers cracked the six-game winning streak of Frostburg yesterday at LaVale by winning to the tune of 7-4 and sliced the Mountain City team's lead in the Bi-State Pony League to a half game over the second place Cresaptown Lions.

Cresaptown can tie Frostburg for the league leadership if victorious at Lonaconing today and such a result would set the stage for the "pennant battle" between Frostburg and Cresaptown at the latter place Friday on the final day of the regular season.

Larry Snyder went the route for LaVale yesterday and his fifth triumph of the campaign gave LaVale an even break in its four-game series with the league leaders.

Mickey Scaletta smashed a three-run homer in the third and also garnered two singles while Jimmy Willetts hit safely twice for the victors. Jim-Bo Evans of Frostburg homered with one aboard and Rich McKenzie rapped a triple and double. Allan Beeman was the loser.

LaVale is scheduled to play at Ellerslie today.

Gary Bell Beats Baltimore, 9-4

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Rookie Gary Bell gave the Cleveland Indians their 10th complete game pitched in the last 13 starts Tuesday night when he defeated the Baltimore Orioles, 9 to 4.

Bell won his fifth game as he inflicted the fourth defeat on rookie Milt Pappas, and he was aided by first inning home runs by Billy Harrell and Russ Nixon.

The Indians scored three times off Pappas in the opening inning when Harrell belted his seventh homer to open the game, and Nixon hit his sixth later with a man on base.

The Indians sewed up the game in the fifth with another three-run rally in which Rocky Colavito, their leading RBI man with 63, singled with the bases filled.

He's a chipper in a steel mill at Warren, Ohio, and now tips the beam around the 150 mark. Jimmy boxed as a featherweight and lightweight during the boxing boom here following the Second World War and always gave the fans a run for their money.

WILLIAM McHUGH says we goofed when we mentioned here that he predicted the Pittsburgh Pirates will finish in fourth place.

The veteran fight and baseball expert insists he told us the Pirates would finish in the first division and he did not mention fourth place.

So sorry, Mr. McHugh.

Bell Answers Wilkinson's Draft Blast

Declares Bud Tried To Buy Into Cards

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UPI)—Commissioner Bert Bell of the National Football League said Tuesday that Oklahoma coach Bud Wilkinson, who blasted the pro draft as "unfair" to players before Congress, tried to buy into the Chicago Cardinals.

"What I can't understand is how this man—who pretends he is such an outstanding person — can say that we are ruthless and still want to buy in," Bell said.

Wilkinson, Michigan State's Duffy Daugherty and Bowden Wyatt of Tennessee told the Senate anti-monopoly subcommittee Monday the NFL draft was unfair to players and they opposed special legislation for professional sports.

Bell said Wilkinson sounded out Cards' owner Walter Wolfner about "buying in" several months ago when Wolfner called him for his opinion of Hank Ivy, who later was hired as coach.

"As I understand it," Bell said, "Wilkinson said 'well, what about me?' When Wolfner asked him what his terms were, Wilkinson said he wanted to wait until his children graduated from high school, and then he wanted to buy 25 per cent of the Cards and move them to Houston (Tex.), where he would coach."

Bud Issues Denial

In Norman, Okla., Wilkinson Tuesday flatly denied a report that he had tried to buy into the Cardinals.

Wilkinson arrived at the university Tuesday after testifying before the Senate anti-monopoly subcommittee in Washington Monday, where he joined two other coaches in criticizing the pro draft system.

"I have never at any time talked to Mr. Wolfner about coaching the Cardinals," Wilkinson said.

The subject of our discussion was not about me. He asked me about Pop Ivy's qualifications as a coach," Wilkinson said.

Bell Defends Draft

Bell defended the draft system as the "savior" of the pro league and waved aside claims the NFL was "ruthless."

The draft of college players, according to Bell, has kept NFL teams "equalized." Under the rules, no college player can be touched by a pro club until four years after his high school class has graduated.

Hagerstown Little Leaguers Defeated

WESTMINSTER, Md. (AP) — Shortstop Dale Freyman hit a two-run homer in the first inning Tuesday and Westminster went on to a 3-0 victory over Hagerstown in a battle of Little League all-star teams.

Westminster, by virtue of the triumph, will represent the western portion of Maryland in the state championship game scheduled for 6:30 p. m. Friday in Easton.

Second baseman Dennis Haines of Westminster, who had singled, was on base for Freyman's home run. The winners added another run in the third on two singles and a sacrifice fly.

Hagerstown	000 000—0 3 2

Webb Favored Over Szuzina

NEW YORK (AP — The Wednesday night fight schedule swings around to Madison Square Garden for the first time in almost two years Wednesday night. It features a middleweight bout between Spider Webb of Chicago and Franz Szuzina of Germany.

Webb was doing a little vacation fishing when he got a hurry up call to sub for Gene Fullmer. Fullmer reported he received an eye cut in training.

In line with Webb's high reputation and Szuzina's unranked status, Webb is a 13-5 favorite in the 10-round match, scheduled for 9 p.m. (EST). The bout will be carried on national (ABC) television.

Miceli And Bahama Clash On Friday

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—Yama Bahama of the British West Indies and Joe Miceli of New York City will meet here Friday night in a substitute 10-round bout to be nationally televised (NBC).

The bout, which replaces the Tony Anthony - Archie McBride match, received the sanction of the state athletic commission Tuesday.

If Legion Series Goes Limit Third Game Is Set Here

If the junior American Legion teams of Francis Scott Key Post of Frederick and Fort Cumberland Post of this city split their twin bill here Saturday the "rubber" game also will be staged at Stitcher Field on Sunday at 2 p. m., George E. Zegles, Mountain District baseball chairman, was informed last night by Maryland Department headquarters in Baltimore.

Saturday's doubleheader at Stitcher Field is scheduled to get under way at 2 p. m.

The winner of the series will qualify for the state championship tourney at College Park, August 7-10.

Cresaptown Cops Final Game, 9-2

Cresaptown's Eagles concluded their regular schedule in the Pen-Mar Little League yesterday with a 9-2 victory over Ellerslie.

The Eagles finished with a 15-5 record and could tie for first place if Barrelville, the leader with a 15-4 mark, should lose its final game to the La Vale Maroons on Thursday. Barrelville holds 4-2, 5-2 and 1-0 decisions over the Maroons.

By winning yesterday's game Cresaptown made a sweep of its four-game series with Ellerslie. Scores of the other games were 8-0, 6-3 and 9-4.

Lefty Steve Vandenberg pitched a one-hitter and struck out ten to register his 6th win against two losses.

Gary Brookheimer with a triple and double and Jack Hillsland with two singles paced the Cresaptown attack. Allan Cecil smacked a two-bagger. George Connors' two base hit was Ellerslie's only safety.

The league playoffs involving the four top teams will get underway on August 5. Score:

Ellerslie	200	000	2	1	2
Cresaptown	250	20x	9	7	3

Bohn and R. Connors. Vandenberg and P. Kemp.

Westernport Jolts Barton Out Of Tie For 1st Place, 4-1

Westernport knocked Barton out of a first place tie with Midland in the Twilight Baseball League by whipping the Braves at Barton yesterday by the score of 4-1.

The victory put Westernport in the runner-up spot with a 16-4 record. The loss dropped Barton to third place with a 14-4 mark. Midland leads with 14 wins and three losses.

A three-run rally decided the game in the third inning when Westernport grouped an intentional pass to Junie Perry with singles by Dick Niland and Bobby Raines, Clyde Broadwater's two-run double and an error.

Kip Montgomery went the distance for the winners and notched his third win against one setback. The loss was the first for Billy "Gas House" Johnson who had posted six wins in a row.

Broadwater headed the Westernport stickers with three hits in four trips while Bobby Raines and Dick Niland had two blows each. Ellis Fazenbaker and Johnny Johnson shared four of Barton's five hits. Ed Warnick blasted a triple and Johnson a double. Score:

Westernport	013	000	0	4	9	0
Barton	000	001	0	1	5	0

K. Montgomery and C. Broadwater. B. Johnson and Ed Warnick.

Mt. Savage Pirates Trim Orioles, 11-8

Scoring in every inning, the Pirates defeated the Orioles by the score of 11-8 in a Little League game yesterday at Mt. Savage.

Jim Brannon, Pirates' hurler, yielded only two hits, a double and single by Jim Lashley, and struck out nine. Jim Moran, of the Orioles, gave up 10 safeties and whiffed 10 batsmen.

Pirates	142	112	11	10	2
Orioles	011	123	8	2	2

J. Brannon and Goebel. J. Moran and Lashley.

Vice President John Holland said Tuesday physicians told him Drabowsky has a muscle tear in the elbow of his right arm. The pitcher is under hospital examination.

LaVale Stops Frostburg, 7-4

Larry Snyder Snaps 6-Game Win Streak

Manager Gene Scaletta's LaVale tossers cracked the six-game winning streak of Frostburg yesterday at LaVale by winning to the tune of 7-4 and sliced the Mountain City team's lead in the Bi-State Pony League to a half game over the second place Cresaptown Lions.

Cresaptown can tie Frostburg for the league leadership if victorious at Lonaconing today and such a result would set the stage for the "pennant battle" between Frostburg and Cresaptown at the latter place Friday on the final day of the regular season.

Larry Snyder went the route for LaVale yesterday and his fifth triumph of the campaign gave LaVale an even break in its four-game series with the league leaders.

Mickey Scaletta smashed a three-run homer in the third and also garnered two singles while Jimmy Willetts hit safely twice for the victors. Jim-Bo Evans of Frostburg homered with one aboard and Rich McKenzie rapped a triple and double. Allan Beeman was the loser.

LaVale is scheduled to play at Ellerslie today.

Score:

Television and Radio
by John Crosby

How Average Are You?

An elf named Sam Levenson (a Brooklyn elf — they're the worst kind) has voiced a suspicion that I am not the typical consumer. I have, of course, filed suit as any red-blooded consumer would have to do, but the thing has unsettled me. Am I the typical consumer? Am I even a good consumer? It's high time I asked myself some questions. It's high time we all did.

"As you know," writes Levenson, knowing full well that I didn't know, "there are a variety of ratings and polls whose purpose it is to find out what the public prefers to watch on TV. Sponsors also conduct private polls to find out what people watch each show. You should also know that sponsors who sell soap are genuinely interested in finding an audience that needs soap — not a dirty audience (let's keep this clean), just one that is soap-conscious.

"The Sponsors Club of America has described its pin-up girl as one who has briarpatch legs, itchy scalp, tired blood, dull drab hair, and wobbly dental plates. If you have any or all of these qualifications or if you know of a lovely girl who has, pick up an entry blank at your local hospital and mail it to our headquarters.

"Following is a questionnaire compiled by Sponsacademy, an independent research organization, to determine whether you are the type sought after by TV sponsors. In other words, are you the ideal TV consumer? (This very same test is often used by psychiatrists.)

"(1) Are you deep inside really, truly, positive you're not offending?

"(2) Do you wonder where the yellow went?

"(3) Does candy melt in your hand?

"(4) Is your bra 'living,' or just hanging around?

"(5) Do you look like this in the morning?

"(6) Do you really think Nature is always right?

"(7) Does your stomach acid burn a hole in your handkerchief?

"(8) Is your dog underprivileged?

"(9) Did you ever shave a peach?

"(10) Do you feel half-safe?

"(11) Do your children skate on your waxed floors?

"(12) Do you believe the ingredients in three out of four doctors work faster?

"(13) Would you like a coughier cough?

"(14) Who said: "It couldn't be done"?

"(15) Duz Wisk Ad Cheer and Zest to your Lifebuoy?"

A good many of these questions, you may well say, insult your intelligence. But then did you ever take any kind of an intelligence test that didn't at some point insult your intelligence? (Remember how we had to count blocks to get into the Army? Well, we won the war, didn't we? So stop complaining.)

Did I ever shave a peach indeed? I was shaving peaches before you were born, Levenson. I started shaving peaches with a straight razor before Don Ameche had invented electricity, so there. As a matter of fact, I breezed through this test with a score of 82.5 which means I am 1.3 more average than you are, Levenson, and 4.5 more typical than the rest of the country except South Dakota. (The water has fluoridation in it in South Dakota which throws the averageness way out of kilter there. There are people who are 125 per cent average out there and their stomach acid will burn holes in cement.)

Do I wonder where the yellow went? I toss and turn in my bed every night wondering where the yellow went. When Lucky Strike Green went to war, I went right along with it. And if I could find out where the yellow went, I'd go, too.

Hey, yellow, wait for baby?

Keeping Up With Hollywood
by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — Walt Disney is just the one who can spoof these teen-age-monster movies that are such a click with the youngsters. He now comes up with "the shaggy dog" about a teen-ager who can turn himself at will into a shaggy sheep dog.

Fifteen - year - old Annette Funicello who is plenty hot with the young people in the Mickey Mouse programs, will have the femme lead, her first motion picture. The boy who turns himself into the bow-wow is Tommy Kirk who was such a hit in "Old Yeller".

You'll see Fred MacMurray in the role of Annette's father, and this is his first comedy in five years. Funny enough, the original story by Felix Salten (author of "Bambi") was a drama, but Walt sees in it a big comedy.

Every night since Judy Garland opened at the Cocoanut Grove has been like the first night — a gala event. She's so happy, so relaxed and she sings so well. Freddie Martin of course is of enormous help to her but Judy is in excellent voice.

Sid Luft told me that not since he's known Judy has he seen her happy as a bird as she is now—and the way she sings! He has had three offers for her but he says he doesn't want to discuss any of them until he's had a chance to talk with Judy.

He told me the day after her opening she was up early the next morning and had breakfast with the children which has never happened with her.

Had my laugh for the day when I heard that while in Tokyo, Red Skelton was approached to star in a Japanese produced comedy titled "Cowboy In Japan" by that fine old writer of Westerns Shinichi Sekizama! If that's not sufficient, the producers of this Oriental Western are Masafumi Soga and Paul Nakaoka — Soga being famed for his award winning drama "Rashamo."

Wonder how these gentlemen ever came up with a tale about a Texas blowhard who brings his gift of gab and his boots and saddle to the Orient. Believe me, if this picture goes through it's a comedy I really want to see.

Mrs. Robert Stack is with Bob in Benidorm, Spain. She arrived in time to see the sea battle scenes between the Bonhomme Richard and the Serapis for "John Paul Jones" and Bob writes: "Rosemarie says our new son is the most beautiful in the world (do all mothers say that?) and I'm anxious to see him before he begins to shave. But Rosemarie has never been to Europe and I'd like to have her see London, Paris and Rome before we return to the U.S.A.

"I wish I were a writer so I could describe the sight of our full-rigged, four-masters with all sails up as Director John Farrow (an old Navy man) sails them into action before the cameras. Of course I've been more comfortable sailing in shorts at Balboa than standing on the poop deck of an 18th Century frigate wearing 20 pounds of thick uniform."

Nothing but money, money, money is being spent for the premiere of "The Big Country", on August 22 — and if it isn't the biggest and splashiest and most expensive ever held it won't be the fault of Gregory Peck, United Artists and others involved in the project.

For one thing — the longest red carpet ever put down will extend from the doors of the Warners Beverly Theatre, where the picture will be shown, all the way to Romanoff's Cafe where the supper dance will be held. And that's blocks and blocks of red carpeting!

Hosts of the swank event are Peck and his femme co-stars, Jean Simmons and Carroll Baker. Fourth member of the cast, Charlton Heston, is in Rome making "Ben Hur".

There's as much vogue at the moment in Hollywood for French glamor girls as there was for Swedish beauties after Greta Garbo and Ingrid Bergman.

French actress Lisa Bourdin, who will co-star with Van Johnson in "The Last Blitzkrieg," is so promising that Sam Katzman has put her under personal contract. This means she'll probably beat Brigitte Bardot and some of the other gals to Hollywood. However, Lisa first heads for Amsterdam where Van Johnson has reported.

Television and Radio

How Average Are You?

An elf named Sam Levenson (a Brooklyn elf — they're the worst kind) has voiced a suspicion that I am not the typical consumer. I have, of course, filed suit as any red-blooded consumer would have to do, but the thing has unsettled me. Am I the typical consumer? Am I even a good consumer? It's high time I asked myself some questions. It's high time we all did.

"As you know," writes Levenson, knowing full well that I didn't know, "there are a variety of ratings and polls whose purpose it is to find out what the public prefers to watch on TV. Sponsors also conduct private polls to find out what people watch each show. You should also know that sponsors who sell soap are genuinely interested in finding an audience that needs soap — not a dirty audience (let's keep this clean), just one that is soap-conscious.

"The Sponsors Club of America has described its pin-up girl as one who has briarpatch legs, itchy scalp, tired blood, dull drab hair, and wobbly dental plates. If you have any or all of these qualifications or if you know of a lovely girl who has, pick up an entry blank at your local hospital and mail it to our headquarters.

"Following is a questionnaire compiled by Sponsacademy, an independent research organization, to determine whether you are the type sought after by TV sponsors. In other words, are you the ideal TV consumer? (This very same test is often used by psychiatrists.)

"(1) Are you deep inside really, truly, positive you're not offending?

"(2) Do you wonder where the yellow went?

"(3) Does candy melt in your hand?

"(4) Is your bra 'living,' or just hanging around?

"(5) Do you look like this in the morning?

"(6) Do you really think Nature is always right?

"(7) Does your stomach acid burn a hole in your handkerchief?

"(8) Is your dog underprivileged?

"(9) Did you ever shave a peach?

"(10) Do you feel half-safe?

"(11) Do your children skate on your waxed floors?

"(12) Do you believe the ingredients in three out of four doctors work faster?

"(13) Would you like a coughier cough?

"(14) Who said: "It couldn't be done"?

"(15) Duz Wisk Ad Cheer and Zest to your Lifebuoy?"

A good many of these questions, you may well say, insult your intelligence. But then did you ever take any kind of an intelligence test that didn't at some point insult your intelligence? (Remember how we had to count blocks to get into the Army? Well, we won the war, didn't we? So stop complaining.)

Did I ever shave a peach indeed? I was shaving peaches before you were born, Levenson. I started shaving peaches with a straight razor before Don Ameche had invented electricity, so there. As a matter of fact, I breezed through this test with a score of 82.5 which means I am 1.3 more average than you are, Levenson, and 4.5 more typical than the rest of the country except South Dakota. (The water has fluoridation in it in South Dakota which throws the averageness way out of kilter there. There are people who are 125 per cent average out there and their stomach acid will burn holes in cement.)

Do I wonder where the yellow went? I toss and turn in my bed every night wondering where the yellow went. When Lucky Strike Green went to war, I went right along with it. And if I could find out where the yellow went, I'd go, too.

Hey, yellow, wait for baby?

Card of Thanks

MR. AND MRS. EDGAR V. BARNES wish to thank their friends, neighbors and relatives who were so kind to them during their recent bereavement, the death of their beloved son. Edgar Dale Barnes. They especially wish to thank the ministers, Rev. Alonzo Harmon and Rev. Earl Wolford, those who sent floral tributes and those who donated the use of their cars for the funeral.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear dad, Eugene Wade Easton, who departed this life, 1 year ago today, July 30, 1957

"GONE BUT NOT FORGOTTEN"
The stars are brightly shining,
Upon a silent grave,
In it lies a loved one,
We've loved but could not save.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly, tenderly, fond and true,
There is not a day, Dear Daddy,
That we do not think of you.
Sadly Missed By Daughters, Margaret, Juanita and son, Franklin.

In memory of our beloved mother, Mrs. Osborne Richardson who passed away one year ago today, July 30, 1957.
When a mother breathes her last farewell,
The world seems quite another place
Without the smile of mother's face.
And while she lies in peaceful sleep,
Her memory we shall always keep.

A carload of German Horticulture Peat Moss
Use as a summer mulch when plants are growing well. After cultivating soil, mulch around with 1 to 4 inches of moist peat moss. This will keep down weeds, make further cultivating unnecessary, keeps the soil moist and cool and the roots vigorous, and gives your plantings a neat well groomed appearance.

FOR REMODELING WE SUGGEST

Card of Thanks

MR. AND MRS. EDGAR V. BARNES wish to thank their friends, neighbors and relatives who were so kind to them during their recent bereavement, the death of their beloved son, Edgar Dale Barnes. They especially wish to thank the ministers, Rev. Alonzo Harmon and Rev. Earl Wolford, those who sent floral tributes and those who donated the use of their cars for the funeral.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear dad, Eugene Wade Easton, who departed this life, 1 year ago today, July 30, 1957

"GONE BUT NOT FORGOTTEN"
The stars are brightly shining,
Upon a silent grave,
In it lies a loved one,
We've loved but could not save.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly, tenderly, fond and true,
There is not a day, Dear Daddy,
That we do not think of you.
Sadly Missed By
Daughters, Margaret, Juanita and son, Franklin

In memory of our beloved mother, Mrs. Osborne Richardson who passed away one year ago today, July 30, 1957.
When a mother breathes her last farewell,
The stroke means more than tongue can tell.
The world seems quite another place
Without the smile of mother's face.
And while she lies in peaceful sleep,
Her memory we shall always keep.
THE CHILDREN

Hearings End On Gas Rates

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Hearings on a proposed $665,000 a year gas rate increase by Cumberland & Allegheny Gas Co. to 17,000 northeastern West Virginia customers were completed Tuesday before the Public Service Commission.

Two witnesses testified during the closing session of the third round of hearings which began Monday.

Before the case was submitted, Harold Snyder, consultant for protestants, introduced the results of a study which showed the average family consumption of gas in Elkins, Keyser, Cumberland, Md., and Frostburg, Md., between August, 1956, and June, 1957.

Snyder said his survey showed that customers in Elkins and Keyser consume less gas than those in the two Maryland communities. However, he admitted under cross-examination by utility attorneys that the survey did not represent C&A's territory as a whole.

Barton Auxiliary Arranges Picnic

BARTON — Barton Unit No. 189, American Legion Auxiliary met Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Elsie Clark. Mrs. Alice Ashby, president conducted the business meeting.

Plans were made by the unit to hold their annual picnic at the Frostburg Park, Sunday, August 10. A bus will leave from the Legion home at 1 p. m.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Clark and Mrs. Ashby.

Others attending the meeting were Mrs. Vera Metz, Marcelina McVicker, Lola Green, Laura Shuhart, Phyllis Dye, and Ruth Shuhart.

Beer Licenses Are Suspended

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The suspension of the retail beer license of two establishments and probation of two others was announced Tuesday by State Beer Commissioner Roy D. Platt.

Clark Smokehouse at Northfork, McDowell County was suspended for 60 days on charges of possessing a lottery device on licensed premises.

Platt said Jorden's Inn, St. Albans, was suspended for 30 days for possession and sale of whisky on licensed premises. Both suspensions are effective at midnight Saturday.

The Brush Creek Lunch, Peterstown, Monroe County, and Fox Inn, Junior, Barbour County, each received 60 days probation. The Peterstown establishment was charged with serving beer to noticeably intoxicated persons and Fox Inn with permitting disorderly conduct and selling beer to minors.

Poultry Conclave Will Open Today

MOOREFIELD, W. Va. (UPI)—The 16th annual State Poultry Convention opens here Wednesday.

Among the principal speakers will be Earl F. Crouse, St. Louis, an authority on contract farming, Dr. Paul H. Margolf, University Park, Pa., and M. C. Small, Mount Morris, Ill., executive secretary of the National Turkey Federation.

The annual meeting of the State Poultry Assn., and selection of a poultry queen and king highlight the first day's events of the three-day meeting.

Freak Accident Rips B&O Main Line

WHEELING, W. Va. (UPI) — Workmen Tuesday repaired an 80-foot section of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad's main line here following a freak accident involving five coal cars.

At nearby Triadelphia five loaded coal cars got away from workmen at the Valley Coal Co. mine. They slid into a siding where 50 other cars were standing and sent them all down the main track, scattering 500 tons of coal and tearing up mainline tracks.

Vickers Likes Code Of Ethics

CLARKSBURG, W. Va. (UPI)—A new code of ethics outlined in a House of Representatives resolution earlier this month will be followed by Arnold M. Vickers of Montgomery, if elected to the U.S. Senate, he said here Tuesday.

Vickers, Democratic candidate for the short-term U. S. Senate seat in next Tuesday's primary, said he would "subscribe with zeal and by deed to the code."

He said he would expect all other elected officials and government employes to do the same.

Hearings End On Gas Rates

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Hearings on a proposed $665,000 a year gas rate increase by Cumberland & Allegheny Gas Co. to 17,000 northeastern West Virginia customers were completed Tuesday before the Public Service Commission.

Two witnesses testified during the closing session of the third round of hearings which began Monday.

Before the case was submitted, Harold Snyder, consultant for protestants, introduced the results of a study which showed the average family consumption of gas in Elkins, Keyser, Cumberland, Md., and Frostburg, Md., between August, 1956, and June, 1957.

Snyder said his survey showed that customers in Elkins and Keyser consume less gas than those in the two Maryland communities. However, he admitted under cross-examination by utility attorneys that the survey did not represent C&A's territory as a whole.

Among the principal speakers will be Earl F. Crouse, St. Louis, an authority on contract farming, Dr. Paul H. Margolf, University Park, Pa., and M. C. Small, Mount Morris, Ill., executive secretary of the National Turkey Federation.

The annual meeting of the State Poultry Assn., and selection of a poultry queen and king highlight the first day's events of the three-day meeting.

Freak Accident Rips B&O Main Line

WHEELING, W. Va. (UPI) — Workmen Tuesday repaired an 80-foot section of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad's main line here following a freak accident involving five coal cars.

At nearby Triadelphia five loaded coal cars got away from workmen at the Valley Coal Co. mine. They slid into a siding where 50 other cars were standing and sent them all down the main track, scattering 500 tons of coal and tearing up mainline tracks.

Vickers Likes Code Of Ethics

CLARKSBURG, W. Va. (UPI)—A new code of ethics outlined in a House of Representatives resolution earlier this month will be followed by Arnold M. Vickers of Montgomery, if elected to the U.S. Senate, he said here Tuesday.

Vickers, Democratic candidate for the short-term U. S. Senate seat in next Tuesday's primary, said he would "subscribe with zeal and by deed to the code."

He said he would expect all other elected officials and government employes to do the same.

N.Y. Bank Bids Low On Hagerstown Bonds

HAGERSTOWN (AP)—First National City Bank of New York was the low bidder Tuesday for 5½ million dollars worth of Hagerstown bonds.

Money from the issue will be used for expansion of the Hagerstown Airport costing $200,000, and expansion of the municipal light plant totaling $5,300,000. Both were approved by the voters earlier this year.

The New York bank got the bonds with a low bid of 3.046 per cent interest which will cost the city $2,444,307 in interest payments over 25 years.

Chase Manhattan Bank of New York headed a syndicate which took 1½ million dollars worth of Washington County school construction bonds. Interest on that issue at 2.91 per cent, will total $459,067 over 20 years.

Firemen Called To Potomac Hollow

BARTON — Barton firemen were called to the home of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Fairgrieve in Potomac Hollow at 7:20 Tuesday morning, by a neighbor who noticed smoke coming from the house.

Mr. Fairgrieve was at work and Mrs. Fairgrieve was at the home of her parents when the fire occurred.

Man Seeks Permission To Use Trailer

Robert E. Yonker Monday asked the Mayor and Council for permission to have a trailer in the rear of 521-23 Woodside Avenue until damage to the dwelling inflicted by some boys could be repaired.

Yonker said his brother would reside in the trailer until the dwelling is ready for occupancy.

The matter was referred to City Attorney William R. Carscaden, City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum and Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming. Yonker is being represented by Attorney Thomas Lohr Richards.

A city ordinance prohibits trailers except in designated trailer courts.

Nahodah Takes Jamaica Final

Pays Off At 15 To 1, Earns $14,400 Purse

JAMAICA, N. Y., July 29 (AP)—Montpelier's Nahodah surprised by capturing the $22,600 Wilson at the Jamaica Race Track summer season ended today. Racing in New York resumes Thursday in Saratoga Springs.

Nahodah, 5-year-old son of Nasrullah-Accra, sprinted the six furlongs in the swift time of 1:10 2/5 in scoring by two lengths over Edward Seinfeld's Decimal, who took the place by a neck over Vincent J. Tufo's commendation. Jockey Joe Culmone came up from Monmouth Park to handle Nahodah.

The victory was worth $14,900 net to Mrs. Marion duPont Scott, mistress of Montpelier.

Overlooked in the wagering, Nahodah returned mutuels of $32.20, $12.40 and $6.00. Decimal paid $6.80 and $4.50 and Commendation was $3.50 to show.

The Jamaica stewards announced a 10-day suspension for Jockey Nick Shuk for the foul that caused the disqualification of Sharpsburg out of second place in the Brooklyn Handicap Saturday. Sharpsburg brushed Bold Ruler at the top of the stretch in the stake.

Russians Veto Trip Of U.S. Tennis Team

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Tennis promoter Jack Kramer said Tuesday he was "slightly bewildered" by the Russian veto of his proposed tour of the Soviet Union with a troupe of the world's best net stars.

Kramer disclosed that despite U.S. State Department clearance for his players to fly to Moscow he had received a telegram from the "U.S.S.R. Lawn Tennis Section" declaring:

"Unfortunately the question of professional tennis players coming to the U.S.S.R. is decided negatively, and in this connection the section cannot invite your group of tennis players to the U.S.S.R."

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Bobby Corle Has $155.20 Winner In Double Of $1,011

OCEANPORT, N. J., July 29 (AP)—The daily double at Monmouth Park today paid $1,011.80, composed of High Defense, $155.20, winner of the first and Suspend, $83.60 victor of the second.

Sharing in the meeting's largest double pay-off were holders of 161 $2 ticket holders of the program numbers 6 and 6 combination.

High Defense, ridden by Apprentice Robert E. Corle, of Bedford, Pa., scored his first victory in 11 starts this season while Suspend, piloted by Thomas R. Root, was connecting on her 10th try this campaign.

Although today's double was largest of the current meeting, its is far off the record Monmouth twin-playoff of $3,962.60 recorded July 19, 1952.

High Defense, 4-year-old gelding owned by Joseph Nechamkin, went to the front early in the stretch and coasted to a 7-length score. Suspend found a large opening on the rail as the leaders swung wide entering the home lane and triumphed by two and a half lengths.

Previous high daily double at the meeting was on July 14 when Nuone and Big Bonus collaborated in producing a $714.60 return.

Nahodah Takes Jamaica Final

Pays Off At 15 To 1, Earns $14,400 Purse

JAMAICA, N. Y., July 29 (AP)—Montpelier's Nahodah surprised by capturing the $22,600 Wilson at the Jamaica Race Track summer season ended today. Racing in New York resumes Thursday in Saratoga Springs.

Nahodah, 5-year-old son of Nasrullah-Accra, sprinted the six furlongs in the swift time of 1:10 2/5 in scoring by two lengths over Edward Seinfeld's Decimal, who took the place by a neck over Vincent J. Tufo's commendation. Jockey Joe Culmone came up from Monmouth Park to handle Nahodah.

Happy Hill Farm's Kingmaker, 6-5 favorite with the Getaway Day crowd of 25,556, showed lots of early speed, but was through at the top of the stretch. Nahodah, always in contention, took over at the top of the home lane and drew out to a convincing triumph.

The victory was worth $14,600 net to Mrs. Marion duPont Scott, mistress of Montpelier.

Overlooked in the wagering, Nahodah returned mutuels of $32.20, $12.40 and $6.60. Decimal paid $6.80 and $4.50 and Commendation was $3.50 to show.

The Jamaica stewards announced a 10-day suspension for Jockey Nick Shuk for the foul that caused the disqualification of Sharpsburg out of second place in the Brooklyn Handicap Saturday. Sharpsburg brushed Bold Ruler at the top of the stretch in the stake.

Russians Veto Trip Of U.S. Tennis Team

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Tennis promoter Jack Kramer said Tuesday he was "slightly bewildered" by the Russian veto of his proposed tour of the Soviet Union with a troupe of the world's best net stars.

Kramer disclosed that despite U.S. State Department clearance for his players to fly to Moscow he had received a telegram from the "U.S.S.R. Lawn Tennis Section" declaring:

"Unfortunately the question of professional tennis players coming to the U.S.S.R. is decided negatively, and in this connection the section cannot invite your group of tennis players to the U.S.S.R."

Bobby Corle Has $155.20 Winner In Double Of $1,011

OCEANPORT, N. J., July 29 (AP)—The daily double at Monmouth Park today paid $1,011.80, composed of High Defense, $155.20, winner of the first and Suspend, $83.60 victor of the second.

Sharing in the meeting's largest double pay-off were holders of 161 $2 ticket holders of the program numbers 6 and 6 combination.

High Defense, ridden by Apprentice Robert E. Corle, of Bedford, Pa., scored his first victory in 11 starts this season while Suspend, piloted by Thomas R. Root, was connecting on her 10th try this campaign.

The track was muddy. The estimated crowd was 20,000.

Although today's double was largest of the current meeting, its is far off the record Monmouth twin-playoff of $3,962.60 recorded July 19, 1952.

High Defense, 4-year-old gelding owned by Joseph Nechamkin, went to the front early in the stretch and coasted to a 7-length score. Suspend found a large opening on the rail as the leaders swung wide entering the home lane and triumphed by two and a half lengths.

Previous high daily double at the meeting was on July 14 when Nuone and Big Bonus collaborated in producing a $714.60 return.

Youth Seriously Injured In Dynamite Blast

Charles Beal, 19, May Lose One Eye

A 19-year-old Meyersdale, Pa., youth was seriously injured yesterday morning when he sustained severe face injuries in a dynamite explosion while working on a farm in Meyersdale.

Authorities at Memorial Hospital reported Charles Beal was in "fair" condition after undergoing surgery late last night.

The hospital said the youth is expected to lose the sight of one of his eyes. He also was badly bruised about the arms and chest in the explosion, and suffered a possible fracture of the right wrist.

Cleared Spring

The accident occurred about 10 a. m. on the farm of Ezra Sipple near the town limits of Meyersdale, where the Beal youth is employed.

Mr. Sipple said he and his nephew, Henry Sipple, and the accident victim had gone out to the pasture to clear mud from a spring that was being used by cattle.

Mr. Sipple stated the Beal youth said he could do the job quicker with dynamite, and his employer had provided the boy with two sticks of dynamite.

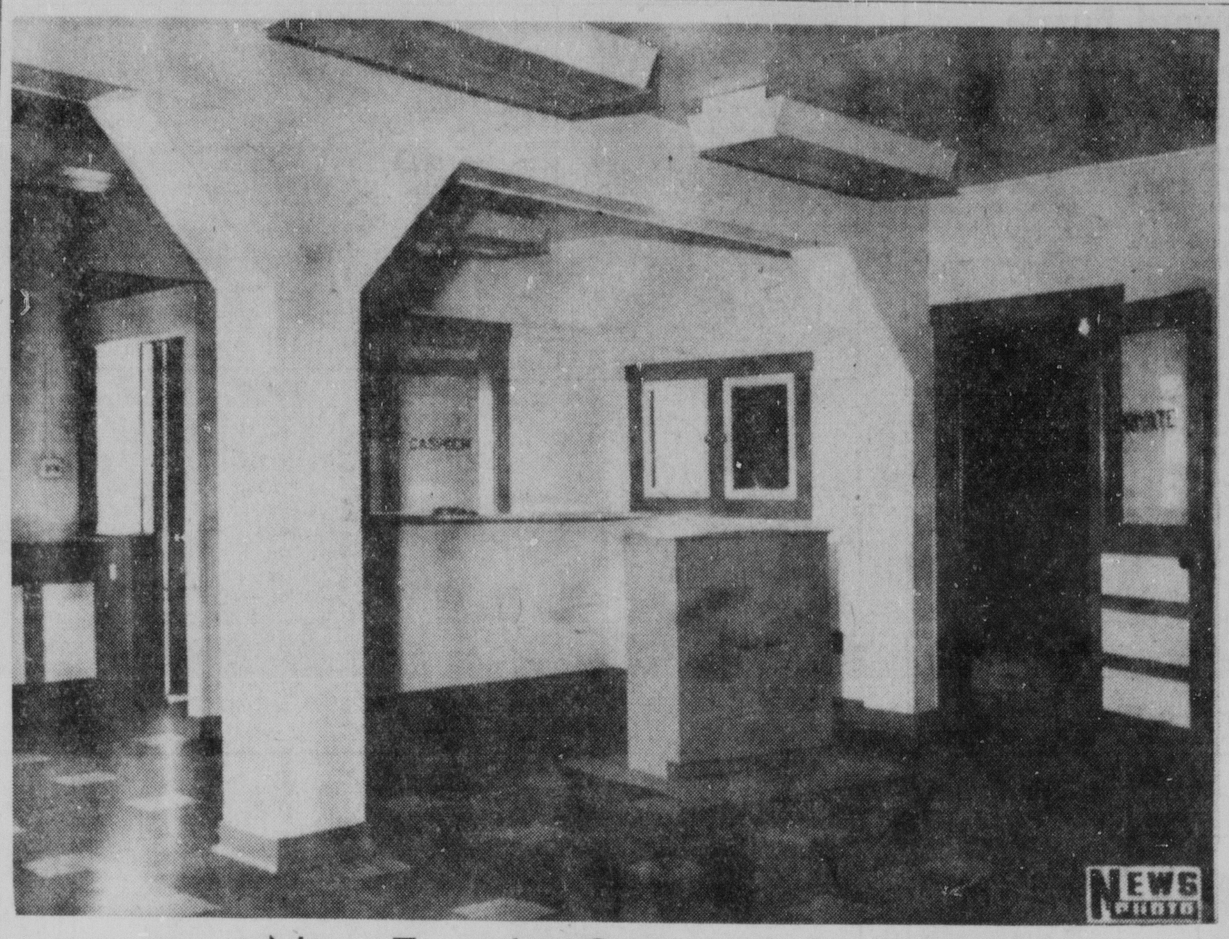
Beal lit the fuses on the two sticks, but only one charge exploded and Beal went to investigate.

Second Charge Explodes

The farm owner said the second charge of dynamite went off as Beal neared the edge of the spring.

He was taken to Meyersdale Community Hospital for treatmen and was transferred to Memorial Hospital shortly before noon.

The injured youth resides with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Beal, Meyersdale, and has been employed by Mr. Sipple for several years.



New Freight Office Quarters

This attractive room is part of the new freight office prepared for the Western Maryland Railway in the Fidelity warehouse on Canal Street in connection with the carrier's plan to demolish its freight shed and freight office on South Mechanic Street to provide space for a 100-car parking lot. Present plans call for moving into the new quarters over the weekend, a railway spokesman said. The City of Cumberland closed Canal Street by Ordinance 2084, adopted April 28. Final action on the closing is being held up until commissioners named to assess damages or benefits present their report.

West Virginia Youth Is Badly Hurt In Crash

Harold Poland, 19, In Memorial Hospital

A 19-year-old Shanks, W. Va., youth was critically injured in an automobile accident shortly after noon yesterday on Milleson Mill Road near Springfield.

Harold Poland underwent surgery last night in Memorial Hospital here, where attendants said his condition was "critical." The youth sustained compound fractures of both legs, internal injuries and was suffering from shock.

Sgt. W. F. Bowley, Romney detachment of the State Police, said he is continuing the investigation of the accident.

He said Poland apparently was the driver of a car which contained several other persons at the time of the crash. The automobile failed to negotiate a right turn as it was traveling north toward Springfield, Sgt. Bowley said.

The vehicle hit a ledge of rock beside the road, careened across the highway and struck a tree, then skidded over a 12-foot embankment to land upright in a small creek known as Abernathy Run.

The victim was brought to the hospital in Cumberland by ambulance from Fort Ashby Volunteer Fire Company.

Sgt. Bowley said when he arrived at the scene of the crash he found the automobile unoccupied. Unable to check with the driver of the car, the officer said he has not determined who else was in the automobile.

Calf Roams City Streets, Gets Shot

A three-months-old Black Angus calf escaped from the Wolfe's Meat Market slaughterhouse and caused considerable excitement in North End before it was shot and killed.

The calf apparently got away when a door in the slaughterhouse was left open. It roamed through streets and the back yards of houses on Holland Street, Columbia Avenue and Shriver Avenue before being caught.

The animal damaged several lawns and flower beds and knocked down a picket fence at the home of Miss Florence Hartman, 815 Shriver Avenue, where it was killed by a slaughterhouse employe.

Employes of the market roped the animal but were unable to hold it in its frightened frenzy, and it was shot.

Officer Fred Daum of the Cumberland Police Department investigated and said that quite a number of children crowded around the area where the calf roamed but that none of them was endangered.

City Building Permits Top $2¼ Millions

U.S. Record Set By June Contracts

Building permits issued by the City of Cumberland passed the $2¼ million mark this month as the Queen City headed toward the greatest construction year in its history.

The big construction program here is not an isolated case. June construction contracts in the United States totaled over $3.8 billions, the largest figure ever reported for a single month, according to F. W. Dodge Corporation, construction news and marketing specialists.

July building permits issued by the city were valued at $384,913 and brought the value of all permits issued during the first seven months of 1958 to $2,296,832, according to records of the City Engineering Department.

Eighteen construction projects, including the new Maryland Guard Armory, were included in the permits issued in July here.

Included were 11 permits for new construction valued at $379,173; five additions and improvements, $2,240, and the moving of two buildings, $3,500.

Includes Big Projects

The program included three residences valued at $25,000; two additions and one improvement to residences, $880; five garages, $2,525; one addition and one improvement to business, $1,360; the armory, $351,098; a tool shed, $400; parking lot office, $150 and movement of a building and relocation of garage, $3,050.

The heavy 1958 building program included a number of big projects such as the $871,870 gymnasium at Allegany High School, the $500,000 St. Paul's Lutheran Church project, the $214,000 Potomac Edison service center and the $131,000 addition to Memorial Hospital.

By the end of last July, building permits totaled $705,116, and they were at the $1,023,752 mark by the end of the year.

Total construction in the city totaled $1,410,066 in 1956 and $1,481,086 in 1955.

U. S. Gains General

Construction contracts in the United States in June totaled more than $3.8 billion.

The June contracts were 12 per cent above the previous high record which had been established only a month earlier, in May, and they were 18 per cent higher than in June of last year.

The June figure was pushed upward by large increases in public utility, public works and residential contracts.

According to Dodge vice president and economist Dr. George Cline Smith, the gains were general through all types of construction, with only a few exceptions.

"When signs of an upturn in construction contracts first appeared in April," Dr. Smith stated, "we reported that the recovery seemed to have a broad, solid base. This fact has been more than confirmed in May and June, with the dollar figures exceeding all expectations.

"A number of very large utility contracts, particularly in connection with the St. Lawrence project, helped boost the June total," he said, "but the most encouraging feature was perhaps the big increase in housing activity across the nation.

Public Programs Rise

"The effect of government programs was particularly noticeable in June, since public ownership contracts were 30 per cent ahead of the same month of last year. Nevertheless, privately owned projects also rose by a substantial 11 per cent. Regardless of ownership, the net effect of this upsurge in the nation's largest industry is bound to be a big boost to the rest of the economy, which will be felt for many months to come as work proceeds on the projects now under contract," added Dr. Smith.

Contracts for residential buildings in June were valued at $1,364,231,000, a gain of 20 per cent over a year ago. Contracts for large residential buildings showed the largest percentage increase—69 per cent. However, one and two-family houses, the bulk of the residential category, also rose sharply, 17 per cent ahead of last year. The number of dwelling units represented by the June contracts totalled 107,014, up 24 per cent from June 1957.

The cumulative total of contracts for future construction in the first six months of 1958 amounted to $16,788,625,000, down one per cent from the comparable 1957 period. The cumulative total of contracts by the major construction categories showed; residential at $6,504,707,000, up one per cent; heavy engineering at $4,776,056,000, up 6 per cent; and non-residential at $5,507,862,000, down 8 per cent.

City, County Will Discuss Library Needs

Meeting Is Set For City Hall

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners has accepted an invitation to meet with the Mayor and City Council at the City Hall at 3 p. m. Friday for a discussion of the library needs of the city and county.

The county commissioners got a rather vague invitation yesterday to meet with the city officials Friday afternoon to discuss the library.

For several years a number of interested citizens of Cumberland and Allegany County have contended that a county-wide library should be established. They have argued that for a comparatively small county investment, the county would receive considerably more in state and federal aid for the county library

However, the county commissioners have consistently turned a deaf ear to these arguments. One contention has been that the city immediately would drop its financial support of the Cumberland Free Public Library.

During the 1957-58 fiscal year, the Cumberland Free Public Library received $30,000 from the Mayor and Council. In submitting her report to the city officials Monday, Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian, requested that the Mayor and City Council consider a $37,679 budget for the city library—$1 for each person counted in the 1950 census of the city.

Since the old Allegany County Academy closed its doors, the county commissioners have provided a home there for the Cumberland Free Public Library. Occasionally, certain physical improvements there are financed by the county. One in the past fiscal year was the laying of acoustical tile in the walls and ceiling of the library.

Virginia Avenue Drainage Plan Termed 'Must'

Mayor J. Edwin Keech said yesterday that improvements in the storm drainage system of Virginia Avenue will be a "must" one of these days.

Sewers in the area are too small to carry the water off during heavy storms, Mayor Keech commented yesterday following an inspection of this city's sewage system.

Mayor Keech accompanied City Engineer C. R. Nuzum on a tour yesterday touching the important parts of the city's 85-mile sewage system.

The new administration, he said, wants to review the problem so it will know what can be done when funds are available.

The tour included an inspection of the 48-inch interceptor in the C & O Canal bed, which is now being cleaned; the flood control project, the route of the Cumberland Thruway, and the new Potomac Edison service center.

Also included was an inspection of the water line being laid by the Water Department to connect a 12-inch city main at Virginia and Laing avenues with the 18-inch Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company supply line at Evitts Creek.

The line will provide better water pressure in the area and include facilities for future development.

Legion Arranges Annual Outing

The child welfare committee of Fort Cumberland Post 13, American Legion, will meet tonight at 8 o'clock at the post home to complete plans for the annual picnic.

Dr. William R. Allen, chairman, said the outing will be held August 4 at Minke's. The Allegany County League for Crippled Children, Associated Charities, and Allegany-Garrett County Heart Association have been invited to have their children participate.

Fire Association Will Meet Sunday

The Allegany-Garrett Counties Volunteer Firemen's Association will meet at 2 p. m. Sunday at the Bloomington Fire Hall in Garrett County.

Francis Fatkin of Clarysville urged all fire companies in the two counties to be represented Sunday.

Beginners Golf Course Planned

The City Recreation Department is accepting applications for a beginners golf course planned August 5.

Those interested should notify the Recreation Department so plans may be completed. The class will be held if at least 15 enroll.

Dick Buskey, golf pro at the Cumberland Country Club, will be instructor for the classes planned at the Fort Cumberland Golf Course on Oldtown Road.

The classes will be held on Tuesday and Thursdays at 6 and 7 p. m. There will be an instructor's fee covering the six lessons.

Eugene Mason, rec director, said members of the class are advised to learn with their own clubs but that free clubs will be available.

Regester To Meet With Mayor, Council

The Mayor and Council will meet today with Robert T. Regester, consulting engineer, to discuss the city's sewage treatment system.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p. m. in the office of Mayor J. Edwin Keech.

Mayor Keech said Mr. Regester will be asked to brief city officials on the construction and operation of the system.

The $2,000,000 plant, designed and supervised by Mr. Regester, was placed in operation last fall.

40 Allegany Countians Will Attend 4-H Week

Some 40 Allegany countians will attend the State 4-H Club Week starting Monday at College Park, according to Assistant County Agent James B. Arnold.

About 1,100 4-H Club members, local leaders and 4-H Club agents from all 23 Maryland counties are expected to attend.

The assistant county agent will go to College Park today to assist in pre-registration activity in assigning 4-H Club members to various tribes.

Seven of the county 4-H Club members who will have special duties at College Park will report Saturday. They include David Garland, recreation leader; Richard Heavner and Bobby Schubert, tribe leaders; Louis Miltenberger and Dorothy Robertson, page hostesses; Louis Miltenberger, in charge of the information desk, and Joyce White, song leader.

Nearly all of the others from this county will leave the Court House by bus at 7:30 a. m. Monday for College Park. Others in the county group will include Miss Nancy R. Marsteller, assistant home demonstration agent; Mrs. Louis Daniels, Mrs. Nelson Keyes, Mrs. A. D. Lechliter, Mrs. Russell O. Smith and Homer Staggs, all local leaders.

Among the 4-H members leaving are William Baker, Kathryn Barclay, Kay Beeman, Elaine Bridges, Patricia Campbell, Marlene Clark, Rita Daniels, Ann Hardinger, Herb Heavner, James Heavner, Mary Elizabeth Keyes, Mary Kimberlin, Charlotte King, Patricia King, Judith Ann Kubes, Darlene Logue, Wendell Long, Sally Miller, Suzie Miller, Eileen Morgan, Charlotte Murphy, Eugene O'Baker, Joyce Roland, Donna Simpson, Carol Valentine and Nancy Ward.

Oldtown Man Shot; Police Jail Neighbor

Branson L. Sisler of near Oldtown was in "good" condition at Memorial Hospital late last night with shotgun pellet wounds in his chest.

State Police said Ralph Parker, a neighbor of Sisler, was being taken to County Jail at midnight, but no formal charge had been filed at that time.

Police were told that Parker had shot Sisler at Sisler's home shortly before 10 p. m., but the cause of the shooting was not known at midnight.

$6,000 Collected In County Taxes

Tax Collector J. Wallace Close at the Court House reported that he has collected more than $6,900 in county and state real estate taxes.

Monday the receipts were $9,000 and heavy collections are anticipated today and tomorrow as county taxpayers rush to take advantage of the four per cent discount allowed on county taxes paid during July. During June there was a five per cent discount on county taxes and the yield that month was a record $2,101,000.

During July collections have been average between $3,000 and $4,000 a day but are on the upswing in these final days of the month. When August arrives the discount on county taxes will become three per cent. In September one-half of one per cent interest will be charged.

Kiwanis To Meet

The Kiwanis Club will hold its luncheon meeting Thursday noon in Central YMCA. Albert D. Darby Jr., president, reminds members that this is report day for committees and committee members should sit at their respective tables with their committee chairmen.

Missionary Theme Set For Youth Rally

The Tri-State Youth for Christ will conduct its August rally Saturday at 7:45 p. m. in the Salvation Army Citadel, 115 North Mechanic Street.

The speaker will be Rev. J. O. Percy, general secretary of the Interdenominational Foreign Mission Association, which comprises 40 mission societies and over 7,400 missionaries.

Music with a missionary theme will be presented by a youth choir, trio, soloist, and instrumentalists. The public is invited.

Oldtown Fire Company Gets County Help

Commissioners Contribute $400

A $400 contribution to the new Oldtown Volunteer Fire Company was voted yesterday by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners after two representatives of the Allegany-Garrett Counties Volunteer Firemen's Association attended the commissioners' meeting to advocate the donation.

The spokesmen for the association were Felix Foote and Harry Walters. They said the Oldtown unit has been accepted into the association and suggested that a $400 contribution would help the firemen get well organized.

While at yesterday's session, Mr. Foote advanced a couple of complaints to the county commissioners. He said county road workers tarred a road in front of his son's property and the tar messed up his son's white picket fence.

He also complained about a drainage problem on land he owns. Both Foote complaints were referred to County Roads Supervisor J. Walker Chapman.

Commissioner James Orr commended Mr. Chapman for the wonderful job he said the latter has done in the past seven-and-onehalf years as county roads supervisor. He wished him health and happiness in his retirement which starts August 1. Mr. Chapman had worked for the roads department since 1949 and had been supervisor since December 1950.

Harry S. Skelly has been appointed to succeed Mr. Chapman.

Local 1024 Names Convention Delegates

F. Patrick Allender, business agent, and Josiah Mullenax, trustee, have been elected delegates from Carpenters Local 1024 to the National Carpenters Union convention which will open November 10 in St. Louis, Mo.

Henry Roland and Lawrence Winebrenner were elected alternates at a meeting of the local here Monday night.

All locals in the United States are being urged to send delegates to the convention, which will be the first legislative and judicial session to be held by the union.

Mr. Allender said the convention opens November 10 and will continue until business is completed.

Bowling Green Firemen Plan Parade Friday

A parade Friday evening along McMullen Highway will feature the week-long bazaar of the Bowling Green Volunteer Fire Company.

The parade will form at 7 p. m. and the march will begin at 7:30 p. m.

Vicky Eackles of Mt. Royal Playground, who was crowned Cumberland's Playground Queen earlier this month, will lead the parade. The Bowling Green Boy Scouts, organized recently, also will make their first parade appearance.

Four Persons Hurt In Crash

Four persons were injured in a two-car collision on U.S. Route 40 at Nave's Crossroad yesterday afternoon about 2:15.

Trooper L. W. Lewis of the State Police reported that none of the injured were seriously hurt.

Edward House, 36, of 135 Spring Street, Frostburg, was treated at Sacred Heart Hospital for a deep laceration of the forehead. His son, Stephen House, 9, was X-rayed for a possible fracture of the jaw.

Elmer Butcher, 30, Flint, Mich., a hitchiker in the car driven by Mr. House, was treated for minor bruises, as was George Mongold, 33, of 106 Helen Street, who was driving alone in the second vehicle.

Officer Cubbage Takes Traffic Course

Officer Charles E. Cubbage of the Cumberland Police will complete a course in traffic law enforcement Friday at the University of Maryland.

Officer Cubbage is one of 25 officers who are enrolled in the annual Maryland Traffic Institute.

Softballers Are Charged With Trespass

Magistrate Baron Withholds Decision

Two members of the Corriganville team of the County Softball League were charged with trespassing and given hearings in Trial Magistrates Court yesterday.

Magistrate Morris Baron dismissed the charge against John Price, secretary of the club, and withheld for 30 days a decision in the case of Joseph Raygor, a player.

The magistrate said the charges were preferred by Mr. and Mrs. Alvie D. Wilson, who own property adjoining the softball field on which the team plays its games.

An altercation last May between Mr. Wilson and some of the players over the situation resulted in Mr. Wilson's being struck in the face, the magistrate said.

The Wilsons testified that the players were trespassing across their property and ruining the lawn. They told the court they had warned the members of the team not to trespass again last Friday, but that their warning was not heeded.

Magistrate Baron said he dismissed the charge against Price because there was no conclusive proof that Price had been one of those warned on Friday.

He then withheld a decision on the charge against Raygor to see if the parties can reach an amicable and satisfactory agreement within the next 30 days.

The magistrate pointed out that softball is one of the main sources of recreation in Corriganville and that the ball diamond has been there for many years so he hopes that some basis can be found for everyone to get along.

He said his decision in the case will depend on what future arrangements are made.

Cream-Filled Pastry Refrigeration Rule Will Be Enforced

The Allegany-County Health Department this month began enforcing a State Health Department regulation which requires that cream-filled pastries be refrigerated during storage and display.

Such foods, according to J. B. Dowling, sanitarian, have been recognized for many years as the vehicle in the transmission of many cases of food poisoning.

The State Health Department advised that cream-filled pastries, made from milk and/or eggs, include cocoanut cream pies, cream pies, custard pies, cocoanut custard pies, banana cream pies, chocolate eclairs, eclairs and any pie with an egg meringue.

In a letter outlining department policy on cream-filled pastries, Dr. C. S. Brinsfield, chief of the Division of Food Control, said "the time has come when the refrigeration of these pastries is a must."

Fair Association Seeks Licenses

Harry J. Barton, John H. Mosner and J. Glenn Beall Jr. as trustees for the Cumberland Fair Association Inc. have filed applications with the Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverages License Commissioners for two special alcoholic beverages licenses.

The first is for a Class C beer license from August 18 through August 23, the dates of the annual Cumberland Fair. The second is a 12-day Class C beer, wine and liquor license operating during the horse race meeting. These dates are September 15 through September 20 and September 22 through September 27.

The applications will be considered when the liquor board next meets August 5.

Ridgeley Ambulance Ready

The newly-purchased ambulance has been readied for use and will be put in service Friday by the Ridgeley, W. Va., volunteer police unit. The ambulance will be maintained in the city building garage and will be on call 24 hours a day. The vehicle will be manned by the 10-member volunteer police force which supplements the Ridgeley regular force. Ridgeley, Carpenter's Addition and Wiley Ford areas will be serviced and emergency calls may be placed at RE 8-9400 or RE 8-8988.

Youth Seriously Injured In Dynamite Blast

Charles Beal, 19, May Lose One Eye

A 19-year-old Meyersdale, Pa., youth was seriously injured yesterday morning when he sustained severe face injuries in a dynamite explosion while working on a farm in Meyersdale.

Authorities at Memorial Hospital reported Charles Beal was in "fair" condition after undergoing surgery late last night.

The hospital said the youth is expected to lose the sight of one of his eyes. He also was badly bruised about the arms and chest in the explosion, and suffered a possible fracture of the right wrist.

Cleared Spring

The accident occurred about 10 a. m. on the farm of Ezra Sipple near the town limits of Meyersdale, where the Beal youth is employed.

Mr. Sipple said he and his nephew, Henry Sipple, and the accident victim had gone out to the pasture to clear mud from a spring that was being used by cattle.

Mr. Sipple stated the Beal youth said he could do the job quicker with dynamite, and his employer had provided the boy with two sticks of dynamite.

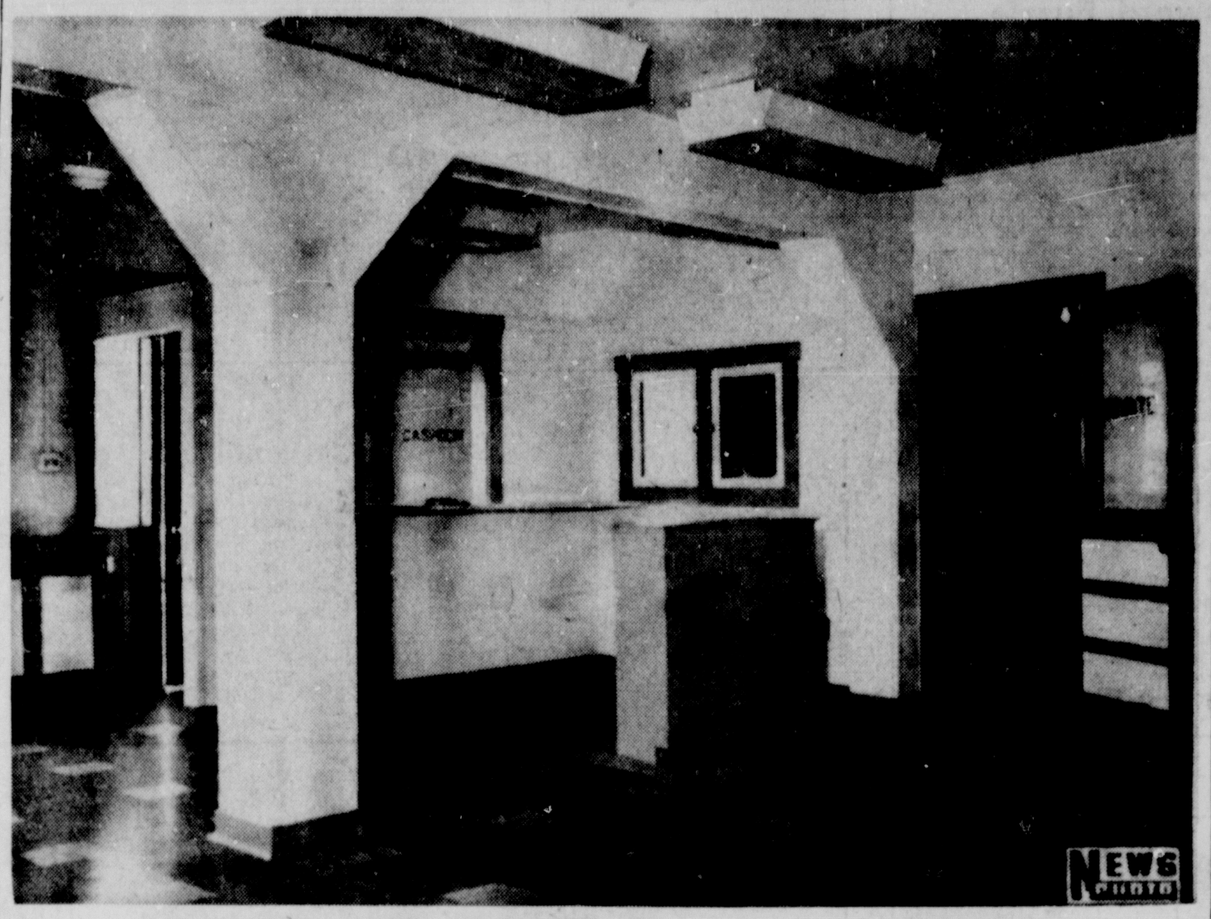
Beal lit the fuses on the two sticks, but only one charge exploded and Beal went to investigate.

Second Charge Explodes

The farm owner said the second charge of dynamite went off as Beal neared the edge of the spring.

He was taken to Meyersdale Community Hospital for treatmen and was transferred to Memorial Hospital shortly before noon.

The injured youth resides with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Beal, Meyersdale, and has been employed by Mr. Sipple for several years.



New Freight Office Quarters

This attractive room is part of the new freight office prepared for the Western Maryland Railway in the Fidelity warehouse on Canal Street in connection with the carrier's plan to demolish its freight shed and freight office on South Mechanic Street to provide space for a 100-car parking lot. Present plans call for moving into the new quarters over the weekend, a railway spokesman said. The City of Cumberland closed Canal Street by Ordinance 2084, adopted April 28. Final action on the closing is being held up until commissioners named to assess damages or benefits present their report.

West Virginia Youth Is Badly Hurt In Crash

Harold Poland, 19, In Memorial Hospital

A 19-year-old Shanks, W. Va., youth was critically injured in an automobile accident shortly after noon yesterday on Milleson Mill Road near Springfield.

Harold Poland underwent surgery last night in Memorial Hospital here, where attendants said his condition was "critical." The youth sustained compound fractures of both legs, internal injuries and was suffering from shock.

Sgt. W. F. Bowley, Romney detachment of the State Police, said he is continuing the investigation of the accident.

He said Poland apparently was the driver of a car which contained several other persons at the time of the crash. The automobile failed to negotiate a right turn as it was traveling north toward Springfield, Sgt. Bowley said.

The vehicle hit a ledge of rock beside the road, careened across the highway and struck a tree, then skidded over a 12-foot embankment to land upright in a small creek known as Abernathy Run.

The victim was brought to the hospital in Cumberland by ambulance from Fort Ashby Volunteer Fire Company.

Sgt. Bowley said when he arrived at the scene of the crash he found the automobile unoccupied. Unable to check with the driver of the car, the officer said he has not determined who else was in the automobile.

Calf Roams City Streets, Gets Shot

A three-months-old Black Angus calf escaped from the Wolfe's Meat Market slaughterhouse and caused considerable excitement in North End before it was shot and killed.

The calf apparently got away when a door in the slaughterhouse was left open. It roamed through streets and the back yards of houses on Holland Street, Columbia Avenue and Shriver Avenue before being caught.

The animal damaged several lawns and flower beds and knocked down a picket fence at the home of Miss Florence Hartman, 815 Shriver Avenue, where it was killed by a slaughterhouse employe.

Employes of the market roped the animal but were unable to hold it in its frightened frenzy, and it was shot.

Officer Fred Daum of the Cumberland Police Department investigated and said that quite a number of children crowded around the area where the calf roamed but that none of them was endangered.

City Building Permits Top $2¼ Millions

U.S. Record Set By June Contracts

Building permits issued by the City of Cumberland passed the $2¼ million mark this month as the Queen City headed toward the greatest construction year in its history.

The big construction program here is not an isolated case. June construction contracts in the United States totaled over $3.8 billions, the largest figure ever reported for a single month, according to F. W. Dodge Corporation, construction news and marketing specialists.

July building permits issued by the city were valued at $384,913 and brought the value of all permits issued during the first seven months of 1958 to $2,296,832, according to records of the City Engineering Department.

Eighteen construction projects, including the new Maryland Guard Armory, were included in the permits issued in July here.

Included were 11 permits for new construction valued at $379,173; five additions and improvements, $2,240, and the moving of two buildings, $3,500.

Includes Big Projects

The program included three residences valued at $25,000; two additions and one improvement to residences, $880; five garages, $2,525; one addition and one improvement to business, $1,360; the armory, $351,098; a tool shed, $400; parking lot office, $150 and movement of a building and relocation of garage, $3,050.

The heavy 1958 building program included a number of big projects such as the $871,870 gymnasium at Allegany High School, the $500,000 St. Paul's Lutheran Church project, the $214,000 Potomac Edison service center and the $131,000 addition to Memorial Hospital.

By the end of last July, building permits totaled $705,116, and they were at the $1,023,752 mark by the end of the year.

Total construction in the city totaled $1,410,066 in 1956 and $1,481,086 in 1955.

U. S. Gains General

Construction contracts in the United States in June totaled more than $3.8 billion.

The June contracts were 12 per cent above the previous high record which had been established only a month earlier, in May, and they were 18 per cent higher than in June of last year.

The June figure was pushed upward by large increases in public utility, public works and residential contracts.

According to Dodge vice president and economist Dr. George Cline Smith, the gains were general through all types of construction, with only a few exceptions.

"When signs of an upturn in construction contracts first appeared in April," Dr. Smith stated, "we reported that the recovery seemed to have a broad, solid base. This fact has been more than confirmed in May and June, with the dollar figures exceeding all expectations.

"A number of very large utility contracts, particularly in connection with the St. Lawrence project, helped boost the June total," he said, "but the most encouraging feature was perhaps the big increase in housing activity across the nation.

Public Programs Rise

"The effect of government programs was particularly noticeable in June, since public ownership contracts were 30 per cent ahead of the same month of last year. Nevertheless, privately owned projects also rose by a substantial 11 per cent. Regardless of ownership, the net effect of this upsurge in the nation's largest industry is bound to be a big boost to the rest of the economy, which will be felt for many months to come as work proceeds on the projects now under contract," added Dr. Smith.

Contracts for residential buildings in June were valued at $1,364,231,000, a gain of 20 per cent over a year ago. Contracts for large residential buildings showed the largest percentage increase—69 per cent. However, one and two-family houses, the bulk of the residential category, also rose sharply, 17 per cent ahead of last year. The number of dwelling units represented by the June contracts totalled 107,014, up 24 per cent from June 1957.

The cumulative total of contracts for future construction in the first six months of 1958 amounted to $16,788,625,000, down one per cent from the comparable 1957 period. The cumulative total of contracts by the major construction categories showed; residential at $6,504,707,000, up one per cent; heavy engineering at $4,776,056,000, up 6 per cent; and non-residential at $5,507,862,000, down 8 per cent.

Virginia Avenue Drainage Plan Termed 'Must'

Mayor J. Edwin Keech said yesterday that improvements in the storm drainage system of Virginia Avenue will be a "must" one of these days.

Sewers in the area are too small to carry the water off during heavy storms, Mayor Keech commented yesterday following an inspection of this city's sewage system.

Mayor Keech accompanied City Engineer C. R. Nuzum on a tour yesterday touching the important parts of the city's 85-mile sewage system.

The new administration, he said, wants to review the problem so it will know what can be done when funds are available.

The tour included an inspection of the 48-inch interceptor in the C & O Canal bed, which is now being cleaned; the flood control project, the route of the Cumberland Thruway, and the new Potomac Edison service center.

Also included was an inspection of the water line being laid by the Water Department to connect a 12-inch city main at Virginia and Laing avenues with the 18-inch Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company supply line at Evitts Creek.

The line will provide better water pressure in the area and include facilities for future development.

City, County Will Discuss Library Needs

Meeting Is Set For City Hall

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners has accepted an invitation to meet with the Mayor and City Council at the City Hall at 3 p. m. Friday for a discussion of the library needs of the city and county.

The county commissioners got a rather vague invitation yesterday to meet with the city officials Friday afternoon to discuss the library.

For several years a number of interested citizens of Cumberland and Allegany County have contended that a county-wide library should be established. They have argued that for a comparatively small county investment, the county would receive considerably more in state and federal aid for the county library.

However, the county commissioners have consistently turned a deaf ear to these arguments. One contention has been that the city immediately would drop its financial support of the Cumberland Free Public Library.

During the 1957-58 fiscal year, the Cumberland Free Public Library received $30,000 from the Mayor and Council. In submitting her report to the city officials Monday, Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian, requested that the Mayor and City Council consider a $37,679 budget for the city library—$1 for each person counted in the 1950 census of the city.

Since the old Allegany County Academy closed its doors, the county commissioners have provided a home there for the Cumberland Free Public Library. Occasionally, certain physical improvements there are financed by the county. One in the past fiscal year was the laying of acoustical tile in the walls and ceiling of the library.

40 Allegany Countians Will Attend 4-H Week

Some 40 Allegany countians will attend the State 4-H Club Week starting Monday at College Park, according to Assistant County Agent James B. Arnold.

About 1,100 4-H Club members, local leaders and 4-H Club agents from all 23 Maryland counties are expected to attend.

The assistant county agent will go to College Park today to assist in pre-registration activity in assigning 4-H Club members to various tribes.

Softballers Are Charged With Trespass

Magistrate Baron Withholds Decision

Two members of the Corriganville team of the County Softball League were charged with trespassing and given hearings in Trial Magistrates Court yesterday.

Beginners Golf Course Planned

The City Recreation Department is accepting applications for a beginners golf course planned August 5.

Those interested should notify the Recreation Department so plans may be completed. The class will be held if at least 15 enroll.

Dick Buskey, golf pro at the Cumberland Country Club, will be instructor for the classes planned at the Fort Cumberland Golf Course on Oldtown Road.

The classes will be held on Tuesday and Thursdays at 6 and 7 p. m. There will be an instructor's fee covering the six lessons.

Eugene Mason, rec director, said members of the class are advised to learn with their own clubs but that free clubs will be available.

Regester To Meet With Mayor, Council

The Mayor and Council will meet today with Robert T. Regester, consulting engineer, to discuss the city's sewage treatment system.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p. m. in the office of Mayor J. Edwin Keech.

Mayor Keech said Mr. Regester will be asked to brief city officials on the construction and operation of the system.

Ridgeley Ambulance Ready

The newly-purchased ambulance has been readied for use and will be put in service Friday by the Ridgeley, W. Va., volunteer police unit. The ambulance will be maintained in the city building garage and will be on call 24 hours a day. The vehicle will be manned by the 10-member volunteer police force which supplements the Ridgeley regular force. Ridgeley, Carpenter's Addition and Wiley Ford areas will be serviced and emergency calls may be placed at RE 8-9400 or RE 8-8988.

Fair Association Seeks Licenses

Harry J. Barton, John H. Mosner and J. Glenn Beall Jr. as trustees for the Cumberland Fair Association Inc. have filed applications with the Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverages License Commissioners for two special alcoholic beverages licenses.

The first is for a Class C beer license from August 18 through August 23, the dates of the annual Cumberland Fair. The second is a 12-day Class C beer, wine and liquor license operating during the horse race meeting. These dates are September 15 through September 20 and September 22 through September 27.

The applications will be considered when the liquor board next meets August 5.
